EVPHVES

AND HISENG-LAND.

Containing his voyage and adventures:

Mixed with fundry pretty discourses of honest love, the description of the Country, the Court, and the manners of the Ile.

Delightfull to be read, and nothing hurtfull to be regarded: wherein there is small offence by lightnesse given to the wise, and lesse occasion of loosenes proffered to the wanton.

By Iohn Lily, Master of Art.

Commend it or amend it.

AT LONDON,
Printed for William Leake, dwelling in Pauls churchyard, at the figne of the Holy-ghost.

1 6 0 6.

mague 1 The Printed for Mann Real admidling in Pauls church had being and the lines

To the right Honourable my very good

Lord and Master, Edward de Vere, Earle of Oxensord, Vicount Bulbeck, Lord of Escales and Badlesmere, and Lord great Chamberlaine of England, John Lily wisheth long life, with increase of honour.

HE first picture that Phidias the first Paynter shadowed, was the portraiture of his owne person, saying thus; If it be well, I will paint many besides Phidias: if ill, it shall offend none but Phidias. In the like maner fareth it with me(right Honourable) who never before handling the penfill, did for my first counterfait colour mine owne Euphwes, being of this minde, that if it were liked, I would draw more besides Euphwes: if loathed, grieue none but Euphwes. Since that, some there have been, that eyther dissembling the faults they saw, for seare to discourage me, or not examining them for loue they bore to me, that praysed my old worke, & vrged metomake a new, whose words I thus answered; If I should coyne a worse, it woulde bee thought that the former was framed by chaunce, as Protegenes did the forme of his dogge; if a better, for flatterie, as Narcissus did, who onely was in loue with his owne face; if none at all, as froward as the Musition, who being intreated, will scarse sing Sol Fa, but not desired, straine aboue Ela.

But their importunity admitted no excuse, insomuch that I was enforced to prefer their friendship before mine own same, being more carefull to satisfie their requests, then seareful of others reports; so that at the last I was content to set another sace to Emphues, but yet suft behinde the other, like the image of Iamu, not running together like the Hopplitides of Parrhassus, least they should seeme so white brothers, that they might be both thought bastards. The Picture whereof Iyeeld as common for all to view, but the patronage onely to your Lordship, as able to defend knowing that the sace of Alexander stamped in Copper, doth make it currant, that the name of Casar wrought in Canuas, is esteemed as Cambricke, that the very feather of an Easgle, is of sorce to consume the Beetle.

I have brought into the world two children, of the first I was deliuered before my friends thought me conceiued, of the second, I went a whole yeere big, and yet when every one thought me ready to lye

downe,

The Epiftle Dedicatorie.

downe, I did then quicken. But good huswives shall make my excuse, who know that Hennes doe not lay Egges when they cluck, but when they cackle, nor men set foorth Bookes when they promise, but when they performe. And in this I resemble the Lapwing, who fearing her young ones to be destroyed by passengers, styeth with a salfe cry farre from the neasts, making those that looke for them, seek where they are not. So I, suspecting that Euphnes would be earped of some curious Reader, thought by some salfe shewe to bring them in hope of that which I then meant not, leading them with a longing of a second part, that they might speake well of the first, being never farther from my studie, then when they thought me houring ouer it.

My first burthen, coming before his time, must needes bee a blind whelp, the second brought forth after his time, must needs be a mon-ster. The one I sent to a noble man to nurse, who with great love brought him up for a yeare: so that where soener he wander, he hath his Nurses name in his fore-head, where sucking his first milke, hee cannot forget his first Master.

The other (right Honourable) beeing yet in his swathe-clouts, I commit most humbly to your Lordships protection, that in his infancie he may be kept by your good care from falles, & in his youth, by your great countenance shielded from blowes, and in his age, by your gracious countenaunce defended from contempt. Hee is my youngest and my last, and the paine that I sustained for him in travaile, hath made me past teeming, yet doe I thinke my selfe very fertile, in that I was not altogether barren. Glad I was to fend them both abroad, least making a wanton of my first, with a blinde conceite, I should resemble the Ape, and kill it by culling it; and not able to rule the second, I should with the Viper, loose my blond with mine own broade. Twinnes they are not, but yet brothers, the one nothing refembling the other, and yet as all children are now-a-daies, both like the Father.

Wherein I am not valike vato the vaskilfull Painter, who having drawne the Twinnes of Happerster (who were as like as one peafe is to another) and being told of his friendes, that they were no more like then Saturne and Apollo, he had no other shift to manifest what his worke was, then ouer their heads to write: The Twinnes of Hippersteet. So may it be, that had I not named Emphase, fewe would naue

The Epiftle Dedicatory.

have thought it had beene Explains, not that in goodnesse the one so far excelleth the other, but that both being so bad, it is hard to judge which is the worst. This vaskilfulnes is no waies to bee covered, but as Accius did his shortnes, who being a little Poet, framed for himselfe a great picture: so I being a naughtie Painter, have gotten a most noble Patron; being of Visses minde, who thought himselfe safe under the shield of Aux.

I have now finished both my labours, the one being hatched in the hard Winter with the Alcion, the other not during to bud till the cold were past, like the Mulberry: in eyther of the which, or in both, if I seeme to gleane after anothers Cart for a sew eares of Corne, or of the Taylors shreds to make me a linery, I will not deny but that I am one of those Poets, which the Painters saine to come vnto Homers bason, there to lap vp that he doth cast vp.

In that I have written, I desire no praise of others, but patience: altogether vnwilling, because enery way vnworthy to be accounted a worke-man. It fufficeth me to be a water-bough no budde I may be of the same roote; to be the yron, no steele, so I may bee in the fame blade; to be Vineger, no Wine, foit be in the same caske: to grinde colours for Apelles, though I cannot garnish, so I bee of the fame shoppe. What I have done, was onely to keepe my selfe from sleepe, as the Crane doth the stone in her foote, and I would also with the fame Crane I had been filent, holding a stone in my mouth. But it falleth out with me as with the yong wraftler that came to the games of Olympus, who having taken a foyle, thought fcome to leane, till he had received a fall : or him that being pricked in the finger with a bramble, thrusteth his whole hand amongst the thornes for anger. For I, seeing my selfe not able to stand on the Ise, did neuerthelesse aduenture to name, and being with my first Booke Diought into difgrace, could not cease vittill I was brought into contempt by the second wherein I resemble those that having once wet their feete, care not how deep they wade.

In the which my wading (right Honourable) if the enuyous shal clap leade to my heeles to make me finke, yet if your Lordship with your little finger do but holde mee vp by the chinne, I shall swimme, and be so far from being drowned, that I shall scarce be duckt.

Mihen Bucephalm was painted, Apelles craued the judgement of mone but Zenzes: when Inpiter was carued, Prisim asked the centure

A

The Epifile Dedicatory,

of none but Lyfopus: now Emphnes is shadowed, onely I appeale to your Honor, not meaning thereby to be carelesse what others think but knowing that if your Lordship allowe it there is none but will like it: and if there be any so nice whom nothing can please, if hee will not commend it. let him amend it.

And heere (right Honourable) although the Historie seeme vnperfect, I hope your Lordship will pardon it. Apelles dyed not before hee could finish Venus but before hee durst. Nichomachus left Tindarides rawly, for feare of anger, not for want of Art. Timonsachus broke of Medea scarce halfe coloured, not that hee was not willing to end it, but that he was threatened. I have not made Euphnes to stand without legges, for that I want matter to make them, but might to maintaine them; fo that I am enforced with the olde Painters, to colour my Picture but to the middle, as hee that drew Cyclops, who in a little Table made him to lye behinde an Oake, where one might perceive but a peece, yet conceive that al the rest lay behind the tree: or as he that painted a horse in the River with halfe legges, Icauing the pasterns for the viewer to imagine, as in the water.

For he that vieweth Emphaes, will say, that hee is drawne but to the walte, that he peepeth as it were from behinde some Screene, that his feete are as it were in the water; which maketh mee prefent your Lordship with the wounded body of Heltor, as it appeared to Andromache, and with halfe a face, as the Painter did him that had but one eye; for I am compelled to draw a hole on , before I can finish the legge, and in steede of a stoote to fet downe a shooe. So that where as I had thought to flowe the cunning of a Chyrurgion by mine Anatomie with a knife, I must play the Taylor on the shopboard with a payre of theeres. But whether Emphies limp with Vulcan, as borne lame, or goe on filts with Amphienax, for want of legs, I trust I may fay, his feete shoulde have beene olde Helena; for the poore Fisherman that was warned heeshould not fish, did yet at his doore make Nets, and the olde Vintener of Venice, that was forbidden to fell wine, did not withfranding hang out an Ivy-bush

This Pamphlet (right Honourable) contayning the effate of England, I know none more fit to defend it, then one of the Nobilitie of England, nor any of the Nobilitie more auncient comore honourable, then your Lordship t besides that, describing the condition of the English Court, and the Maiestie of our dread Soueraigne, I could not finde

The Epiftle Dedicatory.

finde one more noble in the Court then your Honour, who is, or should be evader her Maielly in chiefest Court, by birth borne to the greatest office, and therefore mee thought by right to be placed in great authoritie. For whose compareth the honour of your Lordships noble house, and the sidelitie of your Auncestors, may well say, which no other can truely gain-say, VERO NIHIL VE. RIVS. So that I commit the end of all my paines vnto your most Honourable protection, assuring my selfe that the little Cock-boate is safe when it is hoysed into a tall shippe, that the Cat dare not fetch the Mouse out of the Lyons denne, that Euphnes shall be without daunger by your Lordships patronage: otherwise I cannot see, where I might finde succour in any noble personage. Thus praying continually for the increase of your Lordships honour, with all other thinges that you would wish, or God will graunt, I end.

一种的 的对方的现在分词

the plant of the land of the land

รางการที่สุดที่รับสำนักของ เพราะสารแล้ว การที่สุดเกิดเกิดเก็น ได้เก็บสิ่งเก็บรายการที่สุดเก็บ ของ ทุกการเลย ทางการไทย เพราะสารเลย สุดของสิ่งเก็บสารแก้ การที่สุดเก็บ ของ การเก็บสารแก้วย เก็บสิ่งเลี้ยง เก็บสิ่งเก็บสารแก้วย เก็บสารแก้วย เก็บสารแก้วย เก็บสารแก้วย เก็บสารแก้วย เ

Your Lordships most durifully to command

Lohn Lily.

To the Ladies and Gentle-women of England, John Lily wishesh what they would.

Rachne having woven in cloth of Arras a Rainebone of sundry silkes, it was objected unto her by a Lady more captious then cunning that in her worke there wanted some colours, for that in a Rainebon there should be all. V nto whom she replyed, if the colours lacke thou lookest for, thou must imagine that they are on the other side of the cloth; for in the Skie we can discerne but one side of the Rainebowe, and what colours are in the other see we cannot, quelle we may.

In the like manner (Ladies and Gentlewomen) am I to shape an answere in the behalfe of Euphues, who framing diners questions and quirkes of lone; if by some more curious then needeth, it shall be tolde him, that some sleights are wanting. I must say they are noted in the back side of the book. When Venus is painted, we cannot see her back but her face, so that all on their things that are to be recounted in love, Euphues thinketh the to hang at Venus backe in a budget, which because he cannot see, he will not sette downe. Those discourses, I have not clapt in a cluster, thinking with my selfe, that Ladies had rather be sprinkled with sweete water, then washed: so that I have sweet them heere and there, as it were Strawberries, not in h: apes, as Hops be: because I perceive you have more delight to gather slowers one by one in a Garden, then to snatch them by handfuls from a garland.

It resteth Ladies that you vouch safe the paines to reade st; but at such times as you spende in playing with your little dogs. And yet wil I not pinch you of that passime, for I am content that your dogs lie in your laps, so Euphues may be in your hands: that when you shall be weary in reading of the one, you may be ready to sport with the other: or handle him as you doe your innkers, that when you can eate no more, you tre some in your napkin for your children: or if you be silled with the sirst part, put the second in your pocket for your waiting maides. Euphues had rather lye sout in a Ladies coffer then open in a Schollers (tudy.

Tet

To the Ladyes and Gentle women

Tet after dinner you may oner-looke him to keepe you from fleepe or il you be beaute, to bring you a fleep: for to morke upon a full flomacke is against Physick, and ther fore better it were to hold Euphues in your hands, though you let him fall when you be willing to make, then to sewe in a clout and pricke your singers when you begin to nad.

What soener bee hashwritten, it is not to flatter, for he never reaped any remard by your sexe but repentance, neither can it be to mocke you, for he never knew any thing by your sexe but righteousnes. But I feare no anger for saying well, when there in none but thinketh she deservet better. She that hash no glasse to dresse her head, will use a bowle of water, she that wanterb a sleeke-stone to smooth her linnen, will take a Pibble: the country dame girdeth berself as straight in the waste with a coorse cadd is, as the Madam of the Court with a silke Riband. So that seeing every one so willing to be pransed, I couldnot think any one unwilling to be praised. One hand washeth another, but they both wash the face: one foote goeth by another, but they both carry the body. Euphues & Philautus praise one another, but they both extoll women: Therfore in my minde, you are more beholding to Gentlemen that make the colours, then to the Paymers that drawe your counters dite: for that Apelles cunning is nothing if he paint with water, and the beautie of women not much if they goe unpraised.

If you thinke this lone dreamed not done, yet mee thinkethyou may as well like that lone which is penned and not practifed, as that flower that is wrought with a needle, and groweth not by nature: the one you we are in your heads for the faire sight, though it have no sanow, the other you may read for to passe the time, though it bring small pastime.

You choose cloth that will weare whitest not that will last longest: colours that looke freshest, not that endure soundest: and I would you would read Bookes that have more shew of pleasure, then ground of prosit; then should Euphues be as ofte in your hands, being but a toy, as Lawne on your heads being but trash, the one wilbe scarse liked after once reading, of the other is worne out after the first washing.

There is nothing lighter then a feather, yet is it set aloft in a womans hat, nothing slighter then haire, yet is it most frisled in a Ladyes head, so that I aming ood hope, though there be nothing of lesse account then Euphucs, yet he shall be marked with Ladies eyes, and liked some-times in their eares: for this I have diligently observed, that there shall bee nothing found that may offend the chast mind with unseemely termes or uncleanly take.

Then

To the Ladyes and Gentle-women

Then Ladies I commit my selfe to your courtesies, crawing this only that having read you conceale your cenfure, writing your indgements as you do the Polies in your Rings, which are abonies next to the finger, not to bee feene of him that holdeth you by the hands, & yet knowen to you that we are the on your hands: if you be wroong (which cannot be done wishout wrong) it were better to cut the shoot then burne the last, If a Taylor make your Gowne too little you couer his fault with a broad stomacher, if too great, with a number of pleights, if too (hort, with a faire guard, if too long, with a falle gathering:my trust is you will deale in the like maner with Euph; that if be have not fed your humour, yet you wil excuse him more then the Taylour: for could Euphues take the measure of a womans minde, as the Taylour doth of her bodie he would goe as neere to fit them for a fancie as the other doth for a fashion.

Hee that weighs winds, must base a feed die hand to hold the Ballance. and he shat fearcheth a momans thoughts, must baue his owne stayed. But least I make my Epistle, as you doe new-found Bracelets, endlesse, I will frame it like a Bullet, which is no fooner in the mold but it is made. Committing your Ladiships, to the Almighty who graunt you all you would have, and should haven fo your wishes stand with his will. And so I hum bly bid you farewell.

W. Service

Your Ladiships to commaund

Toba Zily - consequence of the man and the second of the second of the second of

The state of the s some more than the second of the second of the second second of the second

South I shue be most til god to be de to the state of the and the first state there was a first that the said

a the first the first the first mount the section with the

All a start of the succession with the start of the start of the that I am me no is to thought in a notion and the are

Sink gerbeingthe had been mit met eres, the time of the The state of the s disconsisted the same findings of the charlet.

th

lil

TO THE GENTLEMEN

Endemen, Emphus, is come at the length, though too late: for whole ablence, I hope three bad excuses shall stand in steade, of one good reason. First in his travaile you must thinke he loytered, tarrying many a moneth in Italy wiewing the Ladies are Painters carner. The chiefermit will hand be take frague of thop, when he thould have been on the Sessin's Marchans (hippe, not valike vato an idle harving whose catching of flyels when thee should sweepe Copwebs.

Secondly, being a great frare from Arbeni to England, her hought to fray for the advantage of a Leape-yeare: and had not this years

leapt with him, I thinke he had not yet leapt hyther.

onetiathe Broke to make the outline

Thirdly, being arrived, hee was as long in viewing of London, as hee was in comming to it, not far differing from Gentlewomen, who are longer a dreffing their heades, then all their whole bodies. But now hee is come Gentlemen, my request is onely to bid him welcome: for divers there are, not that they dislike the matter, but that they hate the man, that will not sticke to teare Euphnes, because they doe enuy Lily: wherein they resemble angry dogs, which byte the stone, not him that throweth it, or the cholericke Horse-ryder, who being cast from a young Colt, and not daring to kill the horse, went into the Stable to cut the Saddle.

These bee they that thought Euphnes to bee drowned, and yet were neuer troubled with drying of his clothes; but they guessed as they wished, and I would it had happened as they defired. They that loath the Fountaines head, will neuer drink of the little Brookes; they that seeke to poylon the fish, will neuer eate the Spawne; they that like not me, will not allow any thing that is mine.

B 2

But

But as the Seepent Parphinia, shough her hee full of poylon, yet having no teeth, hurteth none but limitelte, for the envious, though they swell with malice till they burts, yet having no teeth to byte, I have no cause to searc. Onely say sute is to you Gentlemen, that if any thing be amisse, you pardon it: if well, you defend it: and how-focuer it be, you accept it.

Faults escaped in the printing, correct with your pennes, omitted by my negligence, overslip with patience, committed by ignorance, remit with fauour. If in every part it seeme not alike, you know that it is not for him that fashioneth the shooe, to make the graine of the leather. The olde Hermit will have his talke savour of the Cell, the olde Courtier, his first love take of Saturne, yet the last Loner, may happily come some what neere Impiter. Lovers when they come into a Garden, some gather Nettles, some Roses, one Time, another Sage, and every one that for his Ladies savour, that shee savoureth: insomuch as there is no weede almost, but is worne.

If you, Genelemen, doe the like in readings of shall be fure all my discourses shall be regarded, some for the small, some for the smart all for a kinde of louing smack: Let every one follow his owne fancy, and say that is best, which he like the best. And so I commit everie mans delight to his owne choise, and my selfe to all your curtesies.

Is a significant vehicle of the seas as long in viewing of Levelon, in the sile, boing action of seasons in viewing of Levelon, as variedly obtained, the was as long in viewing of Levelon, but a differing them, who Condenously the congress of the indirection of the conference of the condens of the condens

60

Co

the

The follower is such as thought Emphuse to be a forened, and we will ever to only a such that the property of his clothes that they proved as they defined they are the alternative of the property of the state of the property of the state o

EVPHVES AND HIS England.

Volues bauing gotten all thinges necellarie for bis bopace into England, accompanied onely mich Philautus, tooke hipping the first of December. 1579. by our English Computation : who as one refolued to fee that with bis eyes, which bee ban oftentimes beard with his eares, began to ble this perswallon with bis friend Philautus, al mell to counfell him bom be Could bebaue himfelfe in England, as to comfort him now being on the Seas. As Thanefound thee willing to bee a fellow in my trangile, fo wonin I have ther ready to be a follower of inprountaile: in the one thou thait thew the good will, in the other manifell the wife-Dome. Glee are noto failing into an Blandof fmall compalle, as I quelle by their Maps but of great civility as I beare by their maners, which if it be fo it behoueth be to be more inquilitive of their conditions, then of their Country, and more carefull to marke the natures of their men . then curious to note the formation of the place. And furely me thinketh we cannot better bellow our time on the Sea then in aduite how to behave our felues when wee come to hope : for greater baunger is there to arrive in a france Country where the inhabitants be politick, then to be tolled with the troublefome wanes, where the Wariners be bufkilfull. Fortune guiveth men in the rough Sen, but wilebome ruleth them in a Grange Land.

Afternations in this our age, were as wary of their conditions, as they be vencerous of their hovies, or as willing to reape profit by their paines, as they are to endure perill for their pleasure, they would either prefer their owne soyle before a strange land, or good to make their prefer their owne soyle before a strange land, or good to make their prefer their owne soyle before a strange land, or good to make their owners.

counfaile before their owne conceit. But as the goung & choller in Athens, went to heare Demofthenes eloquence at Conneti, and mas intencted with Lais beauty: fo molt of our trauafters which pretend to get a lmack of frange language to Marpen their wits, are infected with vanity infollowing their wils, Danger and belight grow both bpon one falke, the Role and the Canker in one but. white and blacke are commonly in one boyder. Seeing then my good Philaurus, that we are not to conquer wild beaffs by fight. but to confer with wife men by policy, we ought to take greater beebe that we be not intrapped in folly, then feare to be fubones by force. And beere by the way it thall not be amiffe as well to brine away the tenjouines of time, as to belight our fetues with talk, to reberie an old Treatife of an anciene Dermit , who meeting with a Bilgrime at bis Cell, bttered a ftrange and belightfull Cale : which if thou Philautus art Disposed to heare, and these present attentine to have, I will frend some time about it, knowing it both ut for he that he travailers to learne wit, and not wnfit for thole that be Merchants to get wealth.

Philautus, alchough the stumps of lone so sticked in his minde, that he eather wished to heare an Elegie in Ouid, then the tale of an Germit: pet was he willing to lend his eare to his friend. who had left his heart with his Lavie. For you shall understand, that Philautus having read the cooling carde which Euphues sent him, sought rather to answere it, then allow it. And I doubt not but if Philautus fall into his olde vaine in England, you shall heare of his newe venise in Italy. And although some shall thinke it impertinent to the historie, they shall not sinde it repugnant, no those then in one Rosegay to set two slowers, or in one counterfeite two colours, which bringers more delight then distiking. Philautus and

u

11

DI

al

to ot

m

th

po

fmered Euphues in this manner.

My good Euphues. I am as willing to heare thy tale, as I am to bee partaker of thy trauaile: yet I know not how it commeth to palle, that my eyes are either heavy against foule weather, or my head to promite against some ill neives, that this tale shall come in good time to bring me asseepe, and then shall I get no harme by the hermite, though I get no good: the other that that were then in the Ship, flocked about Euphues, who began in

There dwelt londimes in the Iland Scirum, an ancient Gentleman called Cassander, who aswell by his being a long gatherer, as his trade, being a lewd Ulturer, wared so wealthy, that hee was thought to have almost all the money in that Country in his owne Cossers, being both aged and sickly, found such weaknesse in himselfe, that he thought Nature would peeld to death, I Physick to his diseases. This gentleman had one only Son, who nothing resembled the Father epther in sancy of sanour: which the olde man perceiving, dissembled with him both in nature and honesty, whom he caused to he called but his bedde side, and the Chamber being boided, be brake with bim in thele termes.

e t

31

B

l-ch

uż

oz

be

e,

of bo

ac

m,

if bis

ti-

bett

CO-

an-1341 am om.

18a-

tale

get

that

Callimachus, (for fo was be called) thou art too poung to bye and I too old to live: pet as Mature muft of necellitie pap ber bebt to Death: lo mult the allo thew her neuotion to thee, whom I aline hab to be the comfort of mine age, and whom alone I muft leane hebinde me for to be the only maintainer of all my bonour. If thou confect as well conceine the care of a father, as I can leavell at the nature of a childe, or were I as able to beter mine affection tomaros a Sonne, as thou oughted to thew thy outy to the fire; then mouldest they delire my life to enjoy my counsel, and I should cozrect thy life to amend the conditions: pet lo tempered, as nepther rigour might befract any thing from affection in mee, or feare any whit from thee in butie. But feeing my felf to feeble that I cannot fine to be thy guive , I am refolued to gine thee fuch counfaile as may boo thee good wherein 3 that thew my care, and difebarge my butp. Mpgood Sonne, thou art to receiut by mp beath wealth. and by my countaile wifedome, and I would thou mere as willing to impaint the one in thy heart, as thou will be ready to beare the other in the purle: to be rich is the gift of forcume, to be wife, the grace of God. Dane more mind on thy Bookes, then on thy bags, more belire of godlines then golbe , greater affection to bye well, then to line wantonly.

But as the Ciptelle tree, p more it is watered the more it withereth, and the oftner it is lopped, the sooner it dyeth: so unbridled youth, the more it is by grane adults countailed, or due correction controlled,

controlled, the fooner it falleth to confution, having al reasons that would bring it from folly, as that tree both all remedies that thola make itertile.

Alas Callimachus, when wealth commeth into the handes of youth before they can vie it, then fall they to all disorder that may be, tedding that with a forke in one yeare, which was not gathered with a rake in twenty. But why discourse I with thee of worldie assaires, being my selfe going to beauen? Deere Callimachus, take the key of yonder great barred Chest, where thou shalt since such store of wealth, that if thou vie it with discretio, thou shalt become the onely rich man of the world. Thus turning him on the test side, with a deep sigh and victifull groane, gave by the ghost.

Callimachus, hauing more minde to looke to the locke, then for a throubing theet, the breath being scarce out of his fathers mouth, and his body pet panting with heate, opened the Cheft, where he found nothing but a Letter written very faire. Cealed up with his fignet at armes, with this fuper(cription;

In finding nothing, thou shale gaine al things,

Callimachus, although he were abathed at the light of the emptie Cheff, yet boping this Letter wold direct him to the golden Dine, be boldly opened it, the contents whereof followed in theletermes.

Walebom is great wealth, sparing is good getting, thatse conficted not in gold, but grace. It is better to die without money, then to live without modestie. But no may cloathes on thy backe, then will expell cold, neither any more meate in thy bellie, then may quench bunger. Ale not change in active, nor varietie in thy dyet, the one bringeth prive, the other surfets. Each value, boide of pietie: both costly, wive of prosit.

Goe to bedde with the Lambe, and rife with the Larke: Late watching in the night breedeth unquiet: and long fleeping in the day, ungodimeste; fly both, this as unwhollome, that as unhonest. Enter not into bands, no not for the best friends: hee that payeth another mans bedte feeketh his own becap, it is as rare to fee a rich surety, as a black Swan, and he that length to all that will borrow.

rom heweth great good will, but little wit Lend not a veny without a pawne, for that will be a good gage to borrow. Be not haffie to marry : it is better to have one plough going , then two Crabels: @ more profit to haue a barne filleb, then a beb. But if thou canft not live chaftly, choole fuch a one, as may be moze commenbed for bumilitie, then beauty. A good bulwife is a great patrimoup and the is most honourable that is most boneff. If thou befire to be old, beware of coo much wine. If to bee wealthy, take beebe of many women. If to be rich, bunne playing at games. Long quaffing maketha fhort life : Fond luft caufeth byy bones : and lewo pattimes naked purles. Let the cooke be the Phylition, the thambles the Apothecaries thon : Dee that for every qualme wil take a receipt, and cannot make two meales, onlelle Galen bee bis Gons good: hall bee fure to make the 19 byfition rich, and himfelfe a benner is his boop will never be without vileales, and his purfe euer without money. Lolote vigil alt nin literates assent as lines

Bee not loo lavily in giving almes, the charitie of this country is . God belne ther : and the curtelle, I baue the bell wine in the solver for you. Mais I was a well as a rett said the

8

31

ig

íe

e,

111-

10bp

ie,

tie

ne,

ate

be eff.

eth

tcb

102-ow,

Liue in the Country, not in the Court, where neither graffe wil grow, no molle cleane to the beeles.

Thus half thou, if thou canft ble it, the whole wealth of the world a beethat cannot follow good counfaile, never can get comoditie. I leave thee more then mp father left mee, for be bying, gaue mee great wealth, without care bow I might keepe it and I give thee good counfaile, with all meanes bow to get riches. And no books, what fo is notten with wie, will be kept with warinelle, and increased with wifebome.

Cod bleffe thee and I bleffe thee: and as I tenber thy fafetie, fo

Goo Deale with my loute.

Callimachus was ffrooken into luch a maze at this his fathers last Cotilit that he hav almost tost his former wit: and beeing in an ertreame rage, reuting his clothes e tearing his haire, bee betered shele words: 1 to the training the state of the state of

Is this the nature of a father to beceive bis Sonne, of the part of crabbed age, to belave crevilous youth? Is the beath beb.

hed which anote to be the end of venotion became the beginning of pereit? ab Caffander , friend Jeannot tranne thee leemothee fo bukind a father I will not call thee, whom I finde fo bunaturale. with fo that he are of this bugratefulnes, will rather lament the Dealing then the beath, & maruaile that a man affected outwardly with fuch great granity fould inmaraly beinfected with fo great quile. Shall I then thew the duty of a childe, when thou haft forgotten the nature of a father ? Bo, no, for as the Torch turnen Downeward, is excinquithed with the felfe fame Zar. inbich was the caule of his light : fo nature turned to bukinones, is quenched by those meanes it thould bee kindled, leaning no braunch of loue, where it found no toote of bumanitie . Thou half carree to the grave more grap baices, then peeres : e petmore peeres then bersues. Couloft thou under the image of lo pzerife bolineffe, barbour theexprelle patterne of barbarous trueltie & Geonom, that agthe canker fooner entereth into the white Role, fo corruption both ea-Ulp creepe into the white head. Mould Callimachus could as mell bigelt the malice with patience, as thou dibit difquile it in craft, or would I might epther burp my care with thy carkalle, or that thou habit ended thy defame with thy beath. But as the bearbe Moly bath a flower as white as Snow, and a roote as black as Inkr. fo are both a white bead, the wing vicey, but a lacke bart: fwelling with milchiefe. Cathereby Tleethat olde min are not bulike buto the olde Trees, whole barkes feeme to bee wind, when their bo-Dies are rotten. 14 delle Teredagen auch delle

I will mourne, not that thou art now bear, but because thou half liven so long, neither no I weepe to see thee dishout breach, but to sind thee without money. In Read of coine show half less me counsale. D, politike oloman, dipse thou learne by experience, pan edge can be any thing worth if it have nothing to out; by that Piners could work without mettals, or wised om thrive wout where withe What analesd it so be a cunning Lapidary, and have no stones? or a skillul prior, a bave no sipror arbuistic may a bave no money wisedome, bath no print, counsaile is no copner. He that in these dates seeketh to get wealth by wit wout friends, is like but him that thinketh to buy meat in p market so; honesty, without mony; which thriveth on either side so well, p the one bath a witch hear,

And an empty purse, the other a gooly minde, and an empty belly. Dea, such a world it is, the Gods can be nothing without gold, a who of more might? nor Princes any thing without giftes, and who of more Maiety? nor Philosophers any thing without gift, and who of more wiseveme? For as among the Egyptians, there was no man excemed happy, y had not a beast full of spots, so among the sthere is none accounted wise, that hath not his purse full of gold. And had thou not sound money so well, thou wouldest never have lived so warily, and does not wickedly, who either burying the treasure, doos hope to meete it in Hell, or borrowing it of the devial, has rendered him the whole: the interest whereof, I feare me, commeth to no less then the price of the soule.

But whether art thou carried Gallimachus'tage can neither rebuce thy fathers life, not recover his treasure. Let it suffice thee that be was unkinde, and thou unfortunate: that he is dead of hea-retb thee not, that thou art alive and mofitell nothing.

But what did my father thinke, that too much wealth would make me proude, a feared not too great milerie would make mee desperated whiles hee was beginning afresh to renue his complaints, and reuile his parents, his kind-folke assembled, who caused him to bridle his lauth tongue, although they maruailed at his pittous tale. For it was well knowne to them all, that Caffander had more money then halfe the Country, and soued Callimachus bettertben bis owne felfe. Antid acces to the 9 fe

m pt

ø,

no

ansusul.

Callimachus by the importunity of his allies, repressed his rage, setting order sor all chings requisite sor his fathers funerals, who being brought with one reverence but the grave, he returned home, making a short Inventorie to his fathers long Alil. And having made ready money of such moducables as were in his boule, put both them and his house into his purse, resolving now with himselfe in this extreamicy, eyther with the hazard of his labour to gaine wealth, or by missortune to seeke beath, accounting it as great shame to live without travaile, as griefe to be left wont treasure. And although he was earnedly entreated, as well by good profers as gette perswasions, to weave himself fro so besolat, or tather desperate life, he made not harken either to his owne comodities or collailes: so, seeing (said he) I am left heire to al the world,

I meane to execute my authoritie, and to claime my landes in all places of the world. Who now to rich as Callimachus? who had as many revenewes every where as in his owne countrey. Thus being in a redines to depart, apparailed in all colours, as one fit for all companies, and willing to fee all countrpes, townied three or foure daies very devoutlie like a Pilgrime, who straying out of his pathway, a fomewhat wearis, not bled to fuch day laboures, rested himselfe upon the side of a silver streame, even almost in the grisping of the Evening: where thinking to seale a nappe, began to cloase his eyes.

As hee thus lap betweene flumbring and waking, he heard one cough piteoully, which caused him to start, and seeing no creature, he searched viligently in every buth, and buder every think, at the last he lighted on a little Caue, where thrusting in his head, more hold than wise, he espied an olde man clad all in gray, with a head as white as Alablaster, his hoarie beard hanging downe welmeere to his knees, with him no earthly creature, saving onely a Moufe fleeping in a Cats care.

Duer thefire this good olve man fate, leaning his bead to look in to a little earthen bellett which flood by him. Callimachus belighten moze then abalbed at this firange fight, thought to fee the maner of his boal, before be would be bis meft.

This old man immediatly tooke out of his pot certaine rootes, on the which he fedde hungerly, having no other drinke then faire water. But that which was molt of ail to be confidered a noted, the moule of the Cat fell to their victuals, being such reliques as the olde man had left, yea, and that so louingly, as one would have thought them both maried, judging the Moule to bee verie wild, or the Cat very tame.

St De

til fir

fit

the

mi

btti

V

iny

bagg

ewi

sein

titoti

Callimachus could not refraine laughter, to behold the solemne Feast, at the doice whereof, the old man arose, and demaunded who was there: but o whom Callimachus answered: Father, one that wishesh thee both greater cheere, a bester servants: but o whom he replyed, hoaring up his eyes, By I is son, I account the cheere god which maintaineth belth, a the servants honest, who I since saithfull. And if thou neither think scome of my company not my cell, enter a welcome the which offer Callimachus accepted with great thankes chanker, who thought his longing would be better the his Supper. The next morning the ald man being very inquitrine of Callimachus hibat he was, where he dwalt, puberher her winter Callimachus hil courses with him in particulars, as defore, southing his fathers death, pospite, against whom her breeze to many dirter and burning words, anche ald Permits eares glowed so heare them, and my conquerous diffeer if I thould write them.

Mor couer be abdemellat be manbeterminence feeke avnentures in frange lands, a cit ber to feech the golden fleece by transile, ve fulfaine the force of forcume by his divine willfull follow

Mow Philautus, thou that invertiand that this offe hermite, which was named also Callander, was brother to Callander had before ther, and briefe to Callanachus, but whom Callander had before his death connected the lumme of ten thousand pound, to the ble of his some in his greatest extreaming and necessity, knowing, or at the least societing, that his yough of month never heare a white mouth without a hard bridle. Also be assured himselfe that his higher so little tenpered money, being a professed Hermit, o to much sendered and estempered Calibnachus, heeing his neere kinsman, as be pue no doubt to stand to his devocion.

Callander this old Permit, bearing it to be Callimaches his nephew, a understanding of the death of his brocher, distantiled his griefe, although be were glad to fee things happen one to well, and determined with hintelfe to make a colin of his your nepheto, until he had bought wit with the price of woe, wherefore hee also perfectly to stay him from travaile, and to take some other course more six so a gentleman. And to the intentifact be, that I may persuade thee, give eare to my tale. And this is the tale Philautus that I promised thee, which the Permit setting now in the Sunne, began to better to Callimachus,

Now I was you as now then art. I never thought to be old, as now I am: which caused lufty blood to attempt those things in youth, which aking hones have repented in age. I hav one only brother which also boxe my name, being both boxne at one time as twing, but so faces dispressing in nature, as had not as well the twins, but so face disagresing in nature, as had not as well the respect of the suff time, as also the certainty and assurance of our mothers sidelitie, persuaded the mother was had one. Father: it would

ing conjuncti have been changed that better offented and conjunctification been in one in mall have been been in one bonibe por third to died lornes. We can oncol one a the felse lamb coase, to inner his metit the wilde Olive, as the livert, and as the Paline Parliah Fig. tree beareth alwell Applea has Figgers from mother to have into the world atoms time, the binforms of granics and lightness. All tes were nurses both without teact y his an alphanete nacked his fire of chaife, any has observe which enineally fix week, that has the breath of the Lyon angendrech alwell the Seepent as the Anti, and as the fell lame death for each the earth to yeeld both the dained when his each the earth to yeeld both the dained when his each his coast of the Casterly with maketh the blottoms to blast, a the hides to bloth, so one should maketh the blottoms to blast, a the biness manuers which arguest something in 12 ature, I know not what, to be manuaplous, I dare not so monitious and the coast of the manuaplous, I dare not so monitious and the coast of the manuaplous, I dare not so monitious and the coast of the manuaplous, I dare not so monitious and the coast of the manuaplous, I dare not so monitious and the coast of the

As me grew olde in peeres fo began weto be more onnolite fir opinions: bee graue, I gamelome: bee Andions, I carelelle . Dec without mirth and I without tho bellie And berile bad wee refembles each other ag litele in favour as we bit in fancy or bil agreed as much in thape, as toe bib in fente, 3 hande not what Dedalus would have maden Labprinth for fuch montiers,or what Apoller could have colonien furbinihaps. But as the Papater Tamantes could in no may expelle the griefe of Agamemmon, who fain bis oneip bangbter facrificeb, and therefore brem biim with a baile ouer bis face, toberebe one inight better ofceine bis anguith. then be colourite fo fome Tamantes feeing us, would be contratned with a Curtaine tolhaddow that beformitie, which no counterfait could portrap lively. But Mature recommended the billimilicude of mindes laith a francath of babies for wee were in all parts one folike the ather that it was barn to villingen they ther in (peech, countenance, or beight, one from the other, faning that either carried the motion of bisminde in his maners a that the affests of the bart were be wraved by vepes which made us knowne manifolity. For as two Rubies bether never to like, per if they bee brought together one flaineth the other fo we being close one to g other, it masealisto imagine by the face, whole pertue beferned molt fauour : for I conto neuer fee mp brother but bis graulty would make me bluft, which caused mee to refemble the Chulh. who

8

me

n

indougher lingerly inches company also experience so talk, lean his my brocher was in preferee. I doubt an experience so talk, lean his wiledome might bene ther however wildness. Both like to Roland, indo was alwaise humb whence by normath Caro Durykar her heing an his yeard have were whom to appoint his death hord, would dreve make his fragite drapter to appoint but one were earlies her wind intended discount and one were for have no being to imparturate to theore then rolly voter, were partialities took there in parturate to theore then rolly voter, were partialities took there in meanth reason no water my broker his bilberit epok when wealth; whom nature his difference, were against reason no water my broker from go before they some which and co there has limit pietly het salling his before his water which water over these pietly het salling his before distributions with water over these holds and the first my before the pietly het salling his before distributions with water over these words and the first my before the pietly het salling his before distributions with water over these words and the first my before the pietly her salling his before distributions with any on any of the first my before the pietly her salling his before distribution and any of the pietly her and the distribution of the pietly her salling his pietly water and the pietly her salling his pietly and the pietly her salling his pietly and the pietly her salling his pietly her salling his pietly and the pietly her salling his pietly and the pietly his pietly his pietly and the pietly his pietly and the pietly his pi no party to brainfemous, no vice to exerciste, but e a could reason TATEre it not my Sons, that Watere workerbmozo in mesthan juffice. A food o diferie che one of you, who promifeth by bis follato spendall and leaut the other nothing; whole wifeboni levil meth to purchafeall things. Bur d well knowthat a bitter root is amended with a freet graft, a crooken crees produc goos Cum mocks, and withe Grapes make pleature dine and viel perfina beth me that thou (pointing to me) will in agreepent the poutbite affections, and learns to ope an well, anthou had like wantonly, as to ? thee, (laying his bandonmy byothers head) although I fee more then commonly in any afthy preres, perfenowing that choic that mue themfelues to be booked, arapteentimes to block thit list they forget thrift (wherby the oldfalm is berifyed, that the greatest Clarks are not the wifest mendulo vig this at y route delivers gather the fruits) and veresmined to being the characteristics. hing nothing thou belire nothing and fo be accounted by De hauting thus laid, called for the band the one fullofice the the other Auft with writings, a calling them both buto or layothirs: Chere mp.fonnes, benios all , ag betweene pomit draft bee bell agreen, and in condemp his good with a pittifully wanelam of SPP brother, as one that knew his amus good e nin bamoria aut

Me leave to choole which bagge I like a serve chopte, I made no great curiolity, but inarching the gold let goe the writings, which were as I know, E viosces for land, Obligation for velocity when here

OBd

In:

formeeto carry toho decermined as now thou woolf Calling-class) to feche adventures op pour cuow fwelling with a tympaup, if chought to fearch all Countries for a ventebie and fent ma. my golpen Angels into enery quarter of the world tobich never happing bindines againe to their spattet, beeing egther foateb into bequen where I cannot frech the or fund into bell for pribe, where I meane not so follow thema Chistife y continued the fpace of fourteene preres, bueil & had biffred & blewed enery country, and was altranger in mine owne: but finding no treature to bee wrappedin transil; Areturned with more vices, the I went forth with pences pet with to grood a grace, as I was able to finne both by exthe other. There was no crime to barbarous, no murber to blouby, no path fo blafphemous, no vice fo execrable, but & I could readily resice where A dearnes in a by coate repeat the particular crime of succe particular column site, towns, vittage, boute of chaber. If a met mich one of Gerry Incar rendered the wife bile for the loberthe Gracian, Traulo diffemble with Sylion . 9 could outh the Italian; encouse with the Dutchman's Pleasner all des of portons pany thick as were for the Popes holinette. In Agypa I wortheppen their sporten Gov at Memphis, st. Turky the Pahomes, in Romarbets Passe which gand not onely a remission to my some passwith without penance; but also a commission to linux ener after without presidence. There was no fathion but littled my backe no foury bus ferued my furne. But now my barrell of golde which prinefet abroach, Loue began to fet atplt, which in thoat franche fees that the benill baunces in the bottome, where be found neuer a cruite. It were too tebious to beter my whole life in this my pilgrimage, the remembrance whereof both nothing but vouble my repentaunce. Then to grow to an ende, I feeing mp money walter, my appartell worne, my minde infected with as many vices, as my body with vileales, and my bodie with tuoze malevies, then the Leopard with markes : hauling nothing for amends but a fewe broken languages, which ferner mee in no more theat, then to lee one meat ferned in biners biffes : I thought it bell to return into my native folle: where finding my brother as farrenow to erceed others in wealth as be vio in wit, and that be in

lei

for 面 ipt

Sap

frie a li

ban

CULT

lubo

hav gained more by thrift, then I could hend by prine, neyther ennied his estate, nor pictied mine own; but opened y whole course of my youth, not thinking thereby to recover that of him by request, which I had lost my self by riot. For cassing in my minde the nifserie of the world, with the mischieses of my life, I determined fro that but o my lives end, to lead a folicarie life in this caut, which I have done the tearme of full forty winters: from whence, neither the earnest increase of my brother, nor the vaine pleasures of the world could bratu me, neither thal any thing but beath.

Then my good Callimachus, record with thy felf the inconveniences that come by trauailing, when on the Seas euery flome thall threaten beath, e euery calme a baunger, when either thou halt be copelles to bord others as a pirate, or feare to be borded of others as a Marchant: when at altimes thou muft have the backe of an Alle to beare all, & the Inout of a Swine to fay nothing, the band on thy cappe, to theme reverence to every rafcall, the purfeopen to be prodigatite every Boore, thy fwoord in thy theath, not once Daring either to arike or waro, which maketh me thinke, that tranatters are not onely framed noted commit injuries, but allo to take them. Learn Callimachus of phird Acanthis, who being bred in the thilles, will lye in the thilles, & of the gralbopper, who being forung of the graffe, wil rather bye then bepart fro the graffe. I am of this minde with Homer, that as the fnaile that crept out of her thel, was turned eftloones inco a Coad, therby was forced to make a Coole to fit on, distaining ber owne house: so the travaller that fraggleth from his owne countrie, is in host time transformed into fo monttrops a thape, that he is faine to alter his mafion with his marners, & to live where be can not where he wold. Mat vio Vlisses with in the minit of all his transiting, but onelp to lee the lmoke of his owne chimnen? Did not all the Romaines lap, that he bwandered, did nothing elfe but heap forrowes to his friends, ofhame to bimfelf: e refemble thofethat feeking to light a linke, quenched a lampe, imitating the barbarous Gothes, who thought the rootes in Alexandria, Impeter then the Reifons in Barbary. In my opinion it is a homely kind of bealing, to preferre the curtefte of those bee never knew, before the honesty of those among whom be was borne be that cannot line with a great in his owne Country,

Countrep, shall never intop a Penny in another nation.

Licele bolt thou knowe Calliniachus, to what wood travailers are warmed, who must seepe with their epes open, least they bee saine in their bods, and wake with their eyes shut, least they be suspected in their lookes: teace with their mouthes close, least they bee poisoned with their meases. Where, if they ware wealthy, they shall bee envied, not loved: If poope, punished, not pitted: if wise, accounted espialls, is sooilly, made dyudges. Every Gentelman will bee their yeare, shough they bee noble, teacry peasant their Lord if they be gentle. He therefore that leaveth his owne house to seeke adventures, is like the Quaile that sooilaketh the Wallowes to eate hem-locke, or the Flie that shunneth the Rose, to light in a Comstance.

120 Callimachus, ther wil no moffe flick to the fone of Sifiphus . no graffe hang on the beeles of Mercuric, no butter cleave on the bread of a trauailer. for as the Cagle at every flight tofeth a feather, which maketh bir banib in ber age: lothe Cranailer in enery countrie tofeth fome fleece, which maketh him a beggar in his ponth, by buping that with a pound, which be can not fellanain for a penny, Reventance. But why goe I aboute to biff wade thee from that, which I mp felf foliated, or to perswave thee to v which thou the felfe five fi?mp grav baires are Like buto a white Froff, the reduce blood not builte buto botte fire: fo that it cannot bee, that excher thou houlvest follow my countaile, of Tallow the conditions : fuch a quarrell baththere alwairs been betweene the grave and the crable, that he that is pong, thinketh the old man fond, and the old knoweth the poung man to be a faote. But Callimachus, for the towardneffe I fee in thee, I mint needs loue thee. and for the frowardnelle, of force countaile thee, and boe in the fame fort as Phoebus Did the Daring boy Phacton, Thou moeffabout a great matter, neither fifte for the prees being berp poung. not the profit being left to poore, that belireft that which thou knowed not neither can any performer hat which thou feemelt to promife. I f thou couet to trauaile Grange contries, Carch & Maps there thatt thou fee much with great pleafure & fmall paine:if to be coverfant in all courts, read hillories, where thou hale underfand both what the men haue beene, and what their mouers are; e me thinketh ther must be much belight, when ther is no vancer:

ne

ba

th

ca ne

Dil

cat

Ta

Eoo

we

ma

cha

bet

ned

dup

And if thou have any care either of the greene bud, which springeth out of the center stalke, of the timely fruit which is to grow of so good a tooote, seeke to kill the one, of hasten the other: but let time so worke, that grasts may be gathered on force, rather than stickes to burne. And so I leave thee, not to thy selfe, but to him y made thee, who guide thee with his grace, whether thou goest as thou wouldest, or tarry at home as thoushoulous.

Callimachus oblinate in his fond conceit, was so farre from being perswated by this ald permit, that he rather made it a greater accasion of his pilgrimage, with an answere betweene scozning and reasoning he reulienthue.

Father oz friend (I know not perp well how to tearme you) I baue beene as attentive to beare your good discourse, as you were willing to beter it : pet me thinketh you seale maruaitoully with poutb.in feeking by lagecoulaile to put grap hairs on their chius. before nature bath given them almost any hairs on their beades : wherin you have cone to farre, bin my opinion your labour bad beene better fpent, in trauailing where you have not lined than in talking where you cannot be beleeved. You have bin a travailer, e talted nothing but lowe, therefore wholoeuer trauaileth , thall eate of the fame fauce:an argument wis, that your fortune was il, not vothers hould be as bad, and heading to make you wife. not a warning to proone others bufotenate. Shal a foulvier that bath received a Char in the Battaile, give out that all warriours thall be maimed'tog the Marchant that hath loft by the feas bee a caule that no other fould benture; o) a tranaiter that bath littained barme by anister fortane, or been infected bubis owne follie. bill wave al centlemen to rell at their owne home, till thep come to their long bome: Wiby then let all men ablaine from wine, because it mave Alexander tiplic, let no man love a woman for that Tarquine was banished: let not a wife man plate at all forthat a foole bath loft al: which in my minde would make fuch melovie, p we hould be inforced to leave things that were belt, for feare thep map be bad; and that were as fond, as not to cut ones meate to that knife v another bath cut bis finger. Things are not to be induced by the event bur by b end, nor travailing to be condened by yours or manies bulickie luccelle, but by y common & molt D2 . approued approoued wifenome of thole that can better them tohat it is then

3. and will hetter fpeake of it then you boe.

to see the smoke of Ichaca, it was not because he somewhat to travell, but that he longed to see his wife after his travelle greater concendation brought his travell to him then his wit: the one taught but to speake, the other what hee should speake. And in this you turne the point of your owne bookin into your owne bosome. Visses was no less esteemed for knowledge hee had of other Countries, then for the revenewes be had in his own, where in the end you seeme to referre mee to the viewing of Paps, I was never of the mind, to make my ship in a painters shop: which is like those have great skill in a woodden Globe, but never beholde the sky. And he that seeketh to be a cunning travailer by seeing the Paps, an expert Astronomer, by turning the Globe, may be an Apprentise so, Apelies, but no Page so, Visses.

Another reason you bring, that transfling is costly, I speak for mp self: he that hath little to spend, hath not much to loose, the that bath nothing in his owner country, cannot have less in any.

Mould you have me spend the flower of my youth, as you do the withered race of your age? Can the faire but of youth creep into the ground, as it were from hitten? we father hermit, I am of Alexanders mind, if there were as may worlds, as there be cities in the world, I would never leave butill I had seene all the worlds, each citie in every world. Therefore to be short, nothing shall alter my mind, neither penny, nor Pater noster.

This old man leeing bim fo refolute, refolued to let bim bevart, and gaue bim chisfaremell.

Me good fan, though thou wilt not fuffer me to persuade thee, yet halt thou not let me to pitty thee, yet o pray for thee: but the time will come, when comming home by weeping crosse, than that confesse that it is better to be at home in the cane of an Dermit, then abroad in the Court of an Emperour, o that a crust with quietnes, hall be better then Quailes with whrest.

And to y end thou maist prone mp layings as true, as I know the

And to pend thou mailt prome mp layings as true, as I know the felf to be wilful, take the paines to returne to this page cel, where the fare wall be amended, if thou amend the fault, and to farewell.

Callimachus

fi sh

ín

as fti

mo Ca

DIC

Callimachus curteoullie tooke his leane, and went his way: but we wil not leane him until we have him againe at the Cell, where me found him.

Mow Philaurus and gentlemen all. suppose that Calimachus had as ill fortune as ever had any his mind infected with his body, his time consumed with his treasure: nothing won, but that he cannot loose though he wold, Misery. You must imagine (because it were too long to tetall his tourney) that he was sea sick, as thou beginnest to be philautus, that he hardly escaped death, that he ensured hunger a cold, heate without drinke, y he was intangled with women, intrapped, deceived, that every soole he sate on, was penilesse bench, that his roades were ragges, that he had as much need of a chirurgion as a Physician, a that thus he came home to the Cel, and with shame and so, to began to say as followeth.

finde too late, pet at length, vin age there is a certaine forefight buch youth cannot fearch a a kinde of experience when which paripened veres cannot come, fo that I mut of necesitie confeste. that youth never reigneth well, but when age holdeth the brible : pou fee (my good father) what I would fay by outward few, & I need not tel befoge 3 baue tryeb, becaufe befoge pou tolo me 7 fbolo findit this I fap, y whatforner milerie happened either to you or any the fame bath chanced to me alone, I can fay no moze. I have tried no lelle. The old Dermit glad to fee this ragged Colt returneb, pet grieued to fee him fo tozmented, thought not to abbe forme morbs to augment his tharpe troes, but taking him by the hand a fitting bowne, began after a folemne maner from the beginning to the end to discourse with him of his fathers affaires ene after the fort that I before rebearled, a belivered buto bim bis mony thinking now that miferie would make bim thaiftie, vellring allo that as mel for the honour of his fathers boule, as his owne credit, hee mould returne againe to the Iland, and there be a comforte to his friends, and a reliefe to his pooze neighbors, which would be moze worth then his wealth, and a fulfilling of his Fathers last wil. Callimachus, not a little plealed with this tale. I think not much displeased with the gold, gave suchthanks as to such a friend appertained, e following the counfail of his uncle, which ever after he obeyed as a commandement, bee came to his owne house, lined long with great wealth, and as much worthip as any one in Scyrum, and whether bee be now living I know not that whether

DI

ter

be be or not,it fkilleth not.

Pow Philaucus, Thane told this tale to this ende not that I thinke traugiling to bee ill if it bee bleo well, but that fuch abuile bee taken , that the boyle carry not his owne briole, noz youth rule bimfelfe in bis owne conceites. Belides that, fuch places are to be chofen, wherin to inhabite, that are as commendable for bertue. as buildings : where the maners are more to bee matked . than the men Cen. And this was my whole brift either neuer to trauell. or fo to travell, that although the purfe bee weakened, o mind map bee trengthened. For not bee that bath feen molt countries is molt to be effeemed, but be that learned beft conditions: for not to much are the lituation of the places to be noted, as the bertues of the perions. Which is contrary to the common practise of our tranailers, who goe either for gaine, and returne without knowlebae, or for falbion fake, and come bome without niette tubole efates are as much to be lamented, as their follies are to be laurbed at: this caufeth pouth frend their golden time without either praile or profit, pretending a belire of learning, toben thep onelp fo low loptering. But I bope our trauaile fall be better imuloyeb. feeing vertue is the white we thootent, not baulep: neichet the Englif tongue (which is as I have beard almost harbarous) but the English manners, which as I think are most precife. And so thee Philaums I beginne to abbreffe my fpeech, hauing mabe an ende of my Dermitstale, and if thefe fel precepts I gine thee be oblerued, then boubt not but wer both Chall learne that wer beff tine. And thefe thep are.

A Cthy coming into England beenot to inquisitive of newes, neither curious of matters of state in assemblies ask no question, exther concerning maners, or men. He not too lauish of thy tongue, either in causes of weight, least thou thew thy selfe an espiall, or in wanton talke, least thou prome thy selfe a soole.

of

at

is pl

th

ne

Acis the nature of that Country to fifte Araungers i enerie one that haketh thee by the hand is not jopned to thee in hearte. They thinke Italians wanton, and Grecians lubtile: they will trust trust neither, they are so increvulus: but undermine both, they are so wise. Be not quarrellous so, every light occasion, they are impatient in their anger of any equall, readie to revenge an intury, but never wont to proffer any: they never sights without pronoking, and once pronoked they never ceale.

Beware then fall not into the laares of lone, the women there are wife, the men craftie: they will gather lone by thy lookes, a picke thy minde out of thy hands. It hall bee there better to heare what they say, than to speake what thou thinkest: they have long eares and short tongues, quicke to heare, and slowe to otter: broad eyes, a light singers, ready to espy, and apte to strike. Every straunger is a marke sor them to shoot at eyet thus must I say, which in no Country I can tell the like, that it is as silvome to see a straunger abused there as it is rare to see any well view elsewhere, yet presume not too much of the euttelies of them, sor they differ in nature, some are bot, some colo, one simple, another wily: yet if thou we see words, and faire speeches, thou shale command them any thing thou fanbell in need of.

Louching the Atuation of the Cople, I baue read in my dupie which I partly believe (bauing no worfe author than Cafar) vet at my comming, when I hall conferre the things I fee. wichthole I have read, I wil indge accordingly . And thus have Theard, that the inner parte of Britaine is inhabited by fuch as mere borne and bred in the Tile, and the Sea coaft by fuch as have naffed thither out of Belgicke to fearth boates and to make war. The Country is marucloully replenished with people, and there bee many buildings, almost like in falbion to the buildings of Gallia there is greate freze of cattell, the corne they ble is evther of Braffe,oralfo rings of iron, Afeb at a certaine weiche in iteave of Money. In the inner partes of the Realme growerly Tinne, and in the fea coft groweth iron. The Braffe that they occupie is brought in fro beyond lea. The aire is more temperate in those places, than in France, and the cold leffer. The Itand is in fashion three coineted, whereofone five is towards France the one corner of this five which is Kene, where for the most part thinges arrive out of France, is in the Call, and the other neathermott is coward the South: This live containeth about fine hundreth miles miles. Another live Iveth toward Spaine, & the Sun going bolone. on the which live is Ireland lelle then Britaine, as is Coppoled , by the one halfe : bet the ent betweene them is like the biffance that 18 betweene France & Britaine. In the miott of this courfe is an 3land called Man: the length of this libe is, according to the opinio of the inhabiters) leaven bundzen miles. The third live is Bostbward, againft it leth no land, but the point of of the butteth moft byon Germany. This they efteemeb to be eight bundred miles log: a fo the circuit of the whole Tland, is two thousand miles. Of al the inhabitants, of this The the Kentiffmen are the civilett, the which country marchet baltomether boon the lea, & differeth not greatlie from the maner of France. They that Dwell more in the beart of the realme lowe come, but live by milk a fleth, a cloach themfelues in leather. Al the Britaines do ope thelelues with woad, which letteth a blewith colour bpon them, & maketh them moze terrible to behold in battaile. They weare their baire long, a haue all parts of their body, laving the bead and the opper lip. Divers other bles e cuttoms are among them.as I have read Philautus: But whether thefe bee true of no, I will not fay : for mee thinketh an Bland fo well governed in peace then, & lo famous in victories, lo fercile in all respects, so tobollome & populous, must neeves in the tearme of a thouland peeres be much better, I beleeue wee Gall finde ft fuch as we never read the like of any untill we arrive there we will suspend our subgements: pet do I meane at our returne from thence to braw the whole beforivtion of the land, the cultomes, the nature of the people, the frate, the government, wbatfoeuer veletueth either maruaile or commendation.

Philautus, not accustomed to those narrow Seas, was more ready to tell what wood the thip was made of, then to answere so Euphues discourse: pet between waking & winking, as one halfe sicke and somewhat sleepy, as came in his braines, answered thus. In saith Euphues thou hast told a long tale, the beginning I have forgotten, & middle I understand not, & the end hangeth not cogether: therfore I cannot repeat it as I would, or delight in it as I ought: yet if at our arrival thou will renue the tale, I will rubbe any memoric: in the meane season, would I were either agains in Italic, or now in England: I cannot brook these seas which proudke.

gm

ft

th

m

th

af

cel

L

Rot

WI

fab?

23252

my fomachfore, I baue an appetite it were bell for me to take a nap, for everie word is brought forth with a nob. Buphues replied . I cannot tell Philautus whether the lea make thee ficke. or fhee v man bozne of the Sea,if the firth, thou haft a quealle ffomacke :if the latter, a wanton belire. I well beleene thou remebacht nothing that may boe thee good nor forgettell aniet bing which ca so thee harme, making more of a fore than of a plaifter, withing rather to bee curled then cured: wherein thou agreeft with thole, which baufing taken a furfet, feeke the meanes rather to fleepe than to Burge, 02 those that bauten the green ficknelle, and are brought to beaths boze, follow their owne bumo, and reftile the Phylicions remedie. And fuch Philautus is the Difeafe, who pining in thing owne follie choofelt rather to pertib in loue than to line in wife-Dome, but whatfoeuer be the caufe, 3 with the effect may anfmere myfriendlie care : then Doubtleffe thou Balt nener Die being fea licke, or voate being lone lick. I wontothe lea could as well purge the minde of fond conceies as the bodie of geoffe humours, Thus ending Philautus again began to brae.

in a fine oth lkin, thinking to ftop a vaine where none is opened, and to call love in my teeth, which I have alreadic spit out of my mouth, which I must necessifinke proceedeth rather so tacke of matter, than antegood meaning, else wouldest thou never harpe on that string which is burst in my heart, and yet ever sounding in the earcs. Thou art like those that procure one to take Physick before hee bee sicke, and to applie a searctoch to his hoose when he feeleth no ache, or a bomit so; his surfer, when his stomacke is emptie. If ever I fall to mine old biaste, I must put thee in the taute that talke stofit, seeing thou bidse put me in the minute to think of se, wherey thou seemest to blowe the cole which that wouldest quench, setting hien edge where thou be strift to have a sharp point, imping a feather to make me sie, where thou oughted rather to cut my wing so feare of soaring.

Lucilla is dead, and the uppon whom I guesse thou harpeit is forgotten, the one not so be redeemed, the other not to be thought on. Then good Euphues wring not a horse on the withers with a falle stable, neither imagine what I am by my thoughts, but by mine

owne

12

2-

be

in ke.

ng

702825

owne voings: lo falt thou have mee both willing to follow good counfaile, a able herafter to give thee comfort, And lo I rest halfe flepie with the feas.

wearie with talke as the other was with transite, made a pillows of his hand, a there let them both fleepe their fill, and breame with their fautafie, butill cither a florme taufe them to wake, or their

bard beds.or their fournepes end.

Thus for the space of an eight weekes Euphues & Philautus sailed on the seas, from the first shipping, betweene whome vivers speeches were bettered, which to recite were nothing necessarie in this place, weighing the circumstances scarce expedient: what bempesses they endured, what strange sight in the Clement, what manstrads fishes were seene, how often they were in vanager of drowning, in sease of bodding, how wearie, how sick, how angry, it were tedious to write, so, that whosever hath reade of transiling, or bath himselfe view it, can sufficiently guesse what is to bee said. And thus I seave to the subgement of those that in the like iourney have spent their time from Naples to England, for if I should saine more then others have cried, I might be thought too Poeticall, if selfe, partials.

Therefore I omit the wonders, the Rockes, the Parkes, the gulles, and what locuerthey palled or law, least I house trouble diverse withings they know, or may thame my felfe with thinges

I know not.

Let chis fuffice, that they are fafelie come within a ken of Do-them, began to btter thele wogos untothem.

Gentlemen and friends, the longest summers dap hath his encning. Vhises arriveth at last, and rough windes in time bying the Ship to safe Road. We are now within source hours sapling of the Panen, e, as you will thinke, of an earthly Peanen. Ponver white Cliffes which easily you may perceive, are Douer hilles, whereunto is adiopning a frong of smous Castle, into the which sulius Casar videnter, where you shall view many goodly monuments, both strange and auncient.

Therefore pull up your hearts, this merrie wind will immediatly bring

Car

tifi

bring bs to an eafle batte. Aball batte But at all batte

Philaucus was glabbe bee flept folong, and was awaked in fo good time, beeing as wearie of the Seas, as bee that neuer view them.

Euphues not foremfull of this good newes, began to hake his eares, a was soone apparelled. To make thort, the windes were so fauousable, the Parriners so shisfull, the way so thort, that I searc me they will land, before I can vescribe the manner how, and therefore suppose them now in Douer Bowne, in the noble Isle of England, somewhat wenighted, a more apt to sleepe than sup, yet so manera sake they encertained their Maister, and the rest of the Parchants a mariners, where having in due time both vero wed their transiles pass, and ended their repass, every one went to his longing, where I will leave them soundly sleeping, where I will leave them soundly sleeping, where it is not to be next.

The next day they hene in viewing the cattle of Dover, the Pice, the Cliffes, the Roade, Towne, receiving as much pleafure by Wolight of ancient monuments, as by their curteous entertainment, no tells praising the persons for their guidemindes, than the place for their goodly buildings: q in this light they refreshed themselves there are sure daies, butill they had digested the Seas, and recovered agains their healthes, per so marrily they behaved themselves as they to ere never heard, either to enquite of any newes, or point at any fragresse, behaving the Builwarkes with a fleight and carelesse regards, but the other places of peace with admiration.

Jollie it were to hew what they fame, leeing hereafter in the befeription of England it thall most manifestly appeare.

But I will fee them for warde in their iourney, where now within this two houres wee thall finde them in Canterbu-

many monuments, and heard tell of greater than either they eluct sawe, of easily coulde believe. After they had gone long, seeing themselves almost benighted, determined to make the vert house: their June, and espying in their way even at hand, a verie pleasant garden, of em neere, where they sawe a country old man, as busie as a Bec, among his Bees, whose countenance bem, as business this auncient Father, Exphues greeted in this maner.

Pather, if the curtefie of England be answerable to the custome of Pilgrimes, then will the nature of the countrep excuse the bolomeste of straungers; our request is to have such entereasument being almost tired with trauaile, not as viners have so, acquaintance, but as all men have so, their mony, which curteste if you graune, we smill ever remaine in your bebt, although every way discharge our due; tracher wer are importunate so, that were are no less velighted with the pleasures of your garden, then y sighted

of pour grafitir: Theo whom the olo manfato! 1410

Contlemen, poware no lelle I perceine by your maners, and you can bre no more being but men, 3 anvacither Todatcheteousto milite pour requelt, not fortulpictous to mittrut pour seuthestalthough it be no leffe paritious to be lecure, than premily en begenrious Theepe no vietraling per is mine boufe an June and Manificalt for energ boneftman fo fatre arther with curtelle willand I may mithabilitie. Pour entertainement Wall bee'as faralfor cheare asyour acquaintance is fortime, pet in my bottle pourtup bappilie fine fome one thing cleanly, nothing courtivito; that wifbome prouideth things neceffarie not fuper fluouste ace feekethrather amovicumfor fustenannie thanfeaffer for furfets. But butill fomething map ber mabe renble,might 3 bee fo bolb as enquire pour names conneries; and the caule of pour pfigrimage, wherein ib 3: thatt bee more inquifictuethan Jought, let my rube birth fatillie my bolo requell, which I will not brge as one imporsout sail cast authernos tunate (Iminht fate) impiroent.

Euphuer (reing this fatherlie and felendlie Dire) whom we wil name kidus) to have no lelle inward currelle, than outward come-linelle, confectured f as well her mighte) that the proffer of his bountie noted the nobleness of his birth, being well alluted, that as no Therefore to the transformed into Villes,

fo

-

m

ch

110 thi

no

tell.

fond Alexander could bee couched in Damocles. Thinking therefore now with more care and advisement to temper his talke, least either bee might seeme foolish or curious, her answered him
in these tearmes;

Dod Sir, you have bound be buto you with a double chaine. the one in parboning our prefumption, the other in grannting our petition. Elbich great and bnbeferned kindnelle, though wee cannot requite with the like, pet if occasion fall ferue, pou thall finde by bereafter as willing to make amendes, as wee are noting readie to give thankes. Conching your bemaunds, wee are not to unwife to millike them, or fo ungrateful to veny them leaft in conceating our names, it might bee thought for fome trefpalle, and contering our pretence, wee might bee fulpected of trealon Know pou then fir that this Gentleman my fellow is called Philaucus. T Euphues: bee an Italian I a Grecian, both fworne friendes ho tuft trially both Wildrimes by free mill. Concerning the canfe of our commine into this Tland,it was onely to glem our Cies to our Cares, that we may indiffechofechings by lighte, which wer have aftenemes with incredible admiration baberflood by bearing:to wit, the rare qualities as well of the boote as the minbe, of pour molt dreat foneraigne and Ducen, phrute of the which. bath filled every corner of the world, infomuch as ther is noching that utoueth either moze matter or moze meruellthen bir ercellent Baieffp. Mibich Fame when we faw bout comparison, and almoste aboue credite wee vetermined to fpend fome part of our time and treasure in the English Court, where if I could find the repost but to bee true in balle, wee thoules not onely thinks our mony & cravaile well implated, bat returned with intereff more than infinite. This is the only end of our comming, which wee are nothing fearefull to beter, trufting as well to the curtefie of your Congtrie, as to the equity of our sale.

Conching the Courte, if you can give be any instruction the shall thinke the eneming well spent which procuring our velighte, may no way worke our visiting.

A

•

is

1~

Parlemen (auntwered this old man) if because Tentertaine you, you feeke to undermine me, you offer me greate discurtelle: you must needes think me very simple, of your felues very subtile

fubtil, if bpon fo fmall acquaintance I foulb antwere to fuch bemaunds, as are nepther for me to btter being a lubiect, not for pou to know being frangers. I keepe bines for Bees , not boules for bulle booies (parbon mee Bentelmen, pon haue mooneb my patience and more welcome fall a walpe beto mp bonpe, than a printe enemy to my boufe. If the rare report of my molt gratious Lavie baue brought pou bither, mee thinketh pou baue bone berp ill to choole fuch a boule to confirme your minbs, as feemeth more like a paifon than a palace, whereby in my opinion , you meane to berogate from the worthinelle of the perfon by the vilenes of the place, which argueth your pretences to fauour of malice more than boneft meaning. They ble to tonfult of loue in the Capitoli of Cafar in the Senate : of our Duce ge in bie owne Court. Bea fives that, Alexander mult bee painted of none but Apelles, not engraven of any but Lyfippus, no our Elizabeth fet foorth of enery one that would in ducty, which are all, but of those that can in fkill, which are few; fo farre bath nature ouercome Gree and Stace Cloquence, that the Painter braweth a vaile ouer that bes cannot thabom, a the Diator boloeth a paper in bis band, for that bee cannot beter. But whether am I wandzing, rapt farther by benotion,than I can wabe through with bilcretion. Ceale Bentlemen, aud know this, that an Englich man learneth to fpeake of men, and to hold his peace of the Gobs. Enquire no farthet than befeemeth pou, leaft you beare that which cannot like you. But if you thinke the time long before your repait, I wil find fome talke which hall breed you belight, touching mp Bees.

And heere Euphues brake himoff, and replied, though not as bitterly as hee would, pet as roundly as he durit, in this manner.

The eare not a little forp fir, not that we have opened our mindes, but that wee are taken amiffe, and when we meane so well, to bee increated so ill: having taken as no one thing, buteste it bee of good will towards you, whom we reverence for age: and of durity towardes your Sourraigne, whome wee marnated at for bertue: which good meaning of ours misconstrued by you, bath bred such a distemperature in our heades, that wee are fearefull to praise hir whome all the world extolleth: and suspicious to trust you, whome above any in the world wee source.

and

th

li

CO

th

th

ic i

mi

of

of .

and

mel

mbe

fre

that

house, mee thinketh that maketh most against you. Casar never reiopeed more than when hee heard that they talked of his valyant exploits in simple cotages, alledging this; that a bright Sun Chineth in every corner, which maketh not the beames worse, but the place better: when (as I remember) Agesilaus sonne was set at the lower end of the table, one cast it in his teethe as a shame; hee answered: this is the upper end where I sit, sor it is not the place that maketh the person, but the person that maketh the place honorable. Then it was told Alexander that hee was much praised of a Willer, I am glad (quoth hee,) that there is not so much as a miller but loneth Alexander.

Among other tales I call to my remembraunce one not long; but apt and as fimple as it is, fofit it is , that I cannot omitte it for the opportunitie of the time, though I might overleane it for the balenelle of the matter. When all the birdes were appointed to meete, to talke of the Cagle, there was great contention at whole neaft they fould affemble, every one willing to have it at his owne home, one p) efeering the nobility of his birth, another the fatelineffe of his building : fome would have it for one qualiep fome for another : at the laft the Swallow fart thep thoules come to his neaft, beeing commonly of filth, which all the Birbes bildaining, faid: Wibp? the boufe is nothing elfe but birt. And therefore (antwerenthe Swallow) woulde I have talke there of the Cagle:for beeing the baleit, the name of an Cagle will make it the braneft; And to (good father) may I fay of thy Cottage, which thou famen to account of to homely, that moving but fpech of the Soucraigne, it will be moze like a Court than a cabbin, & of a pation, the name of Elizabeth will make it a palace.

The Image of a Prince fampt in Copper goeth, as curraunt :

and a Crow may cry Auc Cafar without any rebuke.

29

of

tp

Ľ.

eD

to

93

The name of a Prince is like the sweet beam, which falleth as well boon lowe shrubs as high trees, presembleth acrue glasse wherein the poore may see their faces with the rich: or a cleere streame, wherein all may brinke that are brie, not they onely e that are wealthy.

Mibere pan aode, that wee thould feare to move any occasion touching touching talke of fo noble a Prince, truly our reuerence taketh away the feare of fulpicion.

The Lambe feareth not the Lion but the Wolfe, the Partrioge breadeth not the Egle, but the Dawke: a true and faithfull hearte fandeth more in awe of his superiour whom he loueth for feare, than of his Prince whom hee feareth for love. A cleere conscience needeth no excule, no; feareth any acculation.

Lastly you conclude, that neither art not hearte can so set forth your noble Queene as shee descrueth. I graunte it, and resorte at it, and that is the cause of our comming to see hir, whome none can sufficiently commende: and yet doth it not sollowe, that because wee cannot give ber as much as shee is worthy of, therefore wee should not owe hir any. But in this wee will imitate the olde Painters in Greece, who drawing in their Tables portraiture of supiter, were every hour mending it, but durit never finish it.

And being demaunded why they began that which they coulde not end, they answere, In that we thew him to bee supiter: whome everie one may begin to paint, but none can perfect. In the like manner meane wee to draw in part the praises of hir, whome wee cannot throughly portray, the that wee significant to bee Elizabeth. Maho inforceth every man to doe as much as hee can, when in respect of hie perfection it is nothing.

for as bee that beholdeth the Sunftedfattly thinking thereby to pefcribe it more perfectie, bath his cies fo Dazeleb be can bif. cerne nothing, fo farethit with those that feeke meruailously to prailethole that are without the compaffe of their iubarements. all comparison, that p mote that they belire, p leffe they biscerne & the neerer they thinke themfelues in good will the farther they finde themselves off in wisdome, thinking to measure that by an inch which they cannot reach with an ell . And pet farther it can bee neither burtfull to pour not batefull to pour Pince, to heare the comendation of a ftranger, or to answere his boneff request, who will with in hart no telleglozy to hir than you boe, although they can with no more. And therefore mee thinkerh pour bane offered a little biscourtelle, not to aunswere bs, and to sufvert by, great inturier having neither might to attempt aup thing which may dwe you barme, nor malice to renenge where we finde belpe. Fo?

Do

tite

fail

H82

bø,

For mine above partible I fay, a top my felend quefent; the fike a vare tweate; how boldy I cannot tellifow early I know; that ther is not any one, whether her be be bounded by bruefice of priceping both; whether linked by suale or dimensional look as it; that make humbly reverence the Materia, or masuralled at his wifevome, or prairie for his long, publicates under the water at our each owner, then whom me acknowledge, imprinted four to get fernice by flattery, but to acquit our felnes with spicion by faith which is all that either a Prince can believ of his fublicit, or a wallal pectoro his force aigne, and that which we emerge, or a wallal pectoro his force aigne, and that which we ome to pour Ducene, and all others thould offer, that either to frage of punishment dare not offend, or for love of versue will not.

Deere old fidus interrupting young Suphues, being almost inbuced by his talke to answere his request, yet as one neither too credulous, no; altogether mistrussfull, her replied as a friend, of so twifely as he glanced from the marke Suphues that at, a hit at the last the white which Phildrens set up, and hall appears bereafter.

and thus be began-passife me of configuration and the configuration and the configuration of the configuration of

6

b

e.

02

M P fonnes (mine age giueth methe printlebge of that tearme. and your boneflies canot refuleit) you are too young to beberfand matters of fate:@ were pour loeved know them, it were not for your effates . And therefore mee thinketh the time were but loft; in pulling Hercules those upon an Infantes foote, of in fetting Aclas burthen on a chilos thoulvers, of to benife pour backs to the burthen of a tobole kingdome, which Theake not, o either I miltruft you, (for pour replie hath refoluenthat feare) 02 that I malice pou (for my good infilman cleare me of that fault) of that I bread pour might (for pour fmall power cannot bring me into fuch a follie) but & I baue learned by experience, that to reason of Mings of Princes, bath ener been much millikes of the wife, though much belirevaffools, especially where ofome which Could be at their bears, bes too bulle mith the Court: and poung men which thouse follow their books, be too inquifitive in the affaires of Painces. The Mould not looke at that wee cannot reache. noy long for that we fould not have things abone be, are not for up, therfage are princes place owner the Goos, y they hould not fee what they bream incomier wifices than wer wind it morenquire what thep me Butles the faoign Singlethat feeting fre un concreto to builde birmealt in the found fondyouth, which views ing the glo; y antogiopidufnensfele Laure longer bro kaowe the fecrees oft be Dourt. Bine anthe Cagle burdethout hir eies with that proph ing for bath pourh break bis despression prestit rom ceit, And as Saryand potknowing what there as nould neive ent braceit temas incuent inthefte tonto Sacrei hot birber having what antince in cunteholaly comendicinthole matters which they know not, elvftele worthilphheatethey would not. And therfore good Euphues & Philaumis content parde lives th'this that to be enrious inchingengan hopitomet enquited, 46 pour knowe the thep appertaine not buto pou, if you knew themenot they cannot bender pon Ann let Apelles ant Gereto Alexander bee an ercule for mee. Colle Alexander would used s come to Abelles thou and transco A of the minero him at his bath libbo not more his otone work old not To much as caff an eye back kofes Alesanders poutters mbtetibelint mellmarkedsAlexahidel faio chus baro bim? Die dios thou a canning Bainter, wilt not overloooke my picture ve tell me where in I fonce voite with a whe rintile thom too antweres wifeld vet mentipens An faith Diking it is mat for Apelles voi enquire minit Alexanticularboome, meichen if hee thene et meet fo inter hoto irds obne, and thereforedie Blet pour Mately at the backe. chac I might not glange rouse ros a hings worth that you for king otier the treat, atimbit for mine, for Apelles havower are to he Terne of Alex and du but mon Alexadders of Apolles, Se ountite me Euphides for frame of the links treat our action dans beniles as though the king flood burer us babehold un and wat to foolie what the king both behing in Montohattewer be painterolfis for bis pleafure, and me mucht binkerdrouw profit for Apelles bab bis rewarm though befammos betometere ammit of committe to nother

See

Johns beard of Migaifle coin Millione (and y chinke Pillaueus pombeing an Acatian non-come mbee fe, phoho bearing his fonce inquisition of the Amperoace tite and somewhat, repiel benoed him that ply, taping that it beleamed not one of his house to enquire how an Emperoar tines puntente be himtelle were an Emperoar for that of behaviour or plage of to bond, aste pertona-

Euphines and his England!

ges are notito be called in quellion of energined that boubteth, but of the Constant squallenguality of the Constant and the

Alexander being commanden of Philip his facherute imattlein the games of Olympia, an finered be would if there were a king to Brine with him : wherby T have noted fthat others feeme to enforce bebat as kings wall imesure no states for mer none. To their Cecrete chein countailaitheir traitmis are nor to be otther framed orenquired of any wary untelle of those that are in the tike place. og ferue the tike perfoni Frannot tell whether it bea Canterburictaleso, a fable in Actope, but prettietties (and true in my minde) That the Repeared the wolfe going both a fiching for foode shoughtie best to fee whether the trianwere affected amake, leaft being too bologshep fould fpeer too bavbe The fore enteringintache Rings Denne (a King Toallthe Liton brought 100 18 to the wolf that he was alleepe, smendbimlelfe to bis owne kennell, the cololle belicous to fearth in the bioms menne, that he might effete fome fault, or ffeale forne stad encecebable lourobom the Lioneaught in pames, and after obuint his familier The fifte Zelolf an huget cerme for a molfe jet fit, being in a Mions hands) answered, that budet landing by sou fore the unesallepe, beer thought bee might beent liberete collegion of langing an into whom the princely Lyon, with great thought whatigh licele velnite, (for that there can beeno enup in hings) file thusy Doeft thouthinke that a Lyon'thy pante and gouernout ban fleepe i though bee winke, or varefithou enquire whatter feerawinke or wake? The Fore had more ceaterbent bore white hours were courage (courage I will not tap, but bottonelle same bottonelle is togood. I may fan pelperatenelleytuschaufhat both beet tenoto; and to your griefes feele, that neither the willidest bachen ore. neathe wildnelle of the woolfe, oughtes etthento the or afte whether the Lyon either fleep up walle the article of abroance bead or alive. For this is sufficient to you to know that ther is at Lian, not to bece he is so what he both builded minier Eaphaes, is the gaugemment of a Monarchie (though homely be promparison, yet apt its is) athat it is neither the wife fore nor the malitious Wholfe fould venture fofar, asto leaved whither the Lion fleepe 22 Inabelithis benneathether the partner fatt of featt in & Toure: modet $.2. but but this hand bachein order to under fand there is a Ring, but what he both, is for the Goosto examine whole vidinance bee is, not for men whole over legitle is a distance or mind a hand. A

Then how vain is it Euphues (100 milue a word for so may a mino) that the foote should neglect his office. Locorrect the face, or that subsects should seeke more to know what their princes voe, than what they are wherein they shew themselves as bover beauties, and much worse then my Bees, who in my concest, though I may seeme partially observe more order than they and sit I might say so of my good Bees, more honestie: honestie my older aunofather called that, whe men timed by law, not introdserving in all things the meane, which we name vertue, and better we account nothing else but so heade in site and temperatelized on a mino shad had all things else but so heade in site and temperatelized on a mino shad had all things

And if I might crave parbon, I wold a little acquaint you with the common wealth of my Bees, which is neither impercinent to synatter we have now in band not terious to make porticate.

Euphues belighted with the bilcouries of old Pidus, was bonient to beare anything to be might beare him theake fourthing, won-fenting willingly be believe Fidus to go fallward; toho now remonium himfolioneere to the bines, because followether ming himfelfeneerer to the hings, hegan as followethe (1,03130) his Tin this places taking va belight in any thing bat onels in kee ping my Bersiermarking there this I finder, which has I not feen T (bold hardly have beleened than they wie as great wit by filbuction, garte by workman bippe as ruer man bath of can, bling betipren themfelues no lefte inflice than wifeborne, and pet not fo much wifevome as Mairlie: Infommeh as thou wouldell thinke i they were a kind of people, a common welch for Place, where they all tabour, all gather hony, flie all together in a fwarme, rate in a Swarme, and Geape in a fwarme : to neace and finelie, that thep abborre norbing fomusb us bueleannelle, pitinking part & cleare mater belighting in freete a found muficke, which if they beare but once out of tune they ble out of light and therefore are they called the Males birdes, be cause they follow not the found fo much as the concent. They line buter a lame, bling great reactence to their Ciber, as to the wifer. They choofe a king, whole Balace they frame, both brauer in theme, and tronger in fubitaunce; inhome whome if they findeto fall, they ellablith againe in his Whone. mith no telle oucie chan Devotion, garbing bim continually, as it mere for feare bee thould milcarry, for love bee thoulde not: whome they tender with fueb fatth & fauour, that whether foener bee fifeth they follow bim, tif bee cannot flie, they carrie bim, whole life thep to loue, that thep will not for his fafetie flick to die, fuch care have they for his health, on whomethey build all their hope . If their Brince Die they know not bow to live, they languish, weepe, figh neither incending their work, nor keeping their old focietie, And that which is most marveilous and almost incredible:ifthere bee any that hath bilobeier his commaundements, either of purpole oz bumittinglie, bee killeth bimlelfe with his owne fling, as executioner of his owne Rubbognnetle. The king himlelfe bath his fing, which bee bleth rather for bonour than punifment. And pet Euphues, albeit they time baber a Drince, they baue their patwiledge, and as great liberties as ftraight lawes. They call a Barliament, whereinthep confult for lawes, fatutes, venalties, chooling officers, and creating their King, not by affection, but reafon : not by the greater part, but the better. And if fuch a one by chaunce bee chofen (for among men fometimes the worlte fpee be bell) as is bab, then is there fush cimil warre and diffention, that butill bee be plucht bown ther can bee no friendlines ouerthromen there is no enmitie, not fighting to; quarcels, but quietnelle.

Either one bath his office fome trimining the honie fome working the Mar, one framing bines, another the combes, and that so artificiallie, that Dædalus could not with greater art or excellency better dispose the orders, measures, proportions, distinctions, toputes, and excless. Divers beats, others polith, and are carefull so doe their work so Gronglie, as they may rest the craft of such prones as lesh to live by their labors, which maketh them to keep, to watch a ward, as living in a camp to others, was in a court to themselves. Such care of chastity, that they never engener, such a desire of cleangeste, where is not so much as meate in all their bives. When they goe soorth to worke, they marke the winde, the cloudes, whatsoever both the worke, they marke the winde, the cloudes, whatsoever both the worke, they marke the winde, the cloudes, whatsoever both the worke, they marke the winde, the cloudes, whatsoever both the worke, they return boden in their manthes, thighs, wings, and all the body, whome they that

13

tarried

tarried at home receive readily, as caling their backs of fo greate burtbens. The ling himfelfe not ible goeth one bowne, intrent ing threatning comannoing, bung p countell of a lequell, but not looling o dignitie of appince, preferring thole o labour in greater authority a punishing those that loiter in due feuerity. All which things being much somicable pet this is moft, that they are fo profitable, bringing buto men both bary and mare; each fo wholelome, p we al befire it, both fo necellarie, p wee cannot miffe them. Deere Euphues to a comon wealth, which ofcentimes calling to my minde, I canut choole but commendaboue any that Thane either read of heard of, washere the King is not for enery one to rath of wher ther is fuch homage, fuch laue, fuch labour, i Thane withen oftentimes ratherto be a Beethan notto be as d houle bee In this little garben with thefe bines, in this boule haue I fpent the better part of my life yea, the belt: I was never biffe in matters of date, but referring at my cares onto the wifebome of grant countailors, a my confinence to the nobleminue of my opean fone raigned Ducene, neuer alking what thee Dio, but alwaies prapi ing wee map to well, not inquiring whether thee might boe what the wold, but thinking the would be nothing but what the might.

Thus contented with a meane ellate, and never curious of the high ellace, I found me fuch quiet jebat me chinketh be which knoweth least, liveth longest informach that I choose rather to be an Dermit in a caue, then a counfelloar in the Court.

10011000

Euphues perceiving of a fidos to speake what hee thought, and sweets him in these short worden. Wee is very oblinate, whome petther reason not experience can persuade. And truly seeing you have alleaged both. I would needed allow both. And strong somet cequest have been any offence, set my latter repentance make a mends. And pet this I know, that I enquired nothing that might him you into danger, or me into croudles for as your as I ampetie I have learned, that one may point at a star but not put at it, and see a Brince, but not learth himsand so wishe owne part, I never meane to put mine band betweene the bar he and the tree, not in matters which are not so meaco becomes curious. The common wealth of your Bees will so belight mee, that I was not a little soite, that either their states have not beene longer

03

g

cõ

a

011

an

th

spour lealure more, for in implimple indgment, there was fuch an orderly government, that men may not be alhamed to initact them, nor you weary to keepe them.

They having thent much time in these viscourses, were called in to supper. Philautus more willing to eate than heare their tales, was not the last that went in where being all second ne, they were served all intearchen differ, all things so neate and cleantie, that they perceived a kinde of courtly matestic in the minde of ther bost, though he wanted matter to thew it in his house.

philautus I knownot whether of nature melancholp of feeling one in his bosome spake fratte ten words fince his comming into the house of Fidus. Which the old man well noting, began merri-

I Peruaile Gentleman, that all this time you have been tongue—Liev, eyther thinking not your felfe welcome, or dilbaining to homely entertainment in the one you doe mee wrong, for I thinke
I have not thewever my felfe strange, for the other you multipartion mee, for that I have not to ude as I woulde, but as I may. And though England been gravinge, but peelveth enery thing, yet is it heere as inchery place, all for money. And if you will but accepte a willing i minute in seas of a costly repair. I shall thinke my felfe beholding but o you and if time levise and my Bees profmer, I will make you part of amends with a better breakfait.

Philautus thus teplied: Iknow good father, my welcome greater than any waies I can requite, o my theere more bountiful then ever thall veferue, and though I feeme litent for matters that trouble me, per I would not have you think me to foolify, that I house either vitality our company, or mill he your cheer, of both which I thinke to well, hif time might answere my true meaning, I would exceede in coll, though in curtelle I knowe not how to compare with you, for without flatterie bee it spoken (if the comor curtelle of England bee no worse then this towards trangets, I must needed thinke them happy that travaile into the le Coalls, anothe intabitants the most curteous of all Countries.

and to plate with him in his melancholie moode, beginning

aiceman

et

be

n,

100

the

Das

get

02

320

TO father, Jourd (weare for my friend, that both bee thinketh bimfelfe welcome, and his fare good, but you muft parbon a pond courtier. who in the ablece of his Lavie thinketh himfelfe forlorne : And this vile vonce Loue witforankle where hee hiteth that I feare my friends loze will breen to'a fiffula : for pou may perceive that bee is not where bee lines, but where hee loues: and more thoughts bath bee in bis beat, than pou Bees in pour hiues, and better it were for him to bee nakes among pour walps, though his body were all bliffered, than to have his hear? fung lo with affection, whereby be is fo blinded. But beleeue me Fidus, he taketh as areat belight to course a contration of love as you bo to ble pour time with bony. In this plight bath be herit ever fince his comming out of Naples, & to bath it wrought with bim (which I hav thought impolible) that pure love bib make bim Seaficke, infomuch as in al my trauaile with bim, I feemed to every one to beare mith mee the picture ofan boneft nian but no liuing perlon, the more pittie and pet no force. and the the Philautus taking Euphues tale by the env, and polo man by the arme, betweene grice a game, ielt a carnett, annowered him thus. I V phues would die if he should not talke of love once in a day, a therfore you must give him leave after enerte meale to close his stomack with love, as his Parmalade, a have beard, not those of an nothing, but they that kickt oftnest against love, are ever in love; yet both he vie me as the meane to moone the matter, and as the man to make his myrour, hee himselfe knowing best the price of corne, not by the market solkes, but his owne footsteppes. But if he vie his speech, either to make you merrie, or to put mee out of conceite, hee both well, you must thank himsorthe one, a sincredulous and far fro love as he, yet wil he not believe me, as incredulous as those, who think none bald till they see his braines. As Euphues was making answere, Fidus prevented him in this manner;

There is no harme done Philantus, for whether you lone of Euphues iell, this hal breed no farre. It may bee when I was as pong as you, I was as tole as you (though in my opinion, there is none leve idle then a louer,) for to tell the truth, I my felfe was once a courtier, in the vaics of that most noble king of famous memorie

10

fo

tle

gr

Euplines and his England.

memorie Hemythe eight, father to out most gratious Ladic Elizabeth. Where, and with that he pauled as though the rememberance of his old life had soppen his nemespeech: but Philautus itching to heave what he would saie, desired him to goe sozward, but o whom Fidus serthing a great sigh, said, I will. And there again made a full point. Philautus burning, as it were, in desire of this discourse, veged him again with great intreasie: then the olde man communicated the boozd to be uncoursed, grace being said, called so stooled, and setting by the sire, buttered the whole discourse of his some which brought Philautus a bed, and Euphues assepe. And now Gentlemen, if you will give eare to the tale of Fidus, it may be some will be as watchfull as Philautus, though many as doutsed so him by his paines were present, not past for frame his tale.

t

12

3

th

S.

93

3

115 es

u-35

is 15 us

ie

Tantas borne in the wild of Kentrof boneft parents e monthipful, 1 whole tendercares (if the fondmelle of parents may be fo termed) pronived all things, even from my bery crable, butill their graves. that minbreieber bring mee up in good letters, or make mee beire to greate tinings. I (bout arrogancy be it fpoken) was not inferior in wit to many, which finding in my felt. I flattered my felf, but in pent beceived inpleif: for being of the age of re yeares, there was no trade of kind of life. peither fitted my bumour or ferned my furne, but the Courte: thinking that place the only meanes to climbe bigh and fit fure. Wiberein I followed the baine of poung Souldiers, who indge nothing imeeter then warre, till thep feele the weight I was there entertained as well by y greate friends mp father made, as by mine owne forwardnelle, where it being now bur honfe Moone, I endeuoured to Courtit with a grace, (almost past grace) laying more on my backe, than my friends could well beare, having many times a brane cloake, and a chread bare purle. Who to coverfant with the lavies as 3 ? who lo picalant? who more vrob [call? Infomuch as I thought the time loft which was not frent either in their companie with velight, or for their company in letters. Among althe troup of gallant gentlemen, I fingled out one (in whome I millikes nothing but his grauity) that about all I meant to truft: who as well for the good qualiqualities be faw in me, as the little gouernment be feared in mes

began one night to btter thele fem moabs. and one at alle

Friend Fidus (if fortune allow a rearme to familiar) I would a might line to fee ther as wife, as A perceive there wittie, then shold thy life be to featoned, as neither too much wit might make there proud, nor too great riot poore. Pp acquaintance is not great with the person, but such insight have A into the conditions, that I feare nothing so much as that there thou catche the fail, where thou thinkest to take the rising. There belonge to more to a Courtier then bravery, which the wife laugh at - or personage, which the thast mark not; or wic, which the most pare see not.

It is lober and vilcreet behaufour, civil and gentle bemeano, that in Court winneth both credit and commoditie: which counfell, the unripened peeres think to proceed rather of the malice of age, than the good meaning.

To ryve well is laubable, of Ilke it: to run at the tile not amille, of I believe it: to reuell, much to be praised, of I have bled it is which things, as I know them also bee Courtlye, so for my part I account them necessaries for where greatest assemblies are of noble gentlemen, there shold be hygretest exercise of true nobility. And I am not so precise, but that I esteem it as expedient in seates of armes a activitie to imploy y bodie, as in Andie to waste himb, yet so should the one bee tempered with the other, as it might feeme as great a shape to bee valiant and courtly without learning, as to be studious a bookish without valour.

But there is another thing Fidus which Lam to warne thee of, and if I might, to wielt thee from: not that A ency thy elate, but that A would not have thee forget it. Thou wielt too much (a little I think to bee too much) to vally with momen, which is the next way to voate on them. For as they haugle for the Cortois, having once caught him are driven into such a lithernesse, that they look altheir spirites wing benumber, so they that seeke to obtain the gwo will of tables having once a litle hold of their love, they are driven into such a trance, that they let goe the holde of their libertie, bewitched like those that view the head of Medula, or the viper tied to the bough of the beech tree, which keepeth him in a dead steeps, though he begin with a sweet sumber.

Imp felf bane caftes new wine, find it to be moze pleafant than mbollome, egrapes gathereo beforethep be ripe, map let the epes on luft, but they make p teeth on eoge, a love velired in the bud not knowing what the bioffome were, may belight the conceite of the bear, but it will beftrop the contemplatine of the heart,

Tabat I fpeake now is of meere good will, and yet byon [mall vacfumption:but in things which come on the fubbain, one cannot be to wary to prenente orton curious to miltruft: for thou art in a place, either to make thee bated for vice, or loued for bertue, and as thou renerenceft be one before the other, fo in oprightneffe of life thewit. Thou haft good friends, which by thy lewbe belights thou maift make great enimies : and heavie foes, which by thy boing well, thou mailt taple to bee earnelf arbitrers of thee, in matters that they now canualle against thee. And so I leave thee, meaning bereafter to beare o raine of the brible in mine handes, if I fee thee beabftrond, and fo bee beparteb. I daue bim greate thankes, and glad I was wee were parted for his putting love in my mind, was like the throwing of Buglotte into wine, which increafeth in him that brinketh it a velire of luft, though it mittimace the force of brunkennelle, it has an an alle a

A

10

3, 10

0, o£

1,

M

I

Inow fetching a wine glaffe, that I might better baue a foote. was preuenced with reasp game, which faued me fome labor, but gained me no quiet. And I would gentlemen, that you could feele the like impressions in your minds at the rehearfall of mithan, as I did pallions at the entring into it. If ever you loved, you have found the like if neuer you lone you thall take no leffe. But be fo rager of an end, as one leaping suer a ftile before bee come to it. befired few parentheles ap bigreffions, op glofes, but the tert, wher be himfelfe was coating in the margent. Then faid Fidus, thus it fellout It was my chance I know not whether chance of beffiny) that being inuited to a banquet where many labies were, a to mapp by one, as the end tried, though then too many by all, faning pone an I thought, I call mine eves lo carnellip upon bir, p mp beart boweb hir the mittrelle of my lone, & fo fully was I refolued to profecute my vecermination, as I was earneff to begin it.

200 11 Row Gentlemen commit my cause to pour considerations, being wifet than I wasthen, elomwhat'as I gueffe elver: I was

(B 2

the in buc

but in Court a nouice, bauing no friend but bim befoze rebearfen. who in fuch amatter 3 was likelier to finde a bainle chen a four. I neuer befoze prime could imagine what love fould meane, bue vied o tearme as a flont to others, which I found noto as a feauer in my felfcineither knowing from whence poccation fould arife. nor where I might feek premedy. This Diftrelle Ithought pouth mould baue werne out, by realon, or time, or ablence, or if not ene ry one of them, pet all. But as fire getting boloe in the bottome of a tree neuer leaveth till it come to the top, o) as ftrong poilon Antydotum being but chafet in phant, pearceth at plaff the heart: fo lone which I kept but low, thinking at my will to leave, enteren at the laft fo far, that it belo me conquered. And then vifnueine to my felfe, I plaied thus on the bit, Fidus it fandeth thee boon either to win thy loue or to weane the affections, which choice is fo hard, that thou canft not tel whether the bictorte will be the greater in fubbuing thy felfe or conquering bir. To loue stoline mel is mi theb to many, but incident to fem. To love and to live mell is incivent to few, but indifferent to al. To lone without reason is an argument of luft: to live without love a token of follie. The meas fure of loue is to have no meane, the end to be enerlatting . Thefe. us han no neeve of Ariadnes threede to finde the luan into the Mabylinth, but to come out, no; thou of any belpe hom to fall into thefe brakes, but to fall from them. If than bee bewitchen with gies mear y cies of a welell in a ring, which is an enchantment arrainft fuch charmes: realon with the felf whether ther he more nleafure to bee acounted amorous or wife. Thou art in the view of the whole Court, wher the icalous mil fulpect boon enery light occasion where of the wife thoushalt be accounted fond, a of the foolich amojeds. Seelend 3. Anoprantico inigeriate and alcount of

The Lavies theselves howsoever they look, wil thus imagine y if thou take thought so love, thou art but a soule, if take it lightly, no true servant. Besides this, thou art to bee bound, as it were an Apprentice. serving 7, yeares so that, which if thou winne, is lost in seaven hourse; if thou love thine equall, it is no conquest if thy superiour, thou shalt be enviewed thy inferiour, laughed at. If one that is beautifull, her colour will change before thou get thy desire if one that is missiful, the will overreach thee so far y thou

Chals

in

bi

that enemer touch him if beremone the will elebustoch for a milection if one offered by the is not troubly of any affection it the hearth the needed have been up to be found better been love bir if page who we have the love three in the found better the control of the love three.

Thus gentlemen, I feb my fell with mine owne benifes, thinking by peare meale to cot off that which I could not diminish, for the more I arined with reason to conquer mine appeales, y more against reason I was subdued of mine affections.

At the last calling to my remembrance an old rule of love, which a Covetier then told mer, of whom when Ademanded what was the first thing to winne my Lady, he answered. Opportunity: asking what was the festona he sale Opportunitie: destrous to know what might be the third, he replied, opportunity. Which animors I marking, as one that thought to take mine aims of so counting an Archer, consectured, that to the hegienium, continuing, a ending of love, nothing could be more convenient than opportunitie, to y getting of the which I applied my whole know, and wore my wice to the sumpes, assuring my lesse, the serve to a time when the Base will lick the bounds care, a the serve to greeke play with the gentle lamb so there was a certaine season when momen are to be wonth the which moment they have nother will to beny, nor wit to missent.

Sucha time have I read a youg Gentleman found, to obtaine the lone of the Dutcheste of Millainer fuch a time I have bearde that a poose yeoman choice to get the fairest Lady in Madria. Anto the which time I studed to much that I fould the skinne before the beast was taken, rechaning without mine hoall, and fetting down that in my books as ready many, which afterwards I found to be a desperate behind and and and the state of the st

g.

p,

is

r d

t.

et

ott

als

The love I base his pet I will not for severence I ome bur, but in this flory call his lindalian to recreate his mind, as also to folace his body, went into the Concep, where the necessities to make his above for the space of three moneths, hauting gotten leave of those that might best give it. And in this tourney, I found good fortune so fanourable, y his shiping was within two miles of my fathers.

Danillon boule improventes being of great familiaritye with the Dentlema whete mp Iffidalap. Certe now fo formate as Fidus? tailo to feolicke whee being in the Country, it was no abiding for me in Court Cathere enery pallime was a plaque to the mint that lived in Melancholie. For as y Ourfle baufing loft bir mate. manneverty alone, toping in nothing but in folitarinelle for monre Fiches in the ablence of Iffida, balhed in his chaniber, as one not

Defolate for lacke of companie, buevelverate, auf I nolin allange

Comake host of the cittumlances which bold you too long from that pour would heureland I faine beter. Teamehome to my father where at mine emrace, Tupper being let on the Cable ! efpied Iffida, Iffida Gentlemen, whom I found before I founte, and loft before & wonne, Wet leaft the alteration of my face, might argue fome fufpicio of my follies, 3, as courtly as 3 could, though Booknowes but courlely at that time behaueb my felfe as though nothing pained mee, when in truth nothing pleafed mee. In the mibble of Supperiffida as well for the acquaintance wer bab in Court as allo the curteffe the pled in wenevall to all calling a Glaffe in his hance filler with minra prantecome in this wife. Gentleman, Jammot tearned, per baue I heard that the Wine heareth three Graves, the first alterech the fecomo troublett! the third bulleth. Of what grape this wine is made, I cannot tell. therefore I must crane paroong feither this wanghte thange pour brieffe it be to the better, apartene pour epcept it bee greater gaine or oull pou, untellete be pour velive, which long preamble I pfe to no other bonnafestian to warne pou from Mine beeres after, breing to well comfailes before, Ano with that the Drinking peliveres methe glaffs. I now taking hearte at graffe to fee bir fo damefome as merrily as I could ble baet bir in this manuer.

Coffeed that this education alchough I winter name for TE impittie lavie pou want a pulpichaning preached fo melouet the por, wherein pour both them the learning which you profeste you have not, and a unvelof tone; which I would pour have the one appeareth by your tometermion, pother by the velice you have to keepe me lober, but I will refer mo unfivere eil lafter lupper, in the meanefeafon tobeefo comperate, as you half not thinke my molina en

wit

On

-QH

bee

POL

thei

dHai

thou

brei

mat

361

wit to finelhofwine, althoughtims my opinion, fuch graves fet car ther an enge bpon with seben abatelthe point 363 may fpeakein pour caft quoch ifficha; she glaffe beingat mynose). Lib inheduius is fuch a wheelfone for wit, that if it be often fet in that menner, it will quickly artune of hohe Centeduciana fageos deaue a backe where is found an edge: Zaith many tite fregue wer seminush que lapper tobich Ainli not repeatentealings Apulpashinist pa Epicures to fit falong atout meatrichic aff being anded dues er role, where as the manner is, thanks and curtaite beimimate to each or her meerment to the fire, imbere I bolont anoming hour blushing, sooke bic by the band, and abusibeness tokinglishes flame which & thould enther boue quentien locking to il amas sole, inben I haulo baue blomen pun the cauplem in ade la aterra? Chile, moman either bon thought ub mitaber aigent apara ap of Catine coulo alter mesor else pours per in Cor parsuames offin coundly, when as I (without office he is spoken) have know that as be spo drinketh she Goole as the Kandens Gentleman ranoth thee in arguing of wits you millehe mines and call your owne in quellion. Fogiwhae Than byreet barrat de betration beliege to have you in health. then of malice comilie our darms offeneous well know that wine to a sound blood in the Aning time flage to fire, and at all times rither buballome prefuntationen and fo Dangerous, that more perish by a furfer than shofmanona fireday

I have beard wife Clarkes saie, that Palen bring as key what diet be hied char he lined so long answered I bane drunke no wine I bane to hie dept my self warms and the Adaptic from will license mea to proceed that it thought that if one of your years should cake a dram of Adayis, whereby consequently you should fall into an ounce of lone, when byon so greate beare take a little cold, it were enough to cast you away, or turne you put of hway. And alchough I be no adaptition, yet have I bin blod to sate and alchough I be no adaptition, yet have I bin blod to sate no self point nothing so burt them so much as the persons which alwaics drew with it, as the Adamant both che you well so have tried it, yet you be old enough to bresen it, offine should be taken, as the dogs of Algype drinke water, by snatches, and so grench their thirst, and not hinder

aisus

lè

E

R

their unuing, it is the saughters of Lylander viewit, who with a view of the wine tooke a spoonful of water to as the virgins in Rome, who with the chetricis sulficontenting themselves as much with the links, he with the talks of the links, he with the talks of the links.

This coerease niplette of vikinumelle, you have made mee althis timps vent, pool of terreme) infips vent, inferming to pietscibe a vier where is no vaunger; in giving appearative, when the volice pargers. But seeing all his calks caime of vainking, let is easy with vainking.

In a leeing my lette chastioven, thought rishes the flould fir fall, by elle I wonde can present the state the state of chile which chinks to was bequentees the property back and to enter into the ferrees of the minus, when is lieth open already, wherein you ble noted were to pring meet no outself your good will, shan craft in pur meeten of South faming batter pour hook bot h with pollon to grand outsit francische meanes of sphillick. (whereaf politic taille) mingles i were in the meanes of sphillick. (whereaf politic taille) mingles i were interested by the meanes of sphillick. (whereaf politic taille) mingles i was in the meanes of politic taille) where the minus is the state that which makes a few states and the sections, whereafter the states of the states o

Ond worthing in the misses are have being the point of the half understand that in the misses of myterly, any father with the red of a companie interrupted muc, soping, they would fal to some passing, which because sogrameth sate Philaurus, we will deferre till the moratug, so ingumus deepen throught viet, of else a static life. Philaurus tiens understy of me to belight may lord to sease so sense some house, who wilting the good oluman sould breake his accustomed house, who whom sleep was the thiefest sustance. And so waking Euphues, who had taken a napathey as wont to their longing, where I think Philaurus was mussing deant to their longing. Where I think Philaurus was mussing deant to their longing.

Come I have taken a new courle : but fireh was frime then y it was as fraunge to love, as it is now common. I then lelle vieb in the Court than it is now in the Country: but having respect to the

no

1.5

COL

the

BUB

thei

the time path, I trust you wil not condemme mp present time, who am enserced to ling after their plainlong y mas then bled, a will follow becreafter the Crotchets that are in these vaies cunningly tandled. For the mindes of louers after with the mad moodes of the Apultians: a so much are they within sew yeares chaunged, y we account their old wooing and linging to have so little cunning y wer esteeme it barbarous. I wete they living to heare our newe quopings, they would indge it to have so much curiosity, that they would tearme it foolish.

In the time of Romulus all beades were rounded of his faction: in the time of Cxfar curled of his manner. When Cyrus lived, e-were one praised the hooked note, when he died they allowed the straight note. And so it fareth with love: in times past they vied to wook in plaine tearmes, now in picked sentences, he specketh best that speaketh wisest: energy one following the newest way, which is not ever the neerest way some going over the stile when he gate is open, another keeping the right beaten path, when he may crosse over better by the stells.

Guery one followeth his owne fancy, which maketh divers leap those for want of good riling, a many thooteoner for lack of true apme.

And to that palle it is come, that they make an Arte of y which was wont to be thought naturall: And thus it standeth, that it is not yet determined, whether in love Vlisses more prevailed with his wit, or Paris with his personage, or Achilles with his prowess. For every of them hath Venus by the hand, they are all assured and certain to win hir heart.

But I had almost forgotten the old man, who bleth not to sleepe compasse, whom I fee with Euphues and Philautus now already in the garden, ready to proceed with his Cale: which if it feeme fedious; we will breake off agains when they go to dinner.

Fldus calling thele Gentlemen up, brought them into his garde, where under a freet arbour of Eglantine, the birds recording their freet notes, he also strained his old pipe, a thus began.

Gutlemen, reflectight I left off abruptly, and therfore I must Gegin in this manner.

1925

F

0

us

ap

1 2

Ceb

tto

the

D

999

99 Father placed be all in good ordet requeding either byque fions to whet our wits, or by flories to trie our memories, and Iffida o might belt there be bould, beeingehe belt in the companie, and at all affaies too good for mer, began againe to meach in this manner. Thou art a courtier Eidus, and therefore belt able to refolue any question: for 3 know the without to unperstant a readic to antwer, to thee therefore Tadorelle my talke. diamosticas de

There was fomtime in Sienna a Magnifico, whome God bleffed with three baughters, but by three wives, and of three fundrie qualities, the cloeft was berie faire, but a berie foole : the Cecons marucilous wittie, but marueilous wanton:the third as bertuous as any liuing, but more beformed than any that euer lineb.

The noble Bentleman their father Disputed for the bellowing of them thus.

infoliations are articles confin I think the Bods baue giuen mer thice baughters, who in their bolomes carrie their bottnies, infomuch as I hall not neede to Difburfe one mite for all their marianes : Maibens bee they neuer To foolith, pentisting faire they are commonly fortunate : for that men in thefe pates have more refrect to the outwarde theme. than the inward fubffance, wherein they imitate good Lapivaries, who choole the frones that belight therepr, meafaring palue, not by the hioven bertue, bur by the outwart gliffering, to wifepaine fres who late their best colours boon their world counterfaite. 4 30:11

And in this mee thinketh nature bath Dealte indifferentlie, that a fool whom everie one abborreth, fieulo haue beautie, which enery one belireth: that the ercellencient the one, mighe ercule the banktie of the other : for as wee in nothing more differ from the Gonda than when wee are fooles it fo in nothing vocimes come merrethem to much as when wer are amiable. This caufed Helen to bee fratcheb bu for a Starre, and Ariadocto bee placed in the Deauens, not that they were wife, but faire, fitter to suve a Baietty in the bies than beare a Spajefte in carth, Juno, for all bir legtoutier metheldos trithed to bee no Goddelle, to thee might bee fo gallant, Long tommeth in ac the epe, not at the eare, by feeing parares works, not by hearing momens wogdes. And luch affects and plealure both light bying unto be, that

the

mie

WAS

C63

that divers have lived by looking on faire and beautiful pictutes, beliring no meate, not hat kning to any Pulicke. What made the Goda lo often so trewant from heaven, a miche here on earth, but beautie i Chat made men to imagine y the firm a nent was God, but beautie, which is faid to be mich the wife, e on chant them that made it. Pigmalian, for beautie, loued the image of Judgie, Apelles the counterfate of Campalpo, a none we have heard of lo lenfetelle,

To in this and that Brinces pelicein their houses marnens

0 -3

02

2,

200 ot

tion

ie,

nle

giff Bee

au-

placter ech.

not sens

that

It is this auly that Princes velice in their houles ! Garbens Dicharden on bedres following Alexander, who more effeemen p face of Venue neevet finished than the Dable of the nine Mules perfected. And Lam of that minde, that ther can be nothing given unto mostali men by p immostall gous, either more noble or more necellary than beautie: Fpas when the counterfait of Ganimedes was the we at a market, every one monto faine buy it becaute Zeuxes had therein the wer bis greatest que ninge fo anhen a beautifull woman appeareth in a multisuber enery manis beamen to fugto bir for that the Goos (the onely grainters of beaugie) have in benerpressed the art of their deinie. But 3-will beare rest my felte, knowing that if I thould sunne to farre as bequtie would carry me I thould fomer want breath to telbie maifen, than matter to proue them, thus Mam persinghed that my faire haughter hall hee well married ifor there is none that can or will bemaunde a aneatenjoynter than benytie orni dalai asamumager sed at a

The lecoud childs is wittie but pet wanten, which in my mind rather added a delighers the main; then notificate to the maine, to link apone thele, was qualities together that to the wanten without with a prilimedic one to be thought witte without wanton to the precise a principal lais, but it a metric left; it is pittie faine a matter that Lais, but it were more pieces than fair handon. Long names, and have no good wit. Phiris king of the Afgyprians, being much velighted with pleasant conscipts, would also a firm a that he bad rather pleasant conscipts, would also a fair affirm a that he bad rather hand conscipts, would also a spitche answer that might cut him, than a mile superbothet might claw. All ben it was objected to a Bentlewoman, that specimes neither faire not so the feedure a spitche fair.

fortunate and pet (quoth thee) wife and well fauouren, thinking it the chiefeft gift that nature could beflow, to haue a Ruthiowne hue, and an ercellent hear, It is wit that allureth, when enerie morbe thall baue his weight, when not bing thall pioceede, but it thall either fauour of a tharp concette,op a fecret conclution. And this is the greatest thing, to conceave readille, and answere aptlie, to buderftand whatfoeuer is fpoken, and to replie as though they underftood nothing. A Gencleman that once loued a Labie most entirelie, walking with her in a parke, with a beepe figh began to faie. D that women could be conffant, theo replied. D that they could not pulling hir hat ouer bie bead, why quoth the Gentteman, both the funne offent pour eies , pea, antwerco fee, the forme of your mother , which quick and realie replies being well marked of bim-hee was enforced to fue for that which he was beterminen to Bake off, Ausble man in Sienna, Difpoled to iell With a gentle woma of mean birchiver excellent qualities. between game e earnell canichus to Calate bie dum a mi done agua maine di linha

I know not how I hould commend your beautie because some somewhat browne, hop your flavore vering somewhat too lowe, and of your wit I cannot indge. No (quoth the) I betreue you, so, none can two of wit har they that have it imby then (quoth thee) word that mee above rehought is seempt only quoth thee) I will not take you at your word. Dee perceining all outwarde saultes to bee recompensed with inwards savous chose this diegin for his wife known my timp to opinion, her bid a thing both worthy his societ and his diegin with the training of the beautic savet better have been beautic savet bette inwards point with a select having we have appeared and recommendant because of all training the working with which work is resistent, therefore have the bourseless. Entangles of whom executions were without the polaries between the bourseless. Entangles of whom the continues bolacte between different having have a whom it is the bolacte with his different have been been of the entangles. I would be with the meet continue in that a request of the bolacte with the best the save with the bolacte with the best to the save without the save were whot I have a fine been to the bolacte with the bolacte to the bolacte. I would be with the bolacte were whot I have a fine flavour the bolacte to the bolacte. I have been been been been the bolacte to the bolacte to be bolacted. I would be with the bolacted were whot I have a fine flavour the bolacted been the bolacted to bolacted the bolacted to bolacted the bolacted to bolacted the bolacted to bolacted. I would be the bolacted to be bolacted to bolacted to bolacted the bolacted to bolacted to bolacted the bolacted to bolacted the bolacted to bolacted to bolacted to bolacted to bolacted the bolacted to bolacted t

G

no

Then this tutticeed mee, that my woond daughter hall not lead leave Apes in helt, though thee have not a penny for the priest, because the is witte, which binderh weak things, and loofeth strong things, and worketh all things in those that have either wit them

felnes, or lone wit in others.

App pongest, though no pearle to hang at ones eare, yet so precious shee is to a well disposed minde, that grace seemeth almost to disposed. The is desormed in body, sow of speech, crabbed in countenance, and almost in all parts crooked, but in behaviour so honest, in praire so devout, so precise in all hir dealings, that I never heard hir speake any thing, that either concerned not good inftruction of godly mirth.

b

ti

1

66

25

3-

en en

T

100

DAS

Mho never belighteth in coffly apparel, but ever belireth homely attire, accouting no brauerie greater than bertue: who beholding bir baly face in a Blatte, fmiling faieb : This face were fatre if it were turned:noting that pinward motions would make the out: ward fauour but counterfait. For as the precious fone Sandaftra bath nothing in outward appearance, but y which feemeth blacke, but being broken, poweeth forth beames like the Sunne . fo berme the weth but bare to the outward eye, but beeing pearced with inware belire, thineth like Christall, And this bare I avouch, that as the Troglodite which bigget in pfilthie ground for roots, o found the ineftimable fone Topafon, which inrichen them euer after: lobee that feketh after mp pongell baughter which is beformer, hall finbe the great treasure of piety to comfort bim buring bis life. Beautifull women are but like the Ermine, whole Thinners belired, whole carraffe is belyifed, the vertuous contrarimile are then most tiken when their thin is least lonen a dance in Som bunght I to take leaff care for bir, whom enerpone that is honeft will care for: fo that I will quiet my felfe with this perfoudion, that every one that have a woort thorty. Beautie cannot line without a bulband, wit will not, vertue thalf not.

Die Gentleman, I have propounded my reasons, soz every coine I mult now as he pour be question. If it were pour chance to travaile to Siehan and to see as much there as I have told you beete, whether would pour choose soz pour wife, the faire soole, the wittle wanton, or the crooked Sainc.

- When the had unithed, I food in a maze, leeing three hooks taide in in one bapt, bucertaine to answere what might please bir, pet chapelled to say somewhat , least I should discredit my selfe: But seeing all were whist to hear my subgement, I replied thus.

Lenna to wood Beautic, least in comming home the aire change tt, & then my labour be lost neither to seeke so far for wit, least shee account me a foole, when I might speed as wel necret hand : nor to sue for vertue, least in Italy I be infected with vice : and so looking to get lupiter by the band, I catche Pluto by the beele.

But if you will imagine that great Magnifico to have fent his three baughters into England, I would thus debate with them before I would bargaine with them. I love beautie well, but I could not finde in my heart to marry a foole-for if the be impudent, I had not rule hir: if thee be obstinate, thee will rule mee, and my selfe none of the wifest, me thinketh it were no good match, for two fooles in one bed are too many.

Mit of al things letteth my fancy on edge, but I thould hardly choose a wanton: for bee thee never so wise, if alwaics the want one when thee bath mee. I had as leeve the would want me too, for all mp apparell I would baue mp cap fit clofe. and it content and Clerene I canot millike, which hisberto I have bonoured, but a luch a crooked Apolite I never brooked: for vertue map well facte my minde, but it will never feede mine eie: & in matiage, as market folkes tel mee, y bulband thould have two eyes, & the mile but one; that in such a match it is as good to have no eie as no appetite.

But to answere of three inconveniences, which y moule choose (although each threaten a milthiefe) I multineens take the wife wanton: who if by hir wantonnelle spe with mever wanto where specifies, pet by hir wit spec will ener conseale whom spec lones, to weare a home and not know it, will be mee no more harme than to eate a steambnot see it.

ne

CO

CO

TA

Ishda I knowe not whether stoong with mine answere of not content with my opinion, replied in this manner. Then kidus when you match, God send you such a one as you like best, but her sure alwaies that your head bee not higher than your batte. And thus faining an excuse departed to his longing, which caused all the company to breake off their determined passines lequing these perplexperplexed with an hundred contrary imaginations,

For this Philautus thought I, that either I viv not hit the question which thee would, or that I bit it too full against hir will: for to fay the trueth, wittie the was, and somewhat merrie, but God knoweth fo far from wantonnesse as my selfe was from wisevome, and I as farre from thinking ill of hir, as I sound hir from taking mee well.

Thus all night tolled in my bed, I betermided the next day if any opportunitie were offered, to offer also my importunate feruice. And found the time fit, though hir minde so froward, that to thinke of it my heart throbbeth, and to otter it, wil bleede freshlie.

The next day I comming to the gallerie where the was folitarily walking, with hir fromning cloath, as fick lately on the fullens, understanding my father to be gone on hunting, and all other the Gentlewomen either walked abjoad to take the aire, of not yet ready to come out of their chambers, I adventured in one thinto put all my wealth, and at this time to open my long conceated lone, vetermined either to be a lanight as we save, of a knitter of Caps And in this manner I bettered my first spreech.

App, to make a long preamble to a fort fore, would ferme fuperfluous, ato beginabruptlye in a matter of greate weight, might be thought ablurd : so as I am brought into a boubt, whether I hould offend you with too many words, or hinder my selfe with too fem.

Bet not fraying for a longer treatile, brake me off thus roundlie. Gentleman, a short fute is some made, but great matters not eatily graunced: if pour request bee reasonable, a word will serve : if not, a thousand wil not suffice. Therefore if there he any thing that I may doe you pleasure in, see it be honest, o vie not tedious discourses or colours of Rhetorike, which though they bee thought courtly, yet are they not esteemed necessarie: for the purest Emerald shineth brightess when it hath no ople, and trueth velightesh when it is apparelled worst. Then I thus replied.

ici

22 tai

III.

nii

us

MIN

all

BE

ex-

FAire Lady, as I know you wife, to have I found you curteous:
which two qualities, meeting in one of for are beauty, must forethew some great matuel, and worke such effect in those that either haus

have heard of your prayle, or feen your person, that they are inforced to offer themselves but o your service. Among the number of which your vastals, I though least worthie, pet most willing, am now come, to proffer both my life to be you good, a my livings to be at your commany, which franke offer proceeding of a faithfull minde, can neither berefuled of you, nor missised. And because I would cut off speeches which might seeme to succur either of state terre or deceit, I coclude thus, that as you are part, but o whome I have bowed my love, so you shall be the last, requiring nothing but a friendly acceptance of my service, a good will sor be reward of it.

Iffida, whole right eare began to glowe, and both whole cheeks wared redde, either with choler of ballfulnelle, tooke me by thus toz Aumbling.

Gentleman, you make mee bluth as much for anger as thame, that leking to praise me, a proffer your felf, you both bring my good name in question, and your ill meaning into distaine: so that thinking to present mee with your heart, you have thrust into my handes the serpent Amphishena, which having at each end asting, burteth both water. You tearme me faire, and therein you flatter: wife, a therein you meane wittie: curteous, which in other plaine mordes if you burst have betered it, you would have named wanton.

Dave you thought mee Fidus to light, that none but I could he your loolenesse? De am I the wittie wanton which you harped upon pesterbaie, that would alwaies give you the sting in the hand's Pon are much deceived in mee Fidus, & I as much in you: soe your shall never sinde me soe your appetite, and I had thought never to have tasted you so bupleasant to mine. If I be amiable, I will be those things of are sit soe so good a face: st beformed, those things of should make me saire. And howsoure I live, I pardon your presumption, knowing it to be no lesse common in Court, that sootish, to tell a saire tale to a soule Ladie, wherein they sharpen I conselle their wits, but shew as I think small wisenome in your amouge the rest, because you would be accounted courtlie, have assailed to sie before you cannot see, wherein you follow not the best Physicians, yet of most, who feeling the pulses, to alwaies saie it betokeneth an Ague.

in

bit

qu.

AB I

lout

Ague, e you leeing mp pulles beate, pleafantlie indge me apt to fal into a fooles feuer, which least it happen to thake mee heereafter, I am minved to thake you off now, bling but one request, where I should leeke oft to revenge, that is, that you never attempte by word or writing to follicite your suite, which is no more pleasat to me, than the wringing of a straight those.

Tathen the had betered thefe bitter words, the was going into hir chamber but I that now had no fair of my felfe, began to flag

bir and thus acaine to replie.

Derceive Isida, that where the streame runneth smoothest, the water is veepest, and where the least smoake is, there to bee the greatest sire and where the mildest countenance is, there to be the melancholiest conceits. I sweare to thee by the Hods, & there shee incercupted me againe in this manner.

Place the more you sweare the less I believe pou, for fit is a practise in some, to have as little care of their owne vathes, as they have of others honours, imitating supiter, who never kept oath he swore to some, thinking it lawfull in some to have as small regard of religion, as he had of chastitie. And because I will not feen you with delaies, nor that you should comfort pour selfe with trial, take this sor a stat answere, that as yet I means not to some any, bit I doe, it is not you, a so I leave you. But once again I stated hit steppes being now throughlie heated, as well with some as with choice, and thus I chundered.

Is I hav view the policie y Hunters vow, in catching of Hiena, it might be also I hav now won pour but comming of y right five, I am entangled my lelf, that it been on the left five, I shold have inucagled thee. Is this the guerron for good wil, is this the curtefie of Lavies, the life of Courtiers, the foods of lovers? Ah Issida little vocst than know the force of affection, and therefore thou rewardest it lightlie, neither shewing curteste like a lover, or giveing thanks like a Lavie. If I should compare my blood with the birth, I am as noble: if my wealth with thine, as rich: if conferre qualities, not much inferiour; but in good will as far above thee,

as thou art beyond me in prive.

if

1.

ut

to

00

30

12-fb,

elle

æle

ns.

gue,

Doed thou difoaine me because thou art beautifull? Tahp, co-lours fave when curtelle flourisheth. Doell thou refect me for that thou art wife? Why, wit having tolde all his cardes inched manie an ace of wifedome. But this is incident to women, to love those that least care for them, a to have those that mall belire them, making a stack of that which they should be for a stomacher.

And feeing it is so, better lost thep are with title grudge, than found with much griefe, better fould to logrow, than bought for repentance, a better to make no account of love, than an occupation: There all ones scruice be it never so great, is never thought enough, when were it never so little, it is too much. Then I had avoided tridt chiffit we was all

thus raged, the thus replied.

Liven the gate is open, of in leeking to enter by face, whe your next way lieth by fauour. Atherein you follow the humour of A-iax, who looking Achilles thield by treason, thought to winne it agains by rage but it fell out with him, as it both common lie with all those y are cholericke, that hee hurt no man but himselfe, neither have you mooved any to offence but your selfe. And in my winde, though simple be the compartion, yet seemelie it is, y your anger is like the wrangling of children, who when they cannot get what they would have by plaie, they fall a crying, and not but it he the vie of soule gamesters, who having lost the maine by true subgement, think to face it out with a falle backe, a you missing of my lone, which you required in space, becermine to get it by spite. If you have a commission to take by Ladies, seeme see it: if a priviledge, let me know it: if a custome, I meane to breake it:

You talk of your birth, when I know there is no difference of bloods in a balon, as little doe I esteeme those that boast of their auncestours, and have themselves no vertue, as I doe of those that cracke of their love, and have no modelie. I know e nature hath provided, and I thinks our lawes allowe it, your may love when they see their time, not y they must love when others appoint

it.

Mhereas pon bring in a rabble of reasons, as it were to binde me against my will, I answere, that in all respects I think you so far to excell me, that I cannot finde in my hearte to matche with you. For one of so great good will as you are, to encounter wone of such pride as I am, were neither commendable nor convenient uenient, no moze then a patch of fuffiantin a Damalke coate.

As for my beautie and wit, I had rather make them better than they are, being now but meane, by vertue, that worke than they are,

which would then be wothing, by toue.

thinke you were never to much of womens counsells) there women bell like, wher they be lead beloved, then ought they more to pittle 35, not to oppresse vs, seing wee have neither free will to choose, nor sortune to eniop. The Fidus, since your eyes are so warp, f you cannot onely looke through a millione, but cleane through the minde, a so canning y you can level at the dispositions of women whom you never knew, mee thinketh you should be the meane, if you believe to have the end, which is to hate those who you would saine have to love you, sor this have you set for a rule (perous of square) women then some most, when they be cloae they most. And to the ende I might stoope to your sure, I pray you begin to hate me, that I may some you.

Touching your looking and finding, your buying and felling, it much skilleth not, to, I had rather you should looke mee, so you might never finde me againe, than finde me, that I should thinke my self lost: & rather had I be sould of you for a penie, than bought to, you with a pound. If you meane either to make an arce of an occupation of love, I doubt not but you shall sinde worke in the Court sufficient: but you shall not knowe the length of my soote, butill bypour cuming you get commendation.

A physic now there is which belongeth to your Shop boote, that is, to make love, and when I that heare of what fathion it is made, if I like the patterne, you that cut me apartlet, to as you cut it not with a paire of lest handed theeres. And I doubt not though you have marred your first love in the making, yet by the time you have made three of source loves you wil proove an expert workman; for as yet you are like the Tailors bote, who thinketh to take measure before be can handle the theeres.

And thus I protest buto you, because you are but a youg beginner, y's wilthely you to as much custome as I can, so as you will promise me to sew no false stitches, and when mine old love is worne threed bare pon thall take meafure of a new,

In

p

r

36

1-12

of

2.

16-

of

B19

ole

33 ue

nt

to nk

be.

er

In the meane leason do not discourage pour self, Apelles was no good painter the first day: For in every occupation one must first indeuour to begin: De that will sell Lawne, must learne to fold it, a bee that will make love, must learne to court it.

As thee was in this veine very pleasant, so I thinke thee would have been very long, had not y Gentlewomen called hir to walk, being so faire a day: then taking hir leave very curreously shee left him alone, yet turning agains thee said: thill you not man verieus beeing so proper a man? Les quoth I, without asking too, had you been a proper woman. Then smilingshee said, you shold finde me a proper woman, had you been a proper workeman. And fo the beparteb.

Poto Philaucus and Euphues, what a traunce was I left in. who bewapling my loue, was answered with bate ?o, if not with hate with Inch a kind of beate, as almost burnt the berp bomels inithin mee. Wibat areater Difcurtelle coulo there politierell in the minde of a Gentlewoman, than to lo many nippes, fuch bitter airbes, fuch biloainful gleekes, to anfwere him that bonoured bir. Wilhat crueltie moje unfit for fo comelpa Lante, than to four him that galloven, 02 to let him blood in o bart, whole beine the footlog have franched in the liver? But it fared with me as with the hear he Ballithe which the mozeitis crufer, the looner it fpringeth: or the Rew, which the ofener it is cut the better it groweth, or the Poppie, which the moze it is trobben to the foote the moze it flozitheth. For inthele extremities, beaten as it were to the grounde: mith dilvaine, my loue reacheth to the top of the boufe with hope, not bulike buto atree which though it be oftenfelled to the barn roote, pet it bubbeth again and getteth a topose signal

But to make an end both of my tale a my lorcowes, I will proceed, onely crawing a little patience, if I fall into mine old pation!
This that Philaucus came in with his spoke, saying In faith Fichis me thinketh I could never be wearie in hearing this discourse. It feare me the end will be too soone, although I feels in my selfe the imprellion of thy forromes.

Dea, quoth Euphucs, pou hall find my friend Philautus, fo kinde hearted, that before you have bone, bee will bee further in love with hir than you were , for as your Lavie faite, Philautus mills be bound to make love, as warden of that Decupation. Then Fidus : Aleli, God grant Philaucus better successe than I had, which was too badde. For my Father being returned from hunting, a the Gentlewomen from walking, the table was covered, and we all sate downe to dinner, none more plesant than Issida, which would not conclude hir mirth; and I not melancholie, because I would cover my sadnesse, least either the might think mee to voat, or my sather suspect me to desire hir. And thus were both in table talke began to rest. She requesting mee to bee hir carver, a I not accounting well to that thee craved, gave hir Salt, which when thee received, the gan thus to reply.

In looth Bentleman, I feldome eate Salt for feare of anger, if pou give mein token that I want wit, then will you make mee cholericke before I eate it: for women be they never fo foolish, would ever be thought wife.

1

2

I fated not long for mine answere, but as wel quickned by his former talk, as delivous to cry quittance for his present tongue, sayo thus. If to eat store of Salt cause one to free, and to have no Salt signific lacke of wit, then do you cause mee to meruaile, that eating no Salt you are so captious, and souing no salt you are so wile, when in deede so much wit is sufficient so, a woman, as when thee is in the raine, can warne bir to come out ofit.

Don mistake your aime quoth listed for such a hower map fal, as did once into Danaes lap, & then that woman were a foole that would come out of it: but it may be epour mouth is out of taste, therefore you were best season it with falt. In deed (quoth I) your answers are so fresh, that without Salt I can hardly swallowe them. Pany nips were returned that time betweene bs, and some so bitter, that I thought the to proceede rather of malice to worke despight, than of mirth to the woisport. Py father very desirous to heare questions asked, willed mee after dinner to we some definite after grace I did in this sort.

Ladie Issida, it is not withelie but that you can answere a quetion as wisely, as the last night you asked one wittly, and I crust you will bee as readie to resolve any boubt by increasie, as, I was by commandement. There was a Lady in Spaine, who after the decease of her Kather, had three success and yet never a good

3 3

Arther)

Accher) the one excelled in all gifts of the body, insomuch that there could be nothing added to his perfectio, and so armed in all pointes, as his very lookes were able to pearce the hearte of any Lady, especially of such a one, as seemed his selse to have no lesse beautie than the had personage. For that as beet weene the similicuos of maners, there is a friendship in every respect absolute: so in the composition of the body, there is a tertaine love ingendered by ones lookes, where both the bodies resemble each other, as moven both in one Loome.

The other had nothing to commend him but a quick wit, which he had alwaies to at his will that nothing could be spoken, but hee would wrest to his own purpose, which wrought such velighte to his Lady, who was no less wittie than he, that you would have thought a marriage to bee solempnized, before the match could be talked of. For there is nothing in love more requisit or more velectable, than pleasant a wife conference, neither can ther arise any floame in loue , which by wit is not turned to a calme.

The third was a Gentleman of great pollellions, large revenewes, full of many, but neither the wilest yeuer enioped so much, not the properest yeuer desired so much: he had no plea in his sate but gilt, which rubbed well in a hot hand, is such a grease as will supple a very hard heart. And who is so ignorant, y knoweth not gold to be a key for every lock, chiefly with his Lady, who hir selfe was well stored, and as pet infected with a desire of more, that the could not but lend a good countenance in this match.

pow Laby Iffida, pou are to betermine this Spanish bargaine, of if you pleafe wee will make it an English controvertie, suppofing you to bee the Law, and three such Gentlemen to come buto pon a wooing, in faith, who thould be the fpeeder?

Gentleman (quoth liftida) pou map answere your own questio by pour owne argument if you wold, for if you conclude the Lady to be beautifull, wittie, and wealthie, then no boult shee will take such a one as spould have combinesse of body, sharpnesse of wit, and store of ritches: Otherwise I would condemne that wit in hir, which you seem so much to commend, hir setse excelling in thire qualities she should take one, which was induced but wone, in perfect love the eye must be pleased, the eare delighted, the hearte ed-

fogteb:

nie

bu

Cen

ito

np 1

me

owi

fortedibeautie cauleth the one, wit the other, wealth the thirv.

To love onely to comfinelle, were luft: to like for wit onelie, madnelle: to belie chieflie for goods, covetopluelle: pet can ther bee no love without heautie, but wee touth it nor without wit, but mee scorne it: nor without riches but wee repent it. Every floure bath his blollome, his savour, his sap and everie desire should have to feed the cie, to pleale the wit, to maintain the roote.

Ganimedes may call an amtable countenance, but that feedeth not: Vlisses tell a witte tale, but that fatteth not: Creesis bying bags of gold, and that boeth both: pet without the aide of beautie wee cannot bestow it, and without with he knowes not how to ble it. So that I am of this minde, there is no Lady but in her choice will be so resolute, that either she will line a virgin, till shee have such a one. as shall have all these three properties, or else vie for anger, if the match with one that wanteth any of them.

I perceining hir to fand fo ftilly thought if I might, to remous bir footing, and replied againe.

ot

fe

bê

e,

0-

to

by עסו

the

mo jir.

667

teb:

Lave, you now think by policie to flart, wher you botto me to anfiver by necessity, not suffering me to topne three floures in one Polegaie, but to choose one, or else to leave all. The like I must trave at your hands, that if of force you must consent to any one;
whether would you have the proper man, the wise, or the rich.

She as not without an anfwer,quicklie requited me.

A though there be no force, which may compell mee to take ante, neither a proffer whereby I may choose all, yet to aunfiwere you flatlie, I would have the wealthiest, for beautie without riches goeth a begging, wit without wealth, cheapneth all things in the faire, but buteth nothing. Arnelie Ladie (quoth I,) either you speake not as you thinke, or you bee farre overflot, for mee thinketh that hee that beth beautie shall have monie of Ladies for almes, and hee y is wittle will get it by craste: but the riche having inough, and neither loved for shape nor sense, must either keepe his gold for those he knowes not, or spend it on them y cares not. Well answered Ishda, so many men, so many minds, now have you my opinion, you must not thinke to wring me from it, so I had rather be as all women are, obstinate in mine own conceite, than apt to be brought to others constructions.

Ba

feare to offend hir, or that he loned monie himselse better then either wit or beautie. And our conclusions thus ended, she accompanied with hir Gentlewomen, and other his servents, went to hir Ancles, having taried a dape longer with my sather then she appointed, though not so manie with me, as she was welcome.

Ab Philautus, what to ments violt thou thinke poore Fidus endurev, who now felt the flame even to take full bould of his heart; and thinking by folicarinette, to drive away melanchoke, and by imagination to togget love, I laboured no otherwise, than hee that to have his horse fland kill, pricketh him with the spur, or hee that having sore eies subbeth them with salt water. It the last with continuall abstinence from meat, from companie, from sleepe, my hody began to consume, and my head to war idle, insomuch that y substance which perforce was thrust into my month, was never digested, nor the talke which came from my addle braines liked;
for ever in my sumber, mee thought lifted presented his selfe, now with a countenance pleasant and merrie, straight wates with a colour full of weath and mischiefe.

My father no leffe forcowfull for my viscale, than ignoraunt of the cause, sent for divers Physicians, among the which there came an Icalian, who feeling my pulses, casting my water, and marking my lookes, commanded the chamber to be voided, and shutting the doore, applied this medicine to my maladie. Gentleman, there is noney can better heale your wound than he that made it, so that you should have sent so, Cupid, not Aesculapius, so, although they bee both Gods, pet will they not meddle in each others office. Apelles will not go about to amend Lysippus carving, pet they both wrought Alexander: nor Hypocrates buse himselfe with Ouids Act, and pet they both described Venus. Pour humour is to bee purged, not by Apothecaries confections, but by the following of good counfell.

Pou are in loue Fidus, which if you cover in a close chett, will burne everte place, befoze it burft the lock. Foz as wee know by Phylick, that poplon will vilperfe it felfe in every veive befoze it pearce the bart fo I have beard by those that in love could saye sommhat, that it maimeth everie part befoze it kill the liver. It

there-

n

b

Se

n

th

al

曲

th

Qt.

therfore you will make me printe to al your beuiles, I wil procure fuch meanes, as you hall recover in thort space, otherwise if you seeke to concease the partie, and increase your passions, you shall thorsen your life e so toole your love, for whose sake you live.

Men I beard my Philition lo pat to hit my bileale, I could not billemble with him leaft he hould betraie it, neither would I,in bope of remedie.

and velectived in everte particular, as to you I have bone. Which he hearing, procured within one date Lavie Issida to see me, telling my father p my viscale was but a consuming seaver, which hee hoped in some to sure.

Red to the hard bones, more like a ghost than a living creature, after manie words of comfort (as women wante none about licke persons) when thee same opportunitie, the asked mee whether the Italian were my mustenger to the were, whether his embassage were true, which queltion I thus antwered, laut lous and and and

Lie, would profice mething with man, a hinder me much with God ito make my beath bed the place of deceipt, might halten my beath and panger, at an additional and increase my panger, at an additional and additional additional and additional and additional and additional additional and additional additi

I have loved you long, and now at length I must leave you, whole hard heart I will not impute to discurtoste, but destinie, it contenteth meethat I view in faith. Though I could not live in favour, neither was I ener more destrous to beginne my love, than I am now to end my life. Thinges which cannot be altered, are to bee borne, not blanied: follses past are sooner remembred than redressed, and time past may well be repented, but never escaled. I will not recount the passions I have softered, I thinke the effect the we them, and now it is more behoneful for me to fall to praying for a new life, then to remember the olde a pet this I adde (which though it merte no mercie colone, it velevaeth thankes of a sciend) that one lie I sower they and lines sorthed, and now die soft thee. And so turning on my lest so ellester they a deepe sigh.

oraffida, che water fanteme to bir efes,clafping my bands in birs, 也.

with a fao countenance answered me chus.

38h

Mp good Fidus, if the increasing of my soprows might mitigate the extremity of thy sicknes, I could be extent to resolve my self into teares, to riv thee of trouble, but the making of a fresh wound in my bodie, is nothing to the healing of a sessere so so the thy bowels: for that such viseases are to be tured in y end by the meanes of their originals. For as by Basil the Scorpion is ingevered, by y meanes of the same hearbe destroyed: so love, which by time a fancie is bred in an jole braine, is by time a fancy havished from the hart: or as the Salamader, which being a long space nourished in the sire, at y last quencheth it: so affection having take holde of the sancie, a living as it were in the minde of the lover, in tract of time altereth a changeth the heat, a surveth it to chilnes.

It is no small griefe to me, Fidus, that I hould be chought to be the cause of the languishing, and cannot be remedie of the disease. For but o thee I will reveale more than either wisebome would allow, or my modelie permit.

Ind pet fo much as may acquite mee of ingratitude tomattes,

So it is Fidus and my good friend, that about two peeres pall, there was in Court a Gentleman, not unknowned thee, not I thinke unbeloued of thee, whole name I will not conseale. lead than thou local either thinks me to forge, or him not worthis to be

This gentleman was called Thirlis, in all respects so welqualisted, as had he not been in some wines, I would have been enamoured of him. But his halfinesteppeuenced my heate, who began to sue so, that which I was readle to offer, whose smeat water although I wished it to be reue, pet at the first I could not believe.
For that men in matters of ione, have as many water to bereive,
as they have words to better.

I feemed firaightlaced as one neither accustomed to such sutes, not willing to entertaine such a servant, yet so warily, as put-ting him from me with my little suger, I open him to mee with my whole hand. For I troop in a great mammening how I might behave my self, least being too cop, he might think me proud, by was sing too much curtesse, he might ivage me mants. Chus song time I held him in a boubt, thinking thereby to have instryall of him saith.

9

3

qu

faith, of plain knowledge of his fallhood. In this maner I led my life almost one yeare, butill it often meeting a diners confereces, I felt my selfe so wounded, that though I thought no heaven to my hap, yet I lined as it were inhell till I had enioped my hope. For as the tree Ebenus though it no way be set in a slame, yet it burneth with sweet savours: so my minde, though it could not bee fired, soft hat I thought my self wise, yet was it almost consumed to askes with pleasant delight and sweet cogitations, insomuch that it fared with me as it both with the trees striken with thunder, which having the barkes sound, are brussed in the bodie: for sinding my outward parts without blemish, looking into my mind could not see it without plowes.

I now perceiving it high eime to ble the Phylition, who was alwaies at hand, betermined at the next meeting to coclude such a faithful & inviolable league of love, as neither the length of time, not the distance of place, not the threatening of friends, not the spight of software, not the search of death, hould either after of diminish: which according lie was then unished, a hath hitherto been truely suffiled. This has as thou knowest, hath ever since been begond by seas, the remembrance of whose constancie, is the onely confort of my life: neither doe I resoice in any thing more than in the faith of my good Thirfus.

Then Fidus Jappeale in this case to thy honestie, which shall betermine of mine owne honour. Mouldest thou have me inconstant to mine old friend, a faithfull to a new? knowest thou not y as the Almond tree beareth most fruite when it is old, so love hath greatest faith when it groweth in age? It falleth out in lone as it both in Aines, for the yong Aines bring the most wine, but the old the best: so tender love maketh greatest shew of blossomes, but tried loue bringeth foorth fweeteft iuice.

And pet I will say thus much, not to abbe courage to the attemptes, that I have taken as great a velight in the company as ever I viv in any (my Thirsus onely excepted) which was the cause that oftentimes I would either by questions move thee to talke, or by quarels incense thee to choier, perceiving in thee a wit answerable to my vesire, which I thought throughly to whette by some discourse. But wert thou in comelinesse Alexander, & my Thirsus

18 2 Therfites,

Therfites, wert thou Vliffes, hee Midas, thou Croches, hee Codrus, I would not forlake him to baue thee, no, not if I might therby prolong thy life, or laue mine owne: lo fall a roote bath true love taken in mine beart, that the more it is digged, the preper it groweth:the oftner it is cut, the leffe it bleedeth: and the more it is loben, which brieft (mere lander formation)

the better it bearetb.

Mhat is ther in this bile earth that more commendeth a moman than conftancie? It is neither bis wit, though it be ercellent, p I e. feemeineither bis birth, though it bee nobleinoz bis bainging bp, which bath alwaies been courtly but onely his confrancy and my faith, which noto; ments, no trant, no oeath that villolue. No; neuer fhall it bee fait, that Iffida was falle to Thirfus, though Thirfus be faithlelle (which the Goos forfend)to Iffida.

For as Amulus the cunning painter, fo portraped Minerua, that which wape to euer one caft his eies, thee alwaies beheld him:lo bath Cupid fo erquificely drawen the image of Thirfus in my bearte, that what way foeuer I glance, mee thinketh be lookeeb Medfaftly bpon metinfomuch that when I baue feene any to gaze on my beauty (timple goo wot though it be) I have withen to have pepe of Augustus Cafar, to bim their fights, to the tharp & scorche ing beames. Such force bath time a triall mought that if Thirfus thould bie I would be buried to bim: imitating the Cagle , which Sefta a birgin brought bp, who feeing the bones of the birgin caff into the fire, threw bimfelfe in with them, and burnt himfelfe with them. De Hippocrates Twins, who were bonne together, laughed tegether, wept together, and died together.

For as Alexander would be ingraned of no one man in a pretious Hone but onely of Pergotales: fo wolo I have my victure implinted in no bart, but in his, by Thirfus.

Confider with thy felfe Fidus, that a faire-woman without conflancie, is not unlike a greene tree without fruit, refembling the counterfait that Praxitiles made for Flora, before the which if one food birectile, it feemed to weepe, if on the left fine to laugh, if on the other libe to fleepe: where he noted the light behaufour of bir, which coulde not in one constant havow be let downe.

And pet for the great good will thou bearest mee, I cannot retert thy feruice, but I will not abmit thy love. But if either my friendes.

friendes, name felfe, my goods; many good will, map Cand thee in them, wie me, crust me, command me, as far forth as thou call, with modellie, a I may grant with mine honour.

If to talke with mee, or continually to bee in thy company, may in any respect satisfie thy belier affare thy self I will attend on thee as distinctly as thy Muele, and be more careful for thee than thy philitian. Pore I cannot promise without breach of my fatth, more thou canst not aske, without the suspicion of folly.

fore Fidus take this Diamond, which I have beard old women fap to have been of great force against idle thoughts, valu dreams, of tatick imaginarios, which if it do there no good assure the felf it can bo there no harme, whether I thinke it against such inchanned fantalies, that either Homers Moly, or Plinics Centaurio.

Milhen my Lady had ended this strange viscourse, I was striken into such a maze, that for the space almost as halse an houre, I say as it had been in a trance, mine eies almost standing in my head without motion, my face without colour, my mouth without heath, insomuch that Issida beganto scriechout and cal company, which called mee also to my selfer and then with a faint and trembling congue I ottered these words.

Apte, I cannot ble as manie words as I wold, becaufe you fe Jam weake:nog giue fo manie thankes as 3 tholo, for that you belerue infinit. If Thirfus have planted the bine, I wil not gather the grapes:neither is it reason, that bee having somen with paine, that I thould reape the pleafure. This fufficesh me, and belighteth mee not a little, that you are fo faithfull, and bee fo fogtunate. Pet good Labie, let me obtaine one fmall fute which berogating nothing fro pour true loue, muft neeves be lawfull that is, that I may in this my ficknelle entoie your company, and if I recouer, bee admitted as your fernante sithe one will halten my bealth, the other prolong my life. She corteonlie granted bothe, and lo carefullie cented mee in my lickneffe, that what with bir merrie sporting a good nonrithing. I begato gather up my crums, o in Chost time to walke into agallerie necre adiopning buto my chaber, wher the diffamed not to leave me, offeat all times to ble me, as though I bab beene Thirfus. Euerie euening fhee would put forth some prette questio, or beter some merrie conceit to Drive me from 张3 bed melancholie. Thermas notizoth p mola botune but of berma? king no meate but of her meffing , no fleepe ener into mine eies but by ber linging infomuch as the was both my nurle my cooke. and my phyficion. Being thus by her for the fpace of one moneth cherifbed, I wared frong, as though I bab neuer been fiche.

N Tow Philautus jungenot partially, whether was then Lady of areater conflancy towardes Thirlis, Deurteffe towardes mee?

Philautus thus answerev. Row furely Fidus, in my opinion, thee mas no leffe to be commended for keping ber faith inuiolable, tha to be prailed for giving fuch almes onto thee : which good behaulour Differeth farre from the nature of our Italian Dames, who if they be constant, they bespile all other, that seeme to love them. But I long pet to beare the end, forme thinketh a matter begun with fuch heate, thould end with a bitter colder and a deal of the D Philaurus the ente is thort and lamentable, but as it is .

baue it. I mom was, thologogodologogo and united our med the doord

Che after long recreating of her felfe in the Countrie, repaired Daraine to the Court and to Dio d alfo, where a lived (as the Clephant both by aire with the fight of my Lady, who ever bled me in all her fecrets as one that thee most trusted. But my toves were too great to laft, for even inthe mibale of my blide, there came civings to Ifida, that Thirms was flaine by the Turkes, being then in pay with the King of Spaine, which battaile was fo bloody, that many gentlemen loft their lines. Inoth the day

Iffida fo biftraught of ber mits tothis news, fel into a phaenlie. hauing nothing in ber mouth but al maies this, Thirles flain, Thirfus flaine:euer boublingthis fpeech, with fuch pitifull cries and feriethes as it would have moned the foultiers of Vliffes to forrow. At the last by good keeping, and such meanes as by Physicke mas pronibed, fee came againe to ber felfe , buto whome I writ many letters to take vatiently the peath of him, whole life could not be recalled : biderfe thee antwered which I will them you at my better leafure. Butthis is most firange, that no fute could allure ber againe to lone, but euer ther lines all in blacke, not once comming where the was mott lought for But within the tearme of fine yeares the began a little to litten to mine old lute, of whofe faitbfull

30

th

70 ties

TH

tos

faithfull meaning thee had luch triall, as the coute not thinke that either mp loue was builded bypon luft or beceit.

Dingentlemen, It have held you too long, I feare neer, but I have ended at the last. You feare had beine in, begin ad griefe, continued with griefe, ended with death, a paine full of pleasure, a top replenished with instere, a heaven, a paine full of pleasure, a top replenished with instere, a heaven, a belt, a god, a vivelt, and what not that either hath in it lense or sopromize there the vales are spent in thoughts, the nights in optamens, both in banger, eyother beguising valoriting valoriting bas that wer have not. I util of leasons with hope cause, and voice of feare when there is cause: a so many intumentances hanging upon it, as to recken them all were infinite, and to rake but one of them, in collerable.

Det in thele vales it is changed Agans of resondints, with one to beitue peculiatrio an Contint of Social and the change in the peculiatrio an Contint of the peculiatrio and contint of the contint of the change in the contint of the continue of the co

But pou Philautus, whole blood is in his chiefet beafer are to taka greaten gare o leaft beind vure warmed wirdit and te fallif flamet beliner, as it biles bon into a confirmation Aire align the oluman bought themanto Dialien inhere the bauting taken their genalt Philintus afinetlinithesiante of Euphned as his provisione this animere to the all in anstate and their united the chankes for De thought impuvent. his coff and curteffe. adt ff arheen Ichairfet paul ingloffe fof pour anthompiet y tolino plealant, there for pour countels which Francaucorp Michele land to much for pour great theere and correspondent municipality befeineth of thefrehat cannar veleine angel pe proine in England, the women and him und in love touthings to the interest courteous, and bouncifull in holpitaliste, the the latter we have regen to pour coll, the other we have the recognition paines, and an aptultific them all whereforenen wereheconte, to pour quilles, and pleature, This onely we evane that we ceffit in may exemplone botonelle and for amendes wee with the fuch mehand as although wereannot make caff

12

it

at

lce

ne

fe

make you mainemuch, pet you thall leefe little.

Then Fidus taking Philautus by the band, spake thus, to them both

Gentlemen afriends, I am alhamed to receive so manie thanks for so small curtalie, a so far off it is for me to looke for amendes for my cost, as I believ nothing more than to make you amendes so your companie, a pour good will in accounting well of ill fare: ouelie this I crave, that at your returne, after you shall bee teasted of greate personages, you wonthste to visite the Cotage of poore fidus subtree you shall bee no less welcome than supiter was to Barchus. Then Euphues, a soul to dank and the same pilgrimes to take the bate before them, least beeing benighted, they straine curteste in another place, and as wee saie in Athens, Kild and ghesse in three vales are stale: Notwithstanding wee will be bould to see you, and in the meane season wee thanks you, and ever as the aught, wee milepair for you.

Thus after manie farewelles, with as manie welcoms of p one live aunthankes of the other they beparted, a framed their fleps towards London. And to drive awaie the time, Euphues beganne to infruct Philautus.

Thou feed Philamus the curtefie of England to furpalle, and the configurate (if the old gentleman tould the cruth) to excel, which warneth by both to be than kefull for the benefits we receive, and eixcumpent in his behaviour we vie leaft beeing burnindfull of good turnes, we bear bear counted ingrate, theing difficulte in our lines, we he thought impropent be thought impudent.

All they were into fixed ob. We shall inallie in the garden of the world, where among manue floures, we shall fee some weeds, sweet Males, and sharpe Meetles, pleasant Lillies, and pricking thoms, high Utilies, and be green Atchings, (as the same gooth) that may eithen please the sight applicate the since light with belight with the male pricipalization of all sharped sales we

log

19 lig

feri

fu

$12

finn

Ebengood Philauius let the care Ihane of thee beein Ceave of grade chunell, ambiguod will cowards thee in place of wifevom. I had tather show Gouldell walks among the boss of wholesome pothearbes, than the knots of aleafans floures, chatter that thou finde ic to gather Darlike forthy Comacke, than a lweete Cliolet for the lenles. I feare me Philaurus, that leeing the amiable faces of the English Ladies, thon wile cast off all care both of my counfell and thine owns credite. For well I know that a fresh colour both easily dim a quick light, that a fineet rose both somest pearce a fine lent, that pleasant seupes not chiesiest infect a velicate tast, that beautifull women to first of al allure them that have the wantonest eies, and the whitest mouthes.

A frange Tree there is called Alpina, which bringeth forth the fairest blosomes of all trees, which the Bee, either suspecting to be benimous, or missing because it is so glorious, neither tasteth it, nor commeth neere it. In y like case Philaums, would I have thee to imitate the Bee, that when thou shalt behould the amiable blosomes of y Alpine tree in any woman, thou shun them, as a place infected either with popson to kill thee, or hong to deceine the store were more convenient thou shouldest pul out thine eies, & live without love, than to have them cleares be infected with lust.

Thou must choose a woman as the Lapidarie doeth a true Saphire, who when he seeth it to glister, educate his with onle, a then if it thine, he alloweth it, if not, her dreaketh it. So if shou fall in love wone his heautifull, cast some kind of colour in hir face, either as it incremissing hir behavior, or hearing of hir lightnes: a if then the looke as faire as before, wore hir, win hir, a weare hir.

Then my good friend, consider with thy felfo tohat thou art, an Italian: where thou art, in England: whom thou shalt four, if thou fal into that beine, an Angel. Let not thy elegoe beyond thy eare, northy tongue as farce as thy feet. And thus I consure thee, that of althings thou refraine from the bot site of affection.

For as the pretious flone Autharficis, being throwne into the fire looketh black & halfe dead, but being cast into the water, glistereth like the Sunne beames: so the pretious mind of man once put into the slame of love, is as it were believe and soleth hit bertue, but sprinkled with a water of wisedome, & vetestation of such sond delights, it thineth like the glorious raies of Phæbus.

And it hal not be amille, though my Phylick be limple, to pre-fcribe a ftraight biet before thou fal into thine old bileale.

First, let thy apparel be but meane, neither too by ant to thew thy bilge,

2124

b

0 rf

D

prive, nor too bale to bemyay the pouertie: be as catefull to keep thy mouth from wine, as thy fingers from fire.

Thine is the glatte of the minde, the onely fauce that Bacchus gave Scres when he fel in love: be not daintie mouthed, a fine take noteth the fond appetites that Venus fapt her Adonis to have, who fæing him to take chiefest velightine of the cates, smiling fait thus.

I am glad that my Adonis hath alweet tooth in his head, and who knoweth not what followeth: But I wil not wade too farre, feeing heeretofoze as well in my Cooling card, as at divers other times I have given there a caveat, in this vanitie of lone, to have a care: Fet me thinketh the moze I warne thee, helle I bare trust thee: for I know not how it commeth to passe, that every minute I am troubled in minus about thee.

When Euphues had ended, Philaucus thus began.

Evphues, I thinke thou walt boine with this word Lone in thy mouth, or y thou are bewitched wit in mind, for there is learce three words bettered to me, but the third is Lone, which how ofte I have answered thou knowest, a per, that I speake as I thinke, thou never believest: either thinking thy selfe a Bod; to know thoughtes, or mee worle than a divell, not to acknowledge them, when I shall give any occasion warne mee, a that I should give none, thou hast already warned me, so that this persuade thy self mill sick as close to thee, as the sole to the spoe.

But truely I must needes commend the curteste of Bogland, & old Fidus for his constancy to his Ladie Isida, & her faith to her friend Thirsus: the remembrance of which discourse did ofte bring into my minde the hate I have to Lucilla, who loued all, and was not found faithfull to any. But I let that passe least thou come in againe with thy faburthen, and hit me in the teeth with Loue, for thou hast so charmed mee, that I dare not speake any word that may be wrested to charicie, least thou say, I meane source in trush I think there is no more difference betweene them, than between a broome & a besonic.

mill follow the opet ethe countaile, I thanke thee for the good will lo that I will now walke under the chaow, to be at the commandement: not so answered Euphues, but if thou follow mee, I bare

bare be the warrant wee will not offenomuch Buch talke there was in the way, tobich much forcenen their way and at the tall they came to London where they met biners fraungers of their friendes who in fmallfpage brought then familiarly achtainted with certain Englif gentlemen, who muth belighted in the comnanpof Euphues, whom thep found both faberiand wife; pet fome: times merry and pleafage E hep were brought fittor att plates of the Litie and loogen arthe laft in a Marchants boule, where they continuedtill a gertaine breath, und affirm anis, Anna it and

When pleo continually the Count, in the which Euphues tooke fuch relight that be accounted all the praises be beard of before rather to be engious chanothermife, and to bepartiall, not giveing to much as it before to it and gretten because they could not. It happened that thefe English Dentlemen conoucted thefe two Grangers to a place where Divers gentlewomen were: fome courtiers, others of courty, where being welcome, they frequented almost every baptes of fpace of one moneth centertaining of time in countly pallimes, though not in the Courts informach of Uthen came not thep were fent for and to bled an thep hav been country men, not frangers, Philaneus mith bis continuall acceffe. and often conference with gentlewomen, began co wean bimfelfe from the counted of Euphues ato wer his eies to p comelines of ladies; yet fo warily as neither wis friend could by narroto watching Dilcouer it neither bro be by any wanto countenace bewing it but carrying the image of lone ingrave in the bottom of his hart a the picture of curtelle implinted in his face, be mas choghteo Euphues courtly, & knowne to bimfelfcofoatlelle. Among a number of La-Dies be fired his eies spon one, whole countenance feemed to miomile mercy & threaten milchiele, entermedling a befire ef liking to a diffaine of love : the wing her felfe in currefle to bee familiar with all, with a certaine comely prive to accept none: whole wit wald commonly taunt without beloight but not without bisport, as one that feemed to abhorre lone worfe than luft, and inft worfe than murcher:of greater beantie then birth , te pet af leffe beautie than bonefty: which gat ber more honour by vertue, than nature could by Art, of fortune might by momotion. Shee was ready of answere, yet warp haill of speech per sweet in all her passions fo 1 2 temperate, temperate, as in bingreatell mirth none wouldopinke bir want 6: neither in his despet griefe fullen: futal wais to fooke wieb fo fober cheerfuines, as it was harvite thought, wher the were more comended for o gravitie of baced, or forbit courtlinelle of o pourt ofterimes belighted to heare biscourles of love, but ever belirous to be infructed in learning fame what cuctous to keepe bir beautienwhich made hir comety but more careful to increase hir crebit, which made his commendable not abound the length of a bair's to courtinelle, that might betract the breath of a haire from chafficie: In all birtalke fo plelant in all bie lookes fo amfable. fo grave movellis tomen with fo wittle navelf that they that mere intanglen mitheter beantie, were enfortes to prefet bit mit before their willes a there out loues bie benitte; were compelles to preferre their affections before bit wilebome whole rare nualities caufed to thraumer enemes, that the wife were altured to banities, and the wantons to beroug much like the river in Arabia. which turneth defoe w mone mouross klaer. In conclusion, there wanten einching in this Englith Andel & Mattire miabt abbe for perfectio, or fortune could gine for wealth or God both commonly bellow on mortalt cremeures And more caffe it is in the belorintion of forare a personage, to twagine what the bad not, chan to reneate at the han. Bunduch a bue the was as at most at they are that ferue fo noble a Prince, fuch birging thety-lights befole fuch a Vella luch danning arrows, to fuch a Dimia, But why goe Tabout to fet her in black and white, who Philamis is now in all colours importraping in p Cable of his beart And lutely I thinke by this he in balfe mabbe, whom long fince Tterth a greate mase.

2.6

Philaucus vietning all theie things and More than I have betered (for that the loversepe poaroeth deeper historica hinifelfe fecretly into historying, and locking the book began to be bate to

bimfelfe inthis manner; will glanto allianto a fridit lia dil

A to theire unfortunate is her that is once faithful, and befter Ait is to be a mercifelle foutoier than a true lone? the one lineth by an others veath the other vierb by his owife life. That frange fits her thefer Philamus, i has during the wife life, a beate, y thou hakelt for colony all chyboute in a hierering livear, in a flaming I fe, melteth like waxe, a harvneth like y Adamant?

Nould lote mp life than win my lone. Ah Camilla, but why voe A name thre whethou vost not heare me? Camilla, name thre I will, though thou hate me. But alas, the sound of the name doeth make mee sound for griese. What is in mee y thou shouldst not vespise, and what is there not in thee that I should not wonder at? Thou a woman, the last thing god made, and therefore the best. I a man, that tould not live without thee, at therefore the worst. All things were made for man as a Soueraign, and man made for a woman as a slave. D Camilla, would either thou hadst beene bred in Italie, or I in England, or would the vertues were less then the beautie, or my beroues greater than my affections.

ったなりしいっちゅうと

eer

31 à

r,

Is

Tiet that India bringeth golbe, but England bringeth goodnes: And had not England beene thouft into a corner of p world it wold have filled the whole world with woe. Where fuch women are as wee hane talked of in Italy, heard of in Rome, read of in Greece, but nener found but in this Alland: And for my parc (I fpeak foft-Ip because I witnot beare mp felfe) would there were none such here, or fuch every where. Ah fond Euphues, my Deare friende, but a fimple fool if thou beleeue now the Cooling Caro, an obffinate foole if thou bo not recant it. But it may be thou layed that carbe for p elevation of Naples like an Aftronomer. Ifit were to I forgive thee, for I muft beleene thee, if for the whole worlde, behould England where Camilla was borne the floure of curtefie, the picture of comelineffe : one that thameth Venus beeing fomewhat fairer, and much more bertuous: and faineth Diana, beeing as chafte, but much moze amiable. I but Philautus, the moze beautye the bath, the more prive, and the more bertue the more precifenes, The reacock is a birde for none but luno, the Doue for none but Vefta. Mone muit meare Venus in a Table, but Alexander; none Pallas in a ring, but Vliffes . For as there is but one Phoenix in the world, fo is ther but one tree in Arabia wherin the buildeth, and -as there is but one Camilla to bee beard of, fothere is but one Cacfarthat the wil like of with then Philaultus, what refleth for thee - bacto de with pariente feeing theu mailt not live with vlealure? . When the difeate is to dangerous, p the third letting of bloud is not able to recouer the, when neither Ariadnes thread, nor Sibillaes 13 bough bough, not Modeas feede, map remedy the griefe. Die, vie Philautus, rather with a fecret fear, than an open feome. Patroclus cannot mafkin Achilles armour without a maime, not Philautus in the English Court without a mocke. I, but there is no pearle fo hard, but vineger breaketh it, no Diamond fo flong, but bloud mollisteth, no heart fo fiffe, but love weakeneth it. And what then because the may love one, is it necessary the floud love three in and in

Bee ther not infinit in England, who as farre exceed thee in wealth, as thee both all the Italians in wife dome, are as far about thee in all qualities of the body, as the is about them in all giftes of the minde? Doeft thou not fee every minute the noble youth of England frequent y court, who no lefte courage, that thou cowardife? If courtly bravery may allure her, who more gallant that bey? If personage, who more ballat? If witty, who more tharpe? If birth, who more Mohle? If bertue, who more benout?

When there are all things in them that thoulo belight a Labic, and no one thing in thee that is in them, with what face Philacrus canst thou belier, which they cannot believe of with what service

Beferue that, which fo many befire before thee.

Che more beauty Camilla bath, the lefte hope houldest thou have: and thinke not but the bait that caught thee, bath begulled other Englishmen ere now. Infants they can love, neither so hearted to despite to, nog so simple, not to biscerne it.

Is it tikely then Philautus, that the for wil let the grapes hang for the goode? or the English man bequeath beauty to the Italian? No, no Philautus, assure thy selfe there is no Venus, but thee hath her Temple, where on the one side Vulcan may knocke, but Mars Gall enter: no Saint but bath his thene, and hee that cannot win with a Pater noster must offer a penny.

And as rare it is to feethe Sunne without a light, as a faire woman without a louer, & as neere infancy to beauty, as the picke to the Role, as the Calke to the rinde, as the earth to the roote.

Doll thou not thinke that hourely the is ferued and fued but to of the betters in hirth, the equals in wealth, inferious in no respect? If then the have given her faith, bareff thou call her howour into suspicion of falthood: If thee resule such vaine belights, toll thou bying her misedome into the compasse of folly? If thee

loue

in

th

PI

Con

pça

lone so beautifull a peece, then wil he not be but on fant? If she bom virginity, so that a lady cannot be persuced; of two things, the one of these must be true, that epther her minde is alreadie so weaned from lone, that she may not be moved, of so sected in lone, that she is not to be removed. I, but it may be, that so poung and tender a heart, hath not yet felt the impression of lone? I, but it cannot bee that so rare perfection should want that which they alwish, affection. A rose is sweeter in the bud than ful blowns. Pongtwigs are sooner bent then old trees. White Snow sooner melted than hard Is: which product that the younger she is, the sooner shes is to bee woosd, and the fairer shee is the likelyer to bee monne.

would not wastle with Cleopatra, though bee were sicke? The feareth to love Camilla, though be were blind?

Ab beauty, luch is thy force, that Vulcan courteth Venus, the for comlinelle a Goddelle, he for bglinelle a biuell: more fit to ffrike with a hammer in his forge, than to hold a Lute in her Chamber.

thou houldest caynt, and pricking the heart, which asketh a plaister?

For in decyphering what thee is, thou halt forgotten what thou the lelfe art, a being vazeled with her beauty, thou feelt not thine owne balenelle.

Thou art an Italian poose Philautus, as much milithed for the bice of the Country, as the meruelled at for the vertue of hers and with no lelle thame voelt thou heare, how if any Englishman bee infected with any milbemeanour, they fay with one mouth, hee is Italienated: fo odious is that Matton to this, that the very man is no lelle bated for the name, than the Countrie for the manners.

D lealic, I must love thee, because I was borne in thee: but if the infection of the agre be such as whosoever breed in thee, is possioned by thee, than had I rather be a Bastard to the Eurhe Octomo, than beire to the Emperour Nero.

2

B

0-

5,

23

32

Thou which heretofoze wall most famous foz victozies, art become most infamous by thy vices, as much vilvained now foz thy beaftlineRe in yeace, as once feared foz thy battailes in war: thy

Cælar

Cafar being turned to a clicar, the Confuls to Cardinalles, the facred Senate of three hundred grave Counfellors, to a chamelette Synope of three thousand greedie Caterpillers. Where ther is no vice punished, no vertue praised, where none is long loved if bee doe not ill, where none chall bee loved, if hee doe well. But A leave to name the linnes, which no Ciphers can number, and I would I were as free from the infection of some of them, as I am far from the reckoning of all of them, or would I were as much envised for good, as thou art pitied for til.

Philautus, would they had deft neuer lined in Naples, of neuer left it. Mihat new (kirmifhes doft thou now feele betweene reason and appetite, love and wifebome, banger and befire!

Shall I goe and attire my felfe in coffly apparelletuth, a faire pearle in a Botians eare, cannot make him white. Shal I tuffle in new deutles, with Chaines, with Bracelets, with Rings and Roades? Tuft, the pretious stones of Mansolus Sepulcher, cannot make the Bead carcaste sweete.

Shall I curle my haire, colour my face, counterfait coutilines? tulb, there is no painting can make a picture sentible. No, no, Philautus, either swallow the suice of Mandzake, which may cast thee into a dead sleepe, or them the hearbe Cheruel, which may cast thee thee to missake every thing a so shall chou either die in thy sumber, or thinke Camilla deformed by thy potion. No, I cannot dok so, though I would. But suppose thou thinke thy selfe in personage comely, in birth noble, in wite excellent, in take eloquent, of great revenewes: pet wil this onely be cast in thy teethe as an oblique, thou art an Italian.

I, but all that be black, dig not for coles, all things that breede in the mudde, are not Euers? all that be borne in Italy are not ill. Shee will not enquire what most are, but enquire what I am. Euery one that lucketh a wolfe is not ravening, there is no countrie, but hath some that have worse, none but bath some. And can't thou thinke that an English Geneleman will suffer an Italian to be his Rivall? No no, thou must either put up a quarrell with shame, or trie the combat with perill. An English man hath three qualities, hee can suffer no partner in his love, no stranger to bee bis equall, nor to be bared by any. Then Philautus, bee as wary of

ap.

Euplines and his England.

thelife as careful for the loue: thou must at Rome reverence Romulus, in Bootia Hercules; in Singland shofe that divell there, elfe thalt thou not line there. Ah loue, what wrong boff thou me, which once bequilent me wich that I have now beheaneft me for that that I baue not. The lone I boge to Lucilla was coloe water, the lone I owe Camilla bot firetthe first man ender with pefame , the laft muft begin with beath. I fee now that as the reffluation of an Ague is befperate othe fecond opening of a baine benoly : forbe renaing of lone is, I know not what to tearme it woole than beath cas bad as what is worft. I perceine it at the laft the punifement of foue is to line. Thou art beere a ftranger without acquaintance, no friend to ipeake for thee, mometo care for thee, Euphues will laugh at thee if he know it, & thou will meepeif hee know it not. Dinfortunate Philaucus , borne in the mane of the Poone, as like to obtaine the wife, as the wolfe to eat p Poone. But why goe Labout to quench fire with a (word, or wastectio co mortifie my loue? Dany Euplines, mould I haveby wit or shou my will. Shal I beterthis to the hut thou art more likely to correct my follies to counfaile, than to cofore me with any pretty conceit. Chou wile farthit heris a haby of great crebit, & I beere of no contenance: I, but Euphues, loin tres haue their tops, fmail fparks their heat, off per fpiene the flat ber gall, Philautus his affection, which is meichen ruled by realon, nog lebbe by appointment. Chan broughted me into England, Euphuesito fees & am blind: to feek aduentures & Thane loft my feife : coremedie lous, and amnow pall cure, much ithe Seriphuis that olde buibge in Naples, who conering to beelebilibleaced epol, pire though . Dy thoughes are bich my forcune louis I telemblethet foolif Biloton bobbileth up all his failes and hard no winder thanchesh out his which whach no water. Si joue thou takelt away my caft, and provokelbenine appetite, pet if Epphies would bee as willing to further mer now, as he was once wife to hinner mees I double thinke my falfe to 2sunate and off that are not appropried be footeb. There is before in the flow of Thracia; that whofoener findeth it, is never after grieved. I would I have that finne interp mouth; or that my body merein that riner, that I might either be mithout griefe, 0; withready a releasing past area chous spate enterine sine, where he split the factor. And

1-oof

b.

00

III.

m.

ın-

nit

ttb

1228 bce

o of

thy

And with thele words Euphies knocken at the noose, which Philaurus openen precending volulimette, and exculing his ablence by

folenefferunto mbom Euphues fafo: 3311 20

1. 7 Dat Philamus, voelt thou Gun the Conerto Reepe in a cogner, as one either clotes with belight to haufug furfetces if Defirerbelant me Philaum,if the minte be in that booze,oz thou fo becout, to fall from beauty to the beabes, and to forfale the court to line in a Cloiner, I cannot tell whether I fould moze wonder at the foreune, or peaile the wifebome: but I feate mee, if I line to fce thee to bolp, 3 chall be un olve man befoge I vie, og if thou vie not beforetou be fo purelthou halt be more maruailed at for the peeres, than effeemen forthy bertues. In footh mp good friend, if I thould tarry a peere in England, I could not abide an house in mp chamber, for I know not how it commett to palle, that in earth T thinke no other parabife, fuch variety of velights to allure a courtto eyestuch rare puritie to braw a wel sispoles mind, that I know not whether they be in England more amozous of vertuous, who ther I hould thinke my time belt beftomen in viewing goodly Lavies, or bearing goody leffons.

3 have thought no woman to excell Links in the moile, but now I feet bat in England they be al as good, none worle, many better, informich that I am inforced to thinks, that it is as tack to fee a beautifull woman in England without vertie, as to fee a fayre woman in Italie without prive. Curteous they are wont comelle, butunt without courtlinelle: merey without curiolitie, but not without measure, fo that conferring the Langes of Greece with the Ladges of Italy, I fluorthe best but invisioning and comparing both countries with the Ladies of England, I account them all flarke nambe. Ant truely Philainus, that thate not faithe me like aghailly father, for to thee I will condition two things my excreame folly, the one in louing Lucilla, who in comparison of thele, had no luarks of beautic, the other for making a cooling cars against momen, when I ste these to have to much bertue, so that the the first I must acknowledge my subgement taw to believe the bowes, & rath in the latter, to give to peremptor pleutente in both 3 thinke my felle to have erreb to much, that I recant both, being seany to take any penance thou halt intoine me, whether it bee's fagget laggot for bereile ; or a fine for bipaceille. An beretibe Twas by mine invective against women anotelle then an hypocrice for bil-fembling with thee, for now Philamus, I sam of that minue, that memen: but Philaucustahing balogofehis biscourle, intercupted him with a foraine reply, as followerb. Say Euphues, I can levell at the thoughts of the hearte by the mouth for that commonly the tongue acteteth y minue, e the outhour alpeech beligaieth the inward spirit. For an a good root is knowing by a faire bloffome, to is the fubitance of the peare notes by the frem of the countenance. I can fee may at a little hole, chou muft halt cumulingly if thou begutie a Cripple I cannot chooks but laughto fee thee play to the bait, the thou half limal lower, thinking with a mill to make my fig because I Could not perceine thy eiesblearen: but in faith Euphues, Jam now as twell acquainted with thy conditions; as mich the person, applied and make mee so expert in the dealings, the world, but then that enture a ceine me a bunne ship premont the fice, he that flumblesh at one flore to the fines, the three that flumblesh at one flore to the fines, thou matt hap for many the first being the flumble the flumblesh at the first being me. I be not the first being the flumblesh and the first being the flumblesh and the flumblesh an tow as readily by the property of the pilage: It is a blinde Goofe of trobiech not a Karedrape a ferne bulb a e foatig felle lames the follien to griefe, whe she here it. The suphyes, I long thee well but hell to beape more bacmes on the bead l If fuer clay off by the greatmile bomete indicathon purnotion thou canti not leave when thou litteth. An confiction returns to the nomit, feeming tappie by that tubich thou violt call by action of and art thou not albamen not agains to needes thinke thee either envious byon li opon a light caple and then will ther all a toy top ipigbe, as to laugh at thee for the laufeuelle. Mo Emphues, fo peep a wound cannot be beaten wich fo lighe a vaftime.

Ĺ

I

D

pattime thou maift by Are reconstrut pfkin, but thou canif neuer court the fearre, thou mail thates with footes because thou art wife butthe wife witenie marke cheeter a foote Chenfure Ita. not fee what thou gameftito the fimple conbemne thee of flattery. a the grave offolly. Is thy cooling care of this propertie to queck ade in others, e to kindle flames inchee Dy to it a toher from on make thet tharp, tos binnejopa (todace cut todands in mee and cure the in Euphues? (The borne ver thoughted of the chow plott it, whis boest Montate follow it? But te is heated for the Phylician to faited to the thephearben wanenfoignplices to protonte unas pente, pode white de tim antehrinultmene altrangfolivet obelitte theed a nartop Philauma in the Dollone Emphiles & all toueve he onespecialization residenticly a card of ton, or eather fooled with a ne cope as these by professes puicted to cop Per chair monthling traingreat finne to bee houself, as there to bet himbroins; thou emichenobleseiset woman without thirty vort waterbannie goodgere inth izele interious viewe Biferaring Intergrantete chen in the waterburglishing his took book to be lon bythe vifordinate faute. Ale ale at the there is morting elinouth then glaffe, per nouting war shade? hothin encyriotion and taro many volones, e ferier baff or trave when thou Junta lear trong beatite to my 123 Me to beatime le from raditie es, ribin Paul go Ouic from the Branches who experiented the Canton Blomantis and reinfent and the Canton Branches the Canton to the Canton Spine of mill vall inc thousmatest be accounted wife: and being obstinate, thou art to bee thought angular. There is no coine good fluer but the half peny, if the Glasse glister it must needed be golde, if thouspenke a sentence, it must be law: if give a censure, an unacle: if peame, a prophenic contexture, a truth i insomuch that I am brought into a boubt, whether I house more lament in the thy want of government, or laugh arthy fance gravity.

But as the tuncament Cherillus hav nothing to be noted in his beries but onely the name of Alexander, not that tural poet Daretus any thing to court his deformed Ape, but a white curtain so Euphues hath no onething to havo white character with the but onely a frem of wir Aspeake all this, Euphues, not that I enough the petate, but that I pitty it, & in this I have off thereof the butte of a friend, in that I have nor winked at the folly.

Chou art in love Euphues, contrary to thine outh, thine honous, thine holieff, in either would any protesting as thou over, this as thou voest, which was tellegetese to me, than wante to there exist thou maiest make some, because I am crebutous, but amendes to the world thou simil not frame, because than art come out of Greece, to blaze the vice its England, a place too fourt so, thee, a thou conditioned for any place. And this my flat a freendly vealing, if that will start cake as I neither, take as thou will. I feare not the top of the conditions the start cake as I neither, take as thou will.

Publics not a first annayed with the discourteous speech of Philanius, whom he sawe in such a burning sease; who not apply warms clothes to continue his sweat, but gave him coly vienke to make him space, which challing to avangous maling was to be consecutively appealed medicine, or veces mining to ble as little are to physical, much seperate bonests in friendly therfore in tread of applicate party of very bonests in friendly therfore in tread of applicate party of very long as followers.

Luer breede to a fillula, or a body kept lo well from brink, to a windles would mediate build selled by belief is as canke as y wolfies, who a whole well from brink, to a windle would make the proposition is a canke as y wolfies, who and do pour field well and the continues of the continues of

than

mill

こし、その以外のの面面の面面に

993

OID

ale Neftors water whom pay was no better then poilon: # thy Saby no leffe diffemperen than Hermogeneus stubam abitinence from wine mabe ofcentimes bunke. I feetby humour is loue, thy quart rell tealoufe: the one I gather by thy abole beab, other by the Sulpicious nature:but I leave them both to the wil, athee to thine owne wickennelle. Bretily cloaking thine own follie, thou called me theele first, not buicke buto a curft wife, who beferving a checke beginnerh firft to Colo. There is nothing that can cure the Bings suill, but a Prince , mothing elle a pleurille but letting blood, nothing purge the humour, but that which I cannot give thee, nor thou get of anyother, libertie.

Thou feemest to colour craft by a friendly kindnesse, faking great care for my bondage that I might not diffeuft thy follyes: which is, as though the Chauft in the Cage fould bee forrie for p Rightingale, which fingerbon the tree, og the Beare at the frake lament the milhap of the Lyon in the Fogreft.

But in truth Philaucus, though thy faine them thee a fore,the little fkill treeth thee a Beepe. At is not the colour that commenbeth the good Painter, but a good countenance: not the cutting & balueth the Diamond, but the pertue, not a glole of the tongue that tryeth a friend, but the faith, Soy as all cornes are not good that have the image of Cafar, no; all golde that is coince with the kings frampe : fo all is not truth that beateth the fleine of good linette, not all friends that beare a faire fate. Af thougattenb fuch loue to Euphues, carry thy beart on the bache of the band, and the tongue in the palme, that I may fee what is in the minde, and thou with the lingers clafpe the mouth. Dla Brand menve, and their all processes of malicer all things of an examp more for that all processes of malicer all things of a friend if it be to trieme, nothing if it be to betrap me of am of Scipipes minde, who had rather that Hanniball thould eate his beart mith falt, than Lalius grieve it with bukin meller and of the like with Lalius man chafe rather to be flaine with the Speniagon, than Lalius, who choic rather to be flaine with the Spaniator, that I can better take a blifter of a netfle ; than a pair he of a Role; more willing that a Ranen thoule peck our mine cien; then a take tle pecke at them. To ope of the meate one liketh not . in hetter than to furfet of that bee louether I hab rather an enimie houlds bierieme quick than a friend belieme when I am bead.

But the frindship Philaurus, is like a new fathion, which beeing view in the morning, is accounted all before noone: which variety of changing being oftentimes noted of a grave Gentleman of Naples who having bought a hat of the newest fashion, and best blocke in all lialy, wearing it but one vay, it was told him that it was state, be hung it up in his studie, and viewing all lortes, all shapes, perceived at the last his alve hat agains to come into the new fashion: where with smiling to hunselse he layd. I have now lived rompasse, for Adams olde Apron must make Eve a new Mictlemoring this, that when no new thing could be deviced, nothing could be more new than the old.

I fpeake this tothis end Philancus, & I fee thee as often change the bead as others doe cheir bats, now being friend to Aiax beecaule bee hould couer thee with bis Buehler, now to Vliffes, that her map please for thee with bis eloquence, now to one and now to another, and thou beated with the friends as that Gentleman did with his felt : for feeing not my baine answerable to the vanities, thou goelf about (but pet the neerell way) to bang mee up to; baly dayes, as one neither fitting the bead, noz pleating she bumour ; but when Philaurus thou halt fee, that change of frienothips thati make thee a fat Calle, and a leane coffer: that there is no moze bolbe in a new friend than a new falbion : that bats alter as fast as the Curnet can turne his blocke, and bearts as foone as one can curne bis backe; when feeing every one returne to bis old mearing, a finde if the belt: then compelled rather for want of others, than good will of mee, thou will retire to Euphues, whom thou layeout by the walles, and feeke bim as a new friend, laying to the fette. I bane lines compatte. Euphues old faith, mult make Philanus a new friend. Wherin thou refembleit those that at the first comming of new mine leave the olde, pet finding that grave more aleafant than wholefome , they begin to fay as Califthenes bib to Alexander, that be bab rather caronfolb graines with Diogenes in his bith, than new grapes with Alexander in his Canbing cupifo; ofall gobs, faib be, 3 lone Aefculapius. But thou art willingeb change,elle wouldelt thou bee buwitfing to quarrell: thou keeped onely companyout of my light to Reinaldo thy country man which I infracting cocealed, and nom proning it boe not care. If be baue better beferueb the name of a friend than W. God knoweth : but as Achilles theeld being lotton the beas by Vliffes mastoft by the Sea to the Combe of Aiax, as a manifeft token of his right: fothen being forfaken of Reinaldo will bee found in Athens by Euphues boote; as the true owner. Zabich I (peake not as one bother loole thee, but carefull thou loofe not the felfe. Thou thinkel an apple may pleafe a chilo, & euery pobe anfiner appeales friend. 120 Philantus, a plaifter is fmal amenda for a broken head: a bab er cule will not purge an illacculer. A friend is long a getting, & foone lott, like a marchants riches, who by tempet looleth as much in two boures, as bee bath gathered together in twenty peeres. Moching fofall knit as glalle, petonce broken, it can neuer be toiner. Rothing fuller of mettall than deele, pet ouerheater, it will never be baroned, frienoffip is the belt nearlesbut by difdaine, throwen into bineger, it burtleth rather in seeces than it will bow to any fofeneffe. ...

Linc

Teis a falt fich that mater cannot make freib, fmeet Bonythat is not made bitter with gall bard gold that is not mollified with fire and a miraculous friend that is not made an enimp with cotempt. But gine me leave to examine the caule of thy vilcounts to the quicke, and omitting the circumstantes, I will to the sub-

Cance do in bladen a mant gereinf mont ent eled biest in i eredt The onely thing thou laieff to my charge is loue, a that is a got ornament. The reason to prone it, is mp prailing of women , but that is no good argument. Am I indone Philamos with whom it Chould be thou canft not confecture, and that it Chould not be with thee thou give flaccations ord ve fla val and made and the all Priamus beranto beienlous of Hercules, when hee knew none Did loue her, but when hee loued many, and thou of me, when thou art affured & lone none but shou chyfelfe query one; but tobether I loue orno, I cannot live quiet, waleffel he fit for the poper swherin thou boeff imitate Scyron and Procuses, who framing a beo of Bralleto their oluve bignelle, canled to beplaced as a longing for all pallengers, informet that none could crauell that way, but be was inforced to take meafare of their thegtes if he were too long

for

is

in mbo lo

for the bed, they cut off his legs for catching colde, it was no place for a lungis, if too fort, they racked bim at length, it was no pallet for a Dwarfe: and certes Philautus, they are no lelle to bee vilcommended for their crueltie, than thou for thy folip. For in like maner balt thou built a bedde in thine owne braines, wherein every one mult be of thy length, if be love, thou cuttell bim hatter either with some odde deuife . or grave counsell, swearing rather than thou wouldest not be beleeved, that Protagines postrated Venus, to a Spungefprinkeled with Iweet water, but if once the wanng it, it would drop bloud: that her Judge combe wold at the first tickle the baires, but at the last turne all the baires into Adders fo that nothing is more batefull than love. If bee love not thou aretchell out like a Wire Datver, making a Wire as long as the finger, longer then thine arme, pulling on with the Dincers with piboomaker a litle those on a great foote, till thou cracke the credit, as be both his flitches, allebging that love followeth a good wit, as b hadow both the bodie, as requilite for a Gentleman, as feele in a weapon. A wit faielt thou, without love, is like an Egge without falt, and a courtier boid of affectio, like falt without fauour. The as one pleating thy felfe in thine owne humour, or playing with others to; thine owne pleasure, thou rollest all the wits to fift love from luft, as the Baker ooth the bran from the flower, bringing in Venus with a Morteile buder the foote, as flowe to barmes, ber Chariot drawne with white Swannes, as the cognifance of Vesta, ber birds to be Pigions, noting pietp: with as many innenfions to make Venus currant, as the Lavies vie fleights in Italie, to make them felues counterfait.

31

a

it

th

ne

ott

rec

er-

of

for t be

DRC

fo3

Thus with the Acgyptian thou platell fall or loole, to that there is nothing more certain than that thou will love, a nothing more bucertaine than when, turning at one time the taile to the winde, with the Pedgehog, the note in the wind with the weathercock, in one gale both hopting layle a weighting Anker, with one breath making an allarum and a party, discharging in the same instant, both a bullet and a falle sire. Thou hast racke mee a curtain mee, sometimes I was too long, sometimes too short, now too big, then too little, so that I must need thinke the bed mostrous, or my body, eather the brains out of temper, or my soits out of tunes insoprential.

312

mach

much as I can liken thy head to Mercuries pipe, who with one stop caused Argusto stare and winke. If this fault bee in thy nature, couled can do litle good, if in thy viscale, physick can do lesse for nature will have her course, so that perswalions are needlesse, and such a malady in the marrow, will never out of the bones, so that medicines are bootleffe.

Thou faill that all this is for love, and that I being thy friend. thou art loth to winke at my folly: truely I fay with Tully , with faire morbes thou halt pet per wabe me : for experience teacheth mee, that Graight trees have crooked routes, (mooth baites tharp hookes, that the fairer the stone is in the Toades bead, o moze peltilent ber voilon is in ber bowels: that talke the moze it is fealoned with fine phales, the leffe it fauoureth of true meaning. It is a mad Dare that will be caught with a Caber, a a foolif bird that fateth the laying falt on her taile, & a blinbe goofe that commeth to the Fores fermon. Euphues is not intangled with Philautus charmes. If all were in felt, it was too bjoad, weighing the place : if in earnest too bar, considering the person: if to try the wit, it was folly to bee fo:if the friendfhip, matice to bee fo baffie. Walt thou not read, lince the comming into England, a wettie bifcourle of one Phiola, cocerning the rebuking of a friende Zeibole realons. although they were but a few, pet were they lufficient, a if you be-Gre moze, I could rehearle infinit: But thou att like the Epicure. whole bellp is fooner filled than bis eye: for he coueteth to have twenty bilbes at his Cable, when he cannot bigeff one in his fomacke, and thou betireft many realous to bee brought, when one micht ferue the turne, thinking it no Rainbow that bath not all colours, nor anneient armorie that is not quartered with funbap coats not perfect rules that have not a thouland realons: & of all the realons would thou wouldelt follow but one, not to check the friend in a brauery, knowing that rebukes ought not to weigh a graine moze of Salt than Suger: but to be fo tempered, as like Depper they might be bot in the mouth, but like Criacle, wholefome at the beart : fo thall they at the first make one bluth, if hee were pate, and well confibered, better, if be were not paff grace.

If a friend offend, he is to be whipped with a good farles rod, who when her childe will not be still, gineth it together both the twig & the teate, & bringeth it alleep when it is wayward, as well with rocking it as rating it.

1-1211

Il

8 kε

le= 991

.00

the via

The admonition of a true friend thould be like the practife of a wife Bhylicion, who wrappeth bis tharpe pilles in Sugar, or the cunning Chirurgion, who launcing the wound with an pron, immediatly applyeth to it foft lint, or as mothers beale with their children for wormes, who put their bitter feedes into fweet Raifins, if this order had been oblerued in thy discourse, interlaling fowpe taunts w fugred counfaile, bearing afwell a gentle raine, as bling a hard fnattle, thou mightelt have bone more with the whilke of a wande, than now thou canft with the pricke of a fpur, & auopoed that which now thou mail not extreame bukindnes. But thou art like that kinde Judge which Properties noteth, who condemning his friend, cauled him for & more cafe to be hanged to a filken twift: And thou like a friend, cutteft my throat to a rafoz, not with a hatchet for my more bonor. But why hold I fet vown the office of a friend, when thou like our Athenian, knowest what thou houldelt bo, but like them, never voelt it.

Thou faift I eate mine owne words in prailing women, no Philautus, I was never either fo wicked or fo witleffe to recat truths, or milake colours. But this I lay, that the Lavies in England as far excell all other countryes in bertue, as Venus both all women in beautie, I flatter not thole of whom I bope to reave benefite, neither pet to praile them, but that I think them womenthere is no (word made of deele but hach pron, no fire made of wood but bath fmoke, no wine made of grapes but bath les, no woma created of fleth but bath faults: tif I love them Philauther beferve it. But it erieneth not thee Philautus that they be faire, but that they are chafte neither doeft thou like mee the worfe for commending their beauty: but thinkest they will not love thee well, because so bertuous: wherein thou followell thole, who better elleeme the light of the Role than the lauour , preferring faire weedes before good bearbs, chooling rather to weare a painted floure in their bosomes, then to have a wholsome roote, in their broaths, which resembleth the fathion of our Mainens in Italy, who buy that for the belt cloth that will weare whitelt, not that will laft longeft. Ther is no moze praile to be giuen to afaire face than to a falle glatte,

32 2

fo2

for as the one finttereth be to a baine fhabow, to make be proute in our owne conceits, the other feebeth be to an ible bope, to make be preuif in our concemplations. Chirurgions affirme, that a white beine being fricken,if at the firt ther fpzing out blood, it arqueth a good conflitution of bobp: and I think, if a faire woman baufner heard the fute of a louer, if thee bluth at the fielt brunt, & them ber blood in her face, heweth a well bispoled minte: fo as bertuous momen I confelle, areto be cholen by the face, not when they blufb for the thame of lome fin committed, but for feare the thould commit any alt women thould be as Cafar would baue bis wife . not onely free from fin, but from lufpicion. If fuch be in the Englift Court,if & fould not praife them, then wonloff thou fay, I care not for their bertue, now I give them their commendation. thou Imeareft I love them for their beautie: So that it is no leffe labour to pleafe the minbe, than a fick mans mouth, who can relife nothing by the tall, not y the fault is in pmeat, but in his malaby. not thou like of any thing inthy bead, not that there is any visorber in my layings, but in thy fenfes: Thou boet latt of at obiect y which filence might well refolue, that I am fallen from provhets to poets, e returned againe with the dog to my bomit, which Soo knoweth is as farre from truth, as I know thou art fre wifhome. Mithat baue I bone Philaunus, fince my going from Naples to Athens, fpeake no moze then the truch, btter we leffe, flatter mee not comake mee better then I am, belpe mee not tomake mee worle, force nothing of malice, conceale nothing for leue: Die Fener vie any bufeemly talk to corrupt ponth? Well me where:bib I ener beceine thole that put me in truth Tellime whom have I commitsevery fact worthy either of veath of defame? Thou cantt not recken what: baue I abuled my lelf towards my faperiours endals. 92 inferio28? I thinke thou cant not Deuile toben, but as there is no moell fo white, but f Dier can make it black, no apple fo flueet but a tunning grafter can change teinto a crabifo is there no man lo voto of crime, pa fpiteful tongue canot make bim to be thought a cairife, pet commonly it falleth out fo well, that the cloth weareth p better being byed: the apple eareth pleafanter being graf. ted, and the imprence is more effeemed, and thrineth fooner being ennied for bertuethan belged for malice. For as be that Aroche lason

Lason on the stomack, thinking to kill him, brake his impossume with the blow, whereby he cured himsto oftentimes it farethmich those that deale maliciously, who in sead of a lwoydapply a falce and thinking to be ones Priest, they become his Physician. But as the traitor that clippethehe coine of his Primes, maketh it lighter to be weighed, not worse to be touched; so he that by smister reports seemeth to paire the treate of his friend, may make him lighter among the common sort, who by weight often imes are veretouch with countersaits, but nothing empateeth his good name with

A ftranger comming into the Capitoll of Rome, feelne all the Gods to be engrauen, Come in one Cone, Come in another, at the laft be perceiuch Vulcan to be wrought in Juorie, Venus to be carned in Jeace, which long time beholding with great velight, at v laft be burft into thefe words: Meither can this white Iworie Vulcan make thee a white Smith, neither this faire woman Jeate make thee a faire flone. Wahereby he noted that no cunning could alter the nature of the one not no nature transforme the colour of the other. In like manner I fay Philantinialthaugh thou bane habowed my guiltleffe life with a defamed counterfait, per thall not the black Vulcan make either the acculations of force or my innocenete faultie, neither thallthe inbice Venus which thou buff postrated byon the black Jeace of the malice make the combitions amiable, for Valcan cannot make Juop black, nor Venus change the colour of Jeate, the one having received fuch course by nature, the other fuch force by bertue.

Mhat cause have I given thee to inspect mee, a what decadion halt thou not offered me so vetest thee? I was never wife inough to give thee counsaile, pet ever willing to with thee well, in we alth small to doe thee good, pet ready to doe my best. Insomoth as thou couldest never accuse me of any discurresses unless the were in being more carefull of thee, than of my felfe, mind garit , carrie

C

S, ig

et

au

bt

24-af-

ph

alt

for.

But as all floures that are in one Molegaplare not of one nature, nor all rings that are worne bean one hand, are not of one fathers to all friends that affortate at bed and boots, are not of one disposition. Scipio must have a noble minde, Lesius au humble spirit. Titus must sust affor Sempronia, Gysppus must leave her: Da-

Cridut . 123

mon

mon mult go take order for his landes, Pithias muft tarry bebint. as a pleoge for his life. Philantus muft por what per will, Euphues not what he fould. But it may be was the first of biners colours make viners beaftes mad: fo mp prefence both orive thee into this melancholy. And feeing it is fo, I will ablent my felf, bre another longing in London, and for a time give my lelfe to my booke, for I have learned this by experience, though I be young o bautas are knowne by the bandes . Lyons by their clawes. Cockes by their combes, envious mindes by their manners. Date thee I will not and truff thee I may not : Thou knowell what a friend hould hee, but thou wilt never line to try what a friend is. Farewell Philautus, I will not fap to beare thee reply but leave thee to the Iuf Euphues carryeth bis Boelle written in bis band. and ingrauen in bis heart. A faithfull friend is a wilfull foole. And to I taking leave till I beare thee better minben : England hall beemp above for a lealon, bepart when thou wilt, and againe farestate Conv. I. Lace by the nove of beet no contain Euphues in a great rage beparted, not fuffering Philautus to and the one more who from in a mase after the speech of Euphues: but taking courage by love, went immediatly to the place where Camilla was bauncing, and there will I leave him in a thousand thoughts baummering in his head, and Euphues seeking a new Chamber, which by good friends her quickly got, a ther fell to his Pater Noster, where a while I will not trouble him in his prayers.

Dw you hall inderstand, that Philautus furthered as well by the opportunity of the time, as the requestes of certaine Genclemen his friends, was intreated to make one in a Masque: which Philautus percetuing to be at the Gentlemans house where Camilla lay, assented as wilting to goe, as he veliced to speed: a all thinges being in a readynesse they went with speed: where being welcomed, they daunced, Philautus taking Camilla by the hand, of as time server began to book her on this manner.

Inot dispute, how common you know, that Palquers do therfore couer their faces, that they may open their affections, and bider the colour of a danne discouer their whole delives: the benefite of which

afi

na

no

tha

rie

ma

bia

Pot

möm

mbich painiledge, I will not ble, extept pou grauns it, neither can pou refule except pou breake it, I meane ontly withqueltions to trie pour wit, which hall neither couch pour honour to answere. not my boneffy to afke and say to and a red and amignific of one

Camilla tooke him bp Bogt, as one not to feeke bow to reply fin

this mannet nurel dripet (amee tieft um woll of Finestan ?)

11

12

e:

rè

II

na

10.

ill

028 det

of

ich

Entleman, if you be leffe you are too bold : iffo too broad in Iclaiming acultome, wher ther is no preferiotio. I know not pour name becaule pou feare to beter it neither boe ? Delire it : @ pouleeme to be albanter of pour face; elle montopour not hise te; neither doe I befire it neither poe I long to feett bite as for a cul tome, I was never foluperatirious, that either Ithought it treafon to breake them, or reason to keen them as out ad, almout I see

As for the prouting of mp wit. That rather pour hould account me a foole by filence show wife by antwerting Forfuch questions in thefe allemblice, mone fulpation tobers there is no coule, wither-

Philautus, who cuer as yet but plated with the baite was ftrooke with the hooke, a no lette veltigeevis heare ber quente, tha belirous to obtaine his faire trained her by the Hauditt this fort. I sthe partence of men were an greater that previde there of wormen, I thouse then fall from a question of quarretty for 6 I perceine pon bram o counterfait ofthat I monte far, bothe conceit of that you thinke others have fair : but inharfoeuer the colour be, the victure is as it we aleth the Baincer, and what foeuer were precented, the minde is as p beart both incendia cumming apolice is not kolone bohis acrow, but by his atime mesther a friendlie affection by the tongue, but by b faith Telbich if it be lome chinketh common curteffe thould allow that which you think to cut off by courtly coinelle as one either too pong to butterfand, or obitinate to ouerthwart pour peeres that bronte the one land pour honour pardon the other. And pet land I ain not of that faint mino, that though I winke at a flath of lightning. I page not oven mine ries againe, or having once fuffered areputte, I hould not bare to make freib allaule: perhat Artheth faile in a Mogme, boifeth chem bigherin a calme which maketh me the bolder to beter that which pou difoaine to heave blu as the Done feetheth angry, as though the the had a gallipet yelveth at the last to belight so Labies pretenn a great skirmish at the first, pet are boorded willingly at the last. I meane therefore to tell you this, which is all, that I love you. And so wringing her by the hand, hee ended, he beginning as followether no work and at long an aroth you mit sales when.

Entlema(I follow my firft terme) which theweth rather my Imovelly tha your defert, Leeing your elemble thole which hauing once metabeir feete,care not how ween they mave, or those p breaking the Mie weigh not how faces thep dip, thinking it lawfull if one fuffermouse goe amp; no Cameto goe flipthood: if 3 thenly fay nothing then would you valid that Tram toon; for y they that are filent, feeme to confent: if anything, then would you book that I would be wosen, outhat callies that come co Parle, & women that velight in courting, are willing to peelo So that I muft cither beare those wings which a would not of feenie to be cought by none, no co holo vonceite which & Manio mos, erunne inco the Sulpition of others. But certaining if pou knew how much your talke nispleases bence, a how little it should profit you, you would thinkthe cime as bainly loft in beginning your talke, as I accout over long untill power bis I from build to pon custome, that Spale quers bour libergie to fpeake what they Could not, you that! know that women baue realon to make them beare what they moule not, and shough pou can biter by gour difare whatforuer it bee without blufbing, pet cannot I beare it without hame. But I never looked for a better tale of faill a face: you fay a bap colour map make a good countenance; but he that conferret your oilpapaen vilcourle with your beformen actire, map rightlie fay,that beneuer fate forrabbed à bilage, no; beard fo crooked a baine, An Accher lay pou, is to bee knowne by his ayme, not by his arrow but your syme is foill, that if you knew how far wive from the marke your haft licheth , you would beereafter rather breake your Bowethen benoit: If I be cooyoung to buberffand pour bestinies, it is a ligne Frannot looke : if coo obstinate,it is atoken I will not: therefore for you to bee pilpleafed, it epther needeth not of bootest not Det you goe farther, thinking to make a great bertue of pour little valour, laying fligbening may cause you wink, but it hall not frike pon blino, that a florme may make pou

İ

O

De

6

En

wi

COU

you frike faile, but neuer cut the Ball, that a bot fkirmil map caule you to retire, but never to run away : what your cuming is I know not, & likely it is pour courage is great, pet baue I beard, that be that bath elcaped burning with lightning, bath been fpoilen with thunder, and one that often bath wifhed browning, bath been hanges once fogall, and be that thainketh from a bullet in v maine battaile, bath been fricken with a bil in the rereward. Dou fall from one thing to another, bling no Decorum, except this, g you from to have your offcourle as far boibe of lenfe, as your face is offavour, to the end that pour difficured councenance might Supply the bilog ber of pour ill couches fentences, among p which, pou bring in a Done without a gall, as farre from the matter pou Speake of, as you are from the mafferie you would have, who although the cannot be angrie with you in that the bath no gall, pet can the laugh at you because the bath aspicene.

I wil end where you began boping you wil begin where I end, pou let fall pour queffion which I looked for and pickt a quarrell which I thought not of, a that is love, but let ber that is bilpoled toanfwere pour quarrell, beccurious to bemaund pour queftion. And thus Bentleman I belire you, all queffions and other quarrels let apart, you think me as a friend, lo farforth as I can grant with modellie,0) you require with good maners, & as afriend I with you, that you blow no more this fire of love, which wil wafte you before it warme pon, and make a coale in you before iskinble in me: if you think other wife, I can alwell ble a fhift to baine pou off.as you did a them to draw me on. I have answered your cu-Come, leaft pou thould arque me of cornelle, no otherwise than I might, mine honour lauco, and pour name baknowne.

Bethis time entred another Balque, but almoft after the fame. manner and onelie foz Camillas love, which Philaucus quicklie elnied and leeing his Camilla to be courted with fo gallant a youth, Departed, per within a corner, to the end bee might discipler the Gentleman whom he found to be one of the bravelt youths in all England, called Surius; then mounted with griefe, bee fwouner with weahenes, and going to his chamber, beganne afresh to recount his mifertes on this fort.

Shmilerable and accurled Philamus, the berig moniter of 324ture **®

2555

8

B

bp

DE

et da

ts

het

ake

use

ake

pot

fure, and spectacle of shame, if thou line, thou shalt be vespiled: if thou die, not milled: if wooe, pointed at: if win, loathed: if lose, laughed at: bred either to line in lone and be forlaken, or vie with loue and be forgetten.

Ah Camilla, would either I had been borne without eies not to see thy beautie, or without eares not to heare thy wit, the one bath enslamed me with a besire of Venus, the other with the gifts of Pallas, both with the sire of some: Love, pea, some Philautus, then the which nothing can happen buto man more miserable. I perceive now that the Chariot of the Sunne is so! Phæbus, not sor Phaeton, that Bucephalus will soope to none but Alexander, that none can sound Mercuries Pipe but Orpheus, that none shall win Camillas liking but Surius a Gentleman I cofesse of greater birth then I, and pet I vare sate, not of greater sateh. It is he Philautus, that will seete all the fat from thy beard, insomuch as she best visibatine to looke upon thee, if she but once thinks upon him. It is he Philautus, that hath wit to trie her, wealth to assure her, personage to entice her, all things that either nature or Fortune can give to win her.

For as the Phrygian harmonie, being monet to the Calenes, ma-Reth a great notic, but being moued to Apollo, it is fill and quietfothe love of Camilla beffred of me, mooveth & know not bow manie bilcords, but proued of Surius , it is calme and contenceth. It is not the lweet flo wer that Lables bellre, but the faire, which maketh them weare that in their beads, wought forth with the neeble, not brought forth by Maturerand in the like manner they account of that love which art can colour, not that the bart both cafelle : wherein they imitate the maidens (as Euphues often hath colde me) of Athens, who take more belight to fet a frell and fine colour , then to talte a fweet and wholefome firm. I but home knowell thou that Surius faith is not as great as fine, when thou art affureb thy bertue is no lelle then bis!De is wife, and that thou feett : valiant, and that thou fearett : tich, and that them lacked : fit to pleale ber and oifplace thee, and without fpite be fe fait, wozthis to boe the one, and willing to attempt the other. Ay Camilla, Camilla, 3 kuom not whether 3 hould more commet the beautie of the wit; neither can I cell whether the lookes have wounded me more, or the words. For they have wrought such an alteration in my spirits, that seeing thee stent, the comelines maketh me in a maze: and hearing thee speaking, the wisebome maketh mee statke mad. I, but things above the height are to be looked at; not reached at. I, but if I should now end, I had been better never to have begun. I, but time must weare awaie lone: I, but time may winne it. Pard stones are pearced with fost drops, great Dakes bewen downe with manie blowes, the stonics heart mollisted by continuall perfmalions, og true perfeuerance.

If velerts can nothing prenaile, I will practile veceits, and what faith cannot doe, conturing hall. What faith thou Philautus, canst thou imagine so great mischiese against her thou loues? knowest thou not that Fish caught with medicines, and women gotten with Witchcrast, are never wholesome? No, no, the Fores wiles wil never enter into the Lions head, no? Medeas charmes into Philautus heart. I, but I have heard that extreamities are to be view where the meane will not serve, and that as in love there is no measure of grief, so there should be no end of guile, of two mischieses the least is to be chosen, and therefore I think it better to posson her with the sweet baite of love, then to spoile my felfe with the bitter fling of beath.

18

ż

2.

CD

ate

Ifthee be oblinace, why thould not I be befperate? If the bee voide of pittie, why thouto not I be void of vietie? In the ruling of Empires, there is required as great policie as proweffe:in gouerning an effate, close crueltie both moze good then open clemencie: for the obtaining of a kingbome, afwell milchiefe as mercieis to be practifed. And then in the winning of my Loue, the berie image of beautie, curteffe, and wit, hall I leave any thing vulought, bnattempted bonbone? De that belireth riches, muft fretch the fring that will not reach, and practife all kinds of getting. De that coneteth bonour, a cannot climbe by the Labber, muft ble all colours of luftines. De that thirftethfor wine muft not care bow be get it, but where be map get it: not be that is in love bee curious what meanes be ought to ble, but reabie to attempt any: fo; flender affection to 3 think that which either the feare of law or care of religion map biminifb. fie Philautus, thine owne words conbemne thee of wickednes: tuth, the pallions I fullaine are neither to bee quieted 102

quicted with countaile, not eafed by reason: therefore I am fullie resolued, either by Art to win her love, of by despaire to lose mine owne life.

I have heard here in London of an Icalian, cunning in Pathematike, named Piellus, of whom in Icaly I have heard in such cales can be much by Pagike, and will be all things for money, him will I allay, aswell with golde as other good curnes, and I chinke there is nothing that can be ewought, but shall be wrought for guilt, or good will, or both. And in this rage, as one forgetting where he was, and whom hee loved, he went immediatlie to seeke apprick for that which onelie was to be found by Foreme.

Here Bentlemen you may fee into what open finnes the heat of love viveth man: especiallie, where one louing is in bespaire, either of his owne imperfection, or of his Lavies vertues, to be heloued againe, which causeth man to attempt those things, that are contrary to his owne minde, to religion, to honestie. What greater billante can there be devised, then to enquire of Soucerers, Sooth-lapers, Conturers, or tearned Clarkes, for penioping of love. But I will not refell that here, which wall be confused beceater.

Philautus bath soone sound this Gentleman, who conducting him to his studie, and demaunding of him the cause of his comming, Philautus beginneth in this maner as one past shame to bufold his sute.

Master Psellus (and Countriman) I neither boubt of pour currenting to satisfie my request, not of your wisebome to concease it for were either of them wanting in you, it might turne me to crouble, and your selfe to shame. I have heard of your learning to be great in Magicke, and somewhat in Physicks, pour experience in both to be exquisite, which caused me to seeke to you so, a remedie of a certaine griefe, which by your meanes may be eased, of else no way cured.

And to the end such cures may be wrought, God hath Airred by in all times Clarkes of great vertue, and in these our dates men of no small credite, among the which I have heard no one more commended then you, which alchough happtite your movelite will denie (for that the greatest Clarkes do communite dissemble their knowledge) or your precisenesse not graint it, for that curining

th

dif

th

Mo

men are often more baungerous: pet the world voth wel know it, bitters have trien it, and I must neeves beleeve it.

Piellus not luffering bim to range, per vellrous to know bis arrant, antwered him thus? 03 mans anoli 342 aluas E aniq

of

-

2

22

6-20

m

g, ũ:

02

le.

at

to

-

ap

Gentleman, and Countriman as you lay, a I beleeve; but of that hereafter: if you have to great confidence in my cunning, as you protest, it may be your strong imagination that work that in you, which my Art cannot, for this a principle among be, that a vehement thought is more available, than the vertue of our figures, formes or characters. As for keeping your coulell in things honest, it is no matter, and in cases valuables, I wil not meddle. And pet if it threaten no man harme, and may one you good, you shall since my secrecie to be great, though my science be small, and therefore say on.

There is not far hence a gentlewoman, whom I have long time loued, of honest parents, great vertue, and singular beautie, such wone as neither by Art I can describe, not by service describe, and pet because I have beard manie say, that where canning must work, the whole bodie must be coloured, this is her shape. The is a Chingin of the age of eighteene pieces, of stature neither too high of too some, and such was sund her haire black, pet comeste, finch had Lædas her eies halest, pet bright, and such were the sightes of Venus. And alchough my skill in Physiognomy be smal, pet in my indogement shee was borne winder Venus, her sorehead; note, sips, and chinne, sorespecially as by such rules we gueste) both a destre to sine, and a good successe in sone. In complexion a pure sanguine, in conviction a eight Daine, sithome given to plate, often to praier, the first letter of whose name (sor that also is necessarie) is Camilla.

This Lavie have I ferued long, and often furb unto, infomuch that I have melter like war against the fire, and yet lived in the stame, with the file Pirausta. D Psellus, the tramentes sustained by her presence, the greeks endured by her absence, the pining thoughout in the day, the pinching preames in the night, the oping life, the bluing beath, the fealouse at all times, and the despaire at this instant, can neither be betered of me without sloods of ceares, not heard of thee without greeke.

alues -

90

so Pfellus, not the tostures of hell, are either to bet compared of spoken of, in the respect of my tosments: for what they all hav senerallie, all that and more doe I feele counties. Insumet that with Sisyphus I roule the some even to the top of the bill when it tumbleth both it selfe and mee into the bottome of hell, yet never ceasing, I attempt to renue my labour, which was begun in beath, and cannot end in life.

Mihat drier thirst could Tantalus endure then I, who have almost everie houre the drink I dare not tast, and the meat I canot?
Insomuch that I am to re boon the wheele with Ikion, my liver gnawne of the Austures and Parpies: yea, my soule troubled euen with the unspeakeable paines of Megara, Tisphone, Alecto, which secret sorowes, although it were more meete to inclose the
in a Labyrinth, then to set them on a hill: yet where the minde is ri

Di

DE

pio

Iot

Con

Mo

eal

ten req

mil

4 0

ther

QU

317.7

paft bope, the face is paft fhame.

It fareth with me Pfellus as with the Daringe, who pricketh none but ber felfe, which caufeth ber to run when the would reft, or as it both with the Bellican, who firiketh blood out of ber own bodie to boe others good: 01 with p Mood culuer, who plucketh off her feathers in Whinter, to keep others from colde: 01 as with the Storke, who when the is leaft able, carrieth the greatest burthen, Do I practile al things that may burt me, to bo her good, p heuer regardeth my paines, to farre thee is from rewarding them. For as it is impossible for the best Abamant to draw Iron butoit if the Diamond be neer it: lo is it not to be looked for, that I with al my letuice, lute, belerts, and what elfe loeuer that may brame a woman, would winne Camilla, as long as Surius, a precious frone in her eies, and an epe-loze in mine; be prefent, who loueth ber 3 knowe too well, and the him I feare me better : which love will breede between be fuch a beadly batted that being bead, our blond rannot bee mingleb together like Florus and Aegithus, and being burnt, the flames hall pare like Polinices and Eteocles, fuch a moztall enmitte is kindlen that nothing can quench it but weath: and beath thail not end it. What countell can pour give me in this cale? what comfort? what bope? When Aconeius could not per-Iwave Cyclippe to loue bee practifen fraute. Zeiten Tarquinius could not win Lucretia by prater, be alen force, diffenthe Dans could e.65

could not obtain their belires by fute, they turned themleines into new flaves, leaving nothing unbone, for fears they flouid be bupone. The difeale of loue Pfellus is impatient, the bette extreame. whole affaults neither the wife can relle by policie, noz the baltant boffength. In spanie us . commit Aulius Cafar a noble Conquero; in war, a grave Counfaiter in neace after be had lubourd Fraunce , Germany , Britaine , Spaine, Italy, Theffalia, Acgypt, pen, entred toith no lefte putffance then mood fortune into Armenialinto Pontus into Affrica, veelbed in his chiefel victories to love, Piellis, as a thing at for Cafar, who conquered al things latting himfelfe, and a beever wound bit the final arrow of Cupid make then the speares of his enemies.

C

-

ž

is

th

ft.

m off

be

n.

er

85 he

mp

-00

me

EI oill

ond ina

b a ath:

his

oernius

ODB

oulo

37,181

· Hanniball no lelle valiant in armes, not motofostunate in loue. bauing fpolled Ticinum, Trebia, Traimena, and Canna, fubmifteb bimfelfein Apalla to the lone of a woman, whole bate was a terrour to all men a became to bewitchen that neither the feare of beath, not the belire of grate couls remode him from the tap of hed to decide upon Piedler hat he met bete fartigano Laid annie Hereules, who was confrained to vie a villattetal the pelire of his loue. Leander, who bentuted to croffe the Seas for Hero. Tohis that hanged himfelfe. Piramis that killed bimlelfe. and infinit more which could not relift the hot this mithen of affection. And to far bath this humour crept, into the minber that Biblis loued ber brother, Myrrha ber father, Canace ber Mepbeto: in-Comuch as there is no realon to be ginen to; fo trange a griefe, no; no remedie lo uniamful, but is to be lought for fo montebus a vifeale. App bileale in Mrange, I mp lelfe a Granger, and mp fuite no telle ftrange then my name per teut I bee terfore de debing that requires halfiglue care to mysale.

T Dane hearn othe cinces that in thue there are this things for to he blet if time feene; biolonce if wealth bee great, golbe if necellitie competi; fojcerte. Bewalthele three but one tandand me in the appeal of all but not the least. In bich is able to work the minos afall momen like man, toben the other can fearle wind them like a Tillieb Devioinen there are what can bying it to palle, allo men there are that have some by pottons, someby dieames, all by beerivit belenfambles nere tevious to regite, and you know them. the the means I come to learne and you can wine them, which is the onely caute of my comming, and map be the occasion of my pleafure and certainlie the way both for your praife and profit. Withether it be aninchaunted leafe, a berle of Pythia, a figure of Amphion, a Character of Ofchanes, an Image of Venus, a branch of Sibillo, it fhilletbnot. Let it beeither the fredes of Meden, 102 theblond of Phillis, let it come by Dracte of Apollo, or by Brophefle of Tyrefias,either by the intrailes of a Goat . 02 what elle foquer, I care not, or by all thefe in one, to make fure incantation and fpare not. If I min my lone you hall not loofe your shour, and whether ifredound of no tomy greater perill, I will not forget your pains. Let this potion be of luch force that the may poace in her delire, and belight in ber biltrelle. And if in chis cale you either reueale mp futteo; bente it pout halt foone perceine that Philautus mili Die as befperatlie in one minute, as be bath liued thee monethe carefullie and this pour finde Chall be my grane aif by; your frudie pour cafe not my griefe. Talben bee hab thus en bedibee; looked to ternelie boon Pfellus, that he wither bim farther off, pet taking him by the hand, and walking into his chamber, this good man began thus to answere him. adut. where it ami end la visit

Gentleman, if the inward spirite be answerable to the outsward speechas the thoughts of your heart agreeable to the worden of your mouth you had breed to your felle great discredite, and to me no small disquiet.

n

ag

ba

to

PO

tto

ina

Doe you chinke Gentleman, that the minde being created of God, can be ruled by man, or that any one can more the hart but be that manage? But such both breache superfiction of olde such men, and such the folie of pangunen, that there could be nothing so being but the one would innert, nor anic thing so such into a factor the other mould belease: Which then brought pour hinto a factor paragula, and both now call age into an open mockeage. Mistarche source of but is a have known; what processes have been somethy beart, per could show there can be been so there there could be promoted the vertue of bearbes, somes, or morns. And change manic there have been so witchen to seeke such means, persons there have been so the chen to seeke such means, persons there have been so the chen to seeke such means, persons there have have the processes to such that the persons of the chen to seeke such means, persons there have have so such that are are so such and and that are are so such that the persons the chen to seeke such means, persons the such and and any are are so so such and any are are so such and any are are so such and any are are so such as a such any are are so such as a such any are are so such as a such and any are are so such as a such any are so such as a suc

Parrhafus painting Hopplytides contonot mention make him a ranne to fiveat, no; the other that put off his armour to breath, abe bing this as it were for a note, No farther then colours: meaning. that to give life, was not in his penfill, but in the Gods. And the like may be faid of bs, that dive our minds to know the course of the tarres, the Planets, the whole globe of heaven, the fimples, the compounds, the bowels of the earth, that some thing wee may guelle by the outward thape, some thing by the nativity, but to weeft the will of man, or to wreath his heart to our humors, it is not in the compate of Art, but in the power of the most highest.

But for because there have been many without bonbt that have given credit to the vaine illusions of Witches, or the fond inventions of idle persons: I will fet bown such reasons as I baue heard, and you will laugh at: fo I hope I thall both fatiffie your minde, and make you a little merry : for me thinketh there is nothing that can moze delight, then to beare the things which have no waight to be thought to have wrought wonders.

If you take Bepper, the fed of a Bettle, and a little quantitie of Pyretum, beaten oz pounded altogether, and put into Wine of ting væres old, inbensoeuer vou dzinke to Camilla, if thee lone vou not, you lose your labour. The cost is small, but if your beleefe be constant, you winne the goale : for this receite Canbeth in a Grong conceite.

Egges and Dony blended with the Buts of a Dine-tre, and laid to your left fide, is of as great force when you looke byon Camilla, to bewitch the minde, asthe quintellence of a Stockfilh is to nourish the body.

ei

1

201

et

00

995

EB.

29 to:

of

but 10-ing

but sten

anne

An hearbe there is called Anacamforius, a trange name, and poubtleffe of a frange nature, for whosoever toucheth it, falleth in love with the person the next leth. It groweth not in England. but here you thall have that which is not halfe fo goo, that will ose as much god, and yet truely no moze.

The bearbe Carifum moiltened with the blod of a Lifard, and banged about your necke, will caufe Camilla, (foz ber you lone beft) to Dreame of your feruices, futes, defires, deferts, and whatfoener you would with her to thinke of you: but being awaked, thee thall not remember what the ozeamed of. And this hearbe is to be found in a Lake neere Boctia : of which water who fo brinketh, thall bee caught

10

ranght in loue, but neuer finde the hearbe : and if he drinke not, the bearbe is of no force.

There is in the Frogges side a bone called Apocyon: and in the head of a yong Cotte, a bunch named Hyppomanes, both so effectival for the obtaining of love, that who so getteth either of them, shall win any that are willing: but so iniuriously hath both craft and nature dealt with yong Gentlemen that seeke to gaine god will by these meanes, that the one is licked of before it can be gotten, the other breaketh as some as it is touched. And yet unless e Hyppomanes be licked, it cannot worke, and except Apocyon beesound it is nothing worth.

I omit the Thisse Eringium, the hearbes Catanenci, and Pytuma, Juba his Charito Blæpheton, and Orpheus Staphelinus, all of such vertue in cases of love, that if Camilla should but taste any one of them in her mouth, the would never let it go downe her throat, lest the should be poisoned: for, well you know Gentleman, that love is a poison, and therefore by poison it must be main.

tained.

But I will not forget as it were the Dithrivate of the Pagicisans, the beat Hicha, of whom there is no part so small or so vile, but it serueth for their purpose: insomuch that they account Hicha their

Bod that can doe all, and their deuil that will doe all.

If you take seven haires of Hienas lippes, and carie them sire baies in your teeth, or a piece of her skinne nert your bare heart, or her belly giroed to your left side, if Camilla suffer you not to obtaine your purpose, certainely she cannot choose but thanke you sor your paines.

And if you want medicines to win women, I have yet moze: the lungs of a Aulture, the alhes of Stellio, the left Kone of a Cocke, the tong of a Goole, the braine of a Cat, the last haire of a Molues taile, things easie to bee had, and commonly practiced, so that I would not have thee stand in doubt of thy lone, when either a youg Swallow samished, or the shronding short of a deare friend, or a waren Taper that burnt at his seete, or the inchaunted Peedle that Modes hidde in lasons seene, areable, not onelie to make them desire lone, but also die sor lone. How doe you now seele your selse, Philaucus? If the least of these charmes be not sufficient

cisut

he

cient for this, all erorcismes and confurations in the world will not serve the.

Pou se Bensleman, into what blinde and grosse cross in old time we were led, thinking enery old wines tale to be a truth, and enery merrie wozd, a very witchcraft. When the Egytians fel from their Bod to the Priest Memphis, and the Brecians from their mozerall questions, to their disputations of Pyrrhus, and the Romanes from religion to policy, then began all superstition to breede, and all impletie to blome, and to be so great they are both growne, that the one being then an infant, is now an Elephant, and the other being then a twig, is now a Tre.

8

ß

20

n

cto

ut

eir

re

02 ne

ut

2e:

ke,

les

nat

ra

no, ted

to wo

ffi

ent

They invented as many inchauntmentes for love, as they did for the toth-ache : but hee that hath tried both, will faie, that the best charme for a toth-ache is to pull out the tooth, and the best remedie for loue is to weareit out. If incantations or potions, or as mozous favings could have prevailed, Circis would never have loft Vlysses, noz Phadra Hippolicas, noz Phillis Demophoon. Afconius rations, Charecters, Circles, Figures, Fiendes, 02 Furies, might have incought any thing in love, Medea would never have fuffes red lafon to altar his minde. If the firups of Micaonias, 02 the perfes of Aeneas, or the Saryren of Diplas, were offorce to moue the minde. they all the would not have been martyzed with the torments of loue. 100, no, Philaurus, thou maielt well poifon Camilla with fuch bregges, but never perswade her: for I confesse that such hearbes may after the bodie from Arength to weaknes, but to thinke that they can move the minde from vertue to vice, from chastity to lust, a am not lo fimple to belieue, neither would I have the fo finfull as to doeit.

Lucilla minifringan amozous potion onto her bulband Lucretius, procured his death, whofelife the onely defired.

Aristotle noteth one that being inflamed with the love of a faire Lavie, thought by medicine to procure his blide, and wrought in the end his bane: so was Caligula flaine of Casonia, and Lucius Lucullus of Calistine. Perswave thy selfe Philaurus, that to vie hearbesto winne love, will weaken thy bodie, and to thinke that hearbes can surther, both hurt the soule: sor as great sorce have they in such cases, as noble men thought them to have in the old with the soule in the soule in the old with the soule in the old with the soule in t time. Achimenius the hearb was of such force, that it was thought if it were throwne into the vattaile, it would make all the Souldiours tremble: but where was it when the Humbri and Tentoni were exiled by warre: where grew Achimenius then: one of whose leaves would have saved a thousand lives.

The Kings of Persia gave their souldiours the Plant Locace, which who so hav, thous have plentie of meate, and money, amen, and all things: but why did the souldiours of Casar endure such farmine in Pharsalia, if one hearbe might have eased so many heartes? Where is Balis that luba so commendeth, the which could call the Dead to life, and yet he himselfe Died?

Democrites made a confection, that who so ever deank it, thould have a faire, a fortunate, and a good child. Why did not the Persian kings swill this Nectar, having such deformed and unhappy issue? Caro was of that minde, that there inchanted wordes could heale the cie-sight: and Varro, that a verse of Sibilla could ease the gout: yet the one was faine to vieruning water, which was but a colde medicine, the other patience, which was but a bry planter.

I would not have the thinke, Philautus, that loueis to bee obtais ned by fuch meanes, but onely by Faith, Wertue, and Conkancie. Philip King of Macedon, casting his eie spon a faire Wirgin, became enamoured, which Olimpias his wife perceining, thought him to be inchaunted, and caused one ofher secuants to bying the Maiden buto her, whom the thought to thauft both to spile and thame: but vielving ber faire face without blemith, ber chatte eies without glauncing, her movelt countenance, her lober and womanly behaviour, finding also her vertues to bee no lette then her beautie, the faid, In my felfe there are charmes, meaning that there was no greater enchantment in love, then temperance, wife. Dome, and chaffitie. Fond therefoze is the opinion of those, that thinke the minde to be tied to Magike: and the practife of those, fil thy that ficke these meanes. Loue dwelleth in the minde, in the will, and in the heart, which neither Coniurer, noz Iby licke can als ter. Foz as credible it is that Cupid thoteth his arrow, and hitteth the heart, as that heards have the force to bewitch the heart: onely this difference there is, that the one was a fiction of Poetry, the o. ther of superstition. The will is placed in the soule, and who can al

h

Se

th

be

be

It

tu

Pi

in

th

02 pie

enter

enfer there, but he that created the foule?

£

ni

c,

-

18

D

n

3 è

10

D

19

t

t

20

2

Po, no, Bentleman, lobatfoeuer pou haue heard touching this. belowe nothing : for they (in mine opinion) which imagine that the minde is either by incantation, or excantation to bee ruled, are as far from truth, as the Call from the Welt, and as nære impletie against God, as they are to chame among men, and so confrarie is it to the profession of a Christian, as Baganisme. Suffer not your felfe to be ledde with that vile conceit, practife in your love all kind of loyaltie. Be not mute, nog full of babble: bee fober, but aucide fullennesse: vie no kinde of ryot, either by banketting, which procureth furfets: no, in attire, which halteth beggerie. If you thinke well of your wit, be alwaies pleasant: if ill, bee often filent: in the one, thy talke thall procure the tharpe, in the other, thy modeltie wife. All fish are not caught with flies, all women are not allured with perfonage. Frame Letters, Ditties, Pufick, and all meanes that honestie may allow: for hee woeth well that meaneth no ill, and he speech somer that speaketh what he should, then hee that bttereth what he will. Belœue me, Philautus, I am nowold, vet bane I in my bead a loue-toth, in my minde there is nothing that moze pearceth the heart of a beautifull Lady, then waiting, where thou mailt fo fet volume thy pallions, and her perfection, as the thall baue cause to thinke well of the, and better of her selfe: but yet so warily, as neither thou feme to praise her to much, or debase thy felfe to lowly? for if thou flatter them without meane, they loath, and if thou make of thy felfe aboue reason, they laugh at it: temper thy words fo well, and place every fentence fo wifely, as it may be hard for her to judge, whether thy love bee more faithfull, or her beautie amiable. Lions fawne when they are clawed, Traars Stone when they are tickled, Bucephalus lieth downe when hee is curried, women yield when they are courted. This is the poplon Philaucus, the inchauntment, the potion, that creepeth by fleight into the minde of a woman, catcheth her by affurance, better then the fond denices of old deames, as an Apple with an Auc Marie, oz a Hafell wand of a yere old, Croffes with fire characters, oz the picture of Venus in Mirgin ware,02 the Image of Camilla boon a Boulwarps fkin. It is not once mentioned in the English Court, not fa much as thought of in any ones confcience, that loue can be procures procured by such meanes, or that any can imagine such mischiese, and yet I feare meit is to common in our Country, whereby they

10 3

incurre hate of enery one, and love of none.

Touching my cunning in any vile denices of Bagike, it was nes uer my ftudie, only fome belight I tok in th emathematiks, which made me knowne of moze then I would, and of moze then thinke well of mee, although I never hurt og hindged any. But bee thou quiet Philautus, and se those meanes that may win thy loue, not those that may shorten her life, and if I can any waies stand the in fead, bleme as thy poze friend and Countriman, harme will ? Doe the none, god I cannot. Dy acquaintance in Court is Small. and therefore my dealings about the Court thall be fein, for I loue to fand alofe from love, and lightning. Fire giveth light to things farre off, and burneth that which is nert to it. The Tourt fhineth to me that come not there, but ringeth those that owell there. Only my counsell bie, that is in writing, and me thou shalt find secret, withing the alwaies fortunate, and if thou make mee partaker of thy fucceste, it thall not turne to thy griefe, but as much as in me lis eth, I will further the. When he had finished this discourse, Philaurus liked very well of it, and thus replied.

Mell, Psellus, thou hast wronght that in mée, which thou withesses for if the baits that are laive so, beautie bee so riviculous, I thinke it of as great effect in love, to vie a plaister as a potion. I now viterlie disent from those that imagine Pagicke to bee the meanes, and consent with the that thinkest letters to be, which I wil vie. And how I speed I will tel thee, in the meane season pardon me, if I vie no longer answer: so, well you know, that he that hath the sit of an Ague voon him hath no list to talke, but to tumble, and love pinching me, I have more desire to chew voon melancholie, then to dispute voon Pagicke: but hereafter I will make repaire voto you, and what I now give you in thankes, I will then re-quite with amends.

Thus these two Countriemen parted with certaine Italian imbratings and tearmes of courtesse, more then common. Philaurus we shall find in his lodging, Psellus we will leave in his Audy, the one musing of his love, the other of his learning.

Here Gentlewomen you may lie how justly men lieke to in-trap you when scoenfully you goe about to reject them, thinking, it not briawfull to vie Art when they perceive you obtlinate, their bealings I will not allow, neither can I excuse yours, and pet

what hould be the cause of both, I can guesse.

Withen Phidias first painted, they bled no colours but blacke, white, redde, and reliow: Xeuxis added greene, and every one inuented a new haddowing. At the last it came to passe, that hee in painting deserved most prinse that could set downe most colours: lubereby there was more contention kindled about the colour, then the counterfait, and greater emulation for verity in thew, then workmanship in substance.

u

t

1

.

e

5

h

t,

of

is 6

3

he

3

n

th

10

e,

re

23

no

us

the

in

ap

In the like manner bath it fallen out in loue: When Adam wood ed, there was no pollicy but plaine dealing : in colours but blake, and white; affection was measured by faith not by fancy, he was not curious, noz Eue cruell: he was not enamoured of her beautie, nor thee allured by his personage: and yet, then was thee the fairest woman in the world, and he the properest man. Since that time, every Louer hath put to a Linke, and made of a ring, a chaine, and an abbe corner, and framed of a plaine Alley, acroked knot, and of Venus Temple, Dædalus Labyzinth. Dne curled his haire, thinking love to bee moved with faire lokes; another laieth all his living boon his backe, indging that women are wedded in bauery: some ble discourses of lone to kindle affection: some bitties to allure the minde: some Letters to Airre the appetite, diners fighting to proue their manhoode: sundry sighing to their mas ladies: many attempt with thewes to please their Ladies eves: not feld with mulike to entife the earc: insomuch that there is moze Erife now, who shall be the finest louer, then who is the faith fulleft.

This caufeth you, Gentle women, to pick out those that can court you, not those that love you, and he is accounted the best in your conceits that wieth most colours, not that sheweth greatest courter fie. A plaine tale of faith you laugh at, a picked discourse of fancie you maruellat, condemning the Cimplicity of truth, and preferring fingularity of deceit: wherein you resemble those fishes that rather smallow a faire baite with a tharpe hoke, then a foule worme breeding in the mud.

Decreof

Wereof it commeth, that true Louers receiving a floute for their faith, and a mocke for their god meaning, are inforced to fæke fuch meanes as might compel you, which you knowing impossible, maketh you the moze disoainefull, and them the moze desperate. This then is my counsell, that you vie your louers like frinds, and chase them by their faith, not by the thew, but by the sound, neis ther by the waight, but by the touch, as you bee gold: fo that you be praised as much for bertue, as beauty. But returne wee agains to Philaurus, who thus began to bebate with himfelfe.

177 Dat hast thou done, Philautus, in sæking to wound her that thou befireft to winne? With what face can't thou loke on ber thou foughteft to lofe ? fie, fie, Philaurus, thou bringeft the god name into question, and her life into hazard, bauing neither care of thine owne credit, noz her honour. Is this the love thou pres tendelt, which is worfe then bate? Doft not thou fæke to poifon her that never pinched the? But why doe I recount those things which are paft, and I repent ? I am now to confider what I must Doe, and what I would have done. Follies valt thall be worne out with faith to come, and my beath thall thew my befire. Waite Philaurus lohat faift thou? write? no, no, thy rube ftile: will be. way thine estate, & thy rash attempt wil purchase thy overthrow. Venus Delighteth to hearenone but Mercuric; Pallas will bee folns of none but Vlisses; it must be a smooth tongue and a sweet tale that can inchaunt Vesta.

Befides that, I dare not truft a mellenger to cary it, noz ber to read it, left in the wing my letter, the disclose my love, and then that I bee pointed at of those that hate mee, and pittied of those that like me : of her fcomed, of all talked of. Po, Philaurus, bee not thou the by-wood of the common people, rather fuffer beath by filence, then verifion by waiting.

3, but it is better to reueale thy love then confeale it: thou know eft not what bitter poison lieth in Sweet wozds: remember Picllus, who by experience bath tried, that in love one Letter is of moze forcethen a thousand lokes. If they like writings, they read them often, if diflike them, run them over once: and this is certaine, that the that readeth such toies, will also answer them. Dnely this, be secret in conveiance, which is the thing they chiefest vesire. Then

Then write Philaucus, write: be that feareth enery buly must never goe abirding be that castoch all boubtes, shall never be resolved in any thing. And this assure the self, that be the Letter never so rude and barbarous, she will read it, and bee it never so louing, she will not shew it, which were a thing contrary to her bonour, and she next way to call her hanestic into question. For thou has bearn, pea, and the selfe knowest, that Ladies that baunt of their Letters, are accounted in Italy countersait, and in England they are not thought current.

Thus Philaurus Determined , hab nab to lend his Letters, flattering himfelle with the fuccelle which he to himfelfe fained; and after long muling, he thus began to frame the minister of his love.

To the fairest Camilla. LIArd is the choice faire Lavie, when one is compelled either by filence to die with griefe, or by writing to live with hame: but to tweet is the vellre of life, and to tharpe are the pallions of lone, that I am enforced to meferre an buleemely fuce before an butimely death, Loath Thane been to fpeake, ain defpaire to fpech. the one proceeding of mineowne cowardice, theother of the crueltie. Afthou require my name, I am the fame Philaucus, which to the fake of late came vilgueled in a Dalke, pleading cultom for a printlebge, and curreftefor a parpon. The fame Philaucus mbieb then in fecret tearms coloured my lane, anom with bitter teares bewaap it. If thou nothing efteeme the brintib mater that falleth from mine epes. I would thou couldeft fee the warme bloud that Broppeth from my bart. Oftentimes Thane been in the company. where equilie thou mightelf haue perceined my wan cheekes .my bollow sies, my fealding lighes my trembling tongue, to forethew that then which I confede now. Then confider with the felfe Camilla, the plicht I am in by befire, and the perill I am like to fall into by Dengall. The and deland and states anial

Laxecount the foreing I lustaine, or the fernice I have nowen month rather breen in the can admiration then a beleefe stonelie this I appe for the time, which the end that tep for a truth, that I the animere be haspe, my life will be that, loface hath lave brought in my pining and almost consumed body, that thou melte mails breath into me a new life; or bereaue me of the olve. Thou leg

u

2,

15,

28

m

at s,

re.

en

5

ait

art to weigh, not how long I have loned thee, but how fairhfullie, neither to examine the worthing of my person, but the excreamities of my passions: so preferring my velerts before the length of time, and my viscale before the greatnesse of my virth, thou will epther peels with equicie, or veny with reason: of both the which, although the greatest been my live, per the least shall not visite mee, for that I have alwaies found to thee a mino neither repurnaut to right, no; boibe of realow.

If then wouldest but permit me to talke with thee, of by they ting suffer me aclarge to discourte with thee, I would not hut that both the cause of my love wold be believed; and the strength relivation, both proceeding of the beautie and because the one able to allure, the other ready to pictie. Thou mind not thinke that God hat helfowed those rare gifts spon thee to kil those y are caught, but to cure the Those shat are thing of the Droppion, are heated of the Scoppionishe fire that burnery, taketh away the heate of the burne. The Spyden Philangium that poyloneth, both with her skinne make a platite to poplon, and that the beautie, which is of some to minne all with love, he of the crueltie to wound any to beath? No Camilla, I no lette velighein the faire face, then pleafure in the good condicions, alluring my felse that so affertion to be done that, the well not reduce number without cause.

I omit my care to the confideration, expecting the Letter, exther as a cullife to preferue, or as a two to be from, either as Antidotum, or as Aconium: If thou believe me, thou half not long triumph oner mee timing, and finall will the glorie bee when I am

Dead. And ente gitt dententagent iberin bedie

Thise euch thing paile man Thise euch though he be with molley

This Letter being envey, her fluvico how it might be conveyed, knowing it to be no lesse peristons to trust those her knowe not in so weightie a case, then distinct for himself in have opposed nicie to velicer it in so suspicious à copanie. At the last, taking put of his Closet a faire Pomgranat, and pulling al the kirnels out of it, her wrapped his Letter in it, closing the top of it finelie, that it could not be perceined, whether Mature againe had knic it of pur-

pole

polatofurther bim. or bie Arte hap quercome jatures cunning. This Domgranat be tooke being himfelfe both mellenger of his Letter, and the Bailler, and infinuating bimfelfe inco the companie of the Gentlewomen, among whom mag allo Camilla, he mag welcomed, alwell for that bee had been long time ablent, as for that he was at al times sleafant: much good communication was there touching manie matters, tobich heere to infere, were neither convenient, feeing it both not concerne the historie nor expedient. feeing it is nothing to the beliverie of Philaurus letter. But thus th fell out in the one. Camilla whether longing for fo faire a Bom. granat, or willed to afke te, pet loth to require te; Gre fobainlie complained of an old difeale, wherewith thee many times felt ber felfe grieued which mas an extreame beate in the flomack, which abuantage Philautus marking, would not let flippe when it was purpolelie looken, chathe thould not give bimthe flip, etberfoze as one glad to have to convenient a time to offerhoth his butie & his Denotion be begantbeen moure bis din aliament patient

I have beard Camilla of Phylitions, that shere is nothing either Imore comfortable or more profitable for the Romack or inflamed Lime, then a Pomgranar: which if it be true; I am glad that I came in la good time with a medicine, leeing you were in so ill a time supplied with pour maladies and berily this will I sap, that there is not one himeli, but is able both to ease your paine, and to bouble your pleasure, and with that he gave it to her pessring that as thee felt the working of the potion, so thee would consider of the Bhyficion.

Camilla with a limiting countenance, nepther lufpecting the

traft not the conneier, andwered bim with thefe thankes.

I thanke you Gentleman, as much for your countaile as your curtelle, and if your cunning be auniwerable to epther of them, I will make you amends for all of them: yet I will not open to faire a fruite as this is, butill I feele the paine that I so much feare. As you please quoth Philaurus, yet if every mounting you take one kirnell, it is the way to prepent your disease, and me thinks that you hould be as carefull to worke means before it come, that you have it not, as to bis meanes to expell it when you have it.

3 am content,antmeren Camilla, to trie pour Phytiche, which

D 2

as I know it can voe mre no great harmi, to it may voe mee much good.

In truth fair one of the Gentlewomen then prefent, I per-lighting Conscious

perp carefult for bis Batient. and and badi co

It behooneth (quoth Philaurus) that he that ministreth to Labie, he as bestrous of her health as his owne crevite, for that there revosiveth more praise to the Physicio phath a care to his charge, then to him that bath onely a thew of his Art. And I crust Camilla will better accept of the good will I batte to tio her of her viseale, then the afft, which must worke the effect.

Otherwise quoth Camilla, I were very much too blame, knowing that in many, the behaviour of the man hath wrought more then the force of the medicine. For I would alwaies have my phylicion of a cheereful countenaunce, pleasantly conceited, a well proportioned: that he might have his sharpe potions mired with sweet counsaile, and his sower orugge mittigated with mire rie discourses. And this is the cause that in obsettme they painted the God of Phylicke, not like Saturne, but Aesculapius, of a good complexion, sine wit, and excellent constitution. For this I know by experience, though The but young to learne, and have not often been sicke, that the suppe of a pleasant and quick soften Phylics, hath removed that from my heart with talke, that hee could not with all his Creacle.

That might well bee, aunswered Philautus, for the man that wrought the cure, did perchaunce cause the disease, and so secrete might the grief be, that none could heale you but he that hurt you, neither was your hart to be eased with any inward potion, but by some outward perswalion; and then it is no maruaile if the ministring of a few words were more auastable then Bithribate."

Mell Gentleman, lato Camilla, I will neither offpute in phyficke wherein I have no lkill; neither answere you to your that furnities which you seeme to level at, but thanking you once again both for your gift and good will, were will ble other communication, not forgetting to alke for your friend Euphnes; who bath not long time been where he might have been welcomed at all times, and that he came not with you at this time, we both marnaite and moulb.

la

th

8 gi

FOI

tel

Euphues and Ma England.

would falle know, . sided steint if all after of Candla, and to the state of the chief and the article of the chief and the article of the chief and the chief article of the chief and the chief and the chief the chief of the chief the c

Belike quoth Camilla, he etther esples somenen tatites in the momen of England, whereby he see keth to ablent him telle, by forde old haunt that will be ause him to sopie himselfe. How so, hunt weter Philaurus quit per thicke was fait so, I will tell him.

Thus after much conference many quellous, and fong time spent; Philapous tooke his leave, and beeing in his Chamber, were will there leave him, with such conference of life or beath at the Batre, or the answere of hope or bespaire of their foury, toutth none can see bown ing her hat hath them, for thurstier are not to be detreved by the consecure of one was would imagine what they have be that by him that knoweth what they are

by the consecute of the char would inagene whit they bould be, but by him that knoweth what they are.

Camilla thener t morning opened the Point and, and take the Letter which reading, pondering and perulage the felt this a chouland constaticates, whether it were belt to answer to invest the fact the him hot what belonged to the peopleticies of a lover, the regulated his factor and love, with anger and back, in these rearries of the like.

I than with mine honor to send thee an answere to comparing my place with my person, niethought the botones more the either good manners in thee would permit, or I with modelite could suffer: pet at the last, calling with my telle that the heate of the lane might cleme bee vared with the establish the establish to the Letter. I thought suggod is countil as incomical energy, that it might preakly a mischiefe, chooling eather to cut the off hour by rigon, then to give thee any sot of hope by stence. Street fores are to be present roughly, least they fester. Decears to be browne in the beginning, trasbebey spead. Ring pointer so be anisomer when they first appeare.

appeare, leaf they compalle the whole bodie, and the affaultes of loue to bee bentem hanks atthe first fiege leaft chep onvermine at the lecond. Fire is to be quenched in the sparke, Wierdes are to be

There is the but, follies in the blottomal and and alled a final appropriate the put, follies in the blottomal and and alled a final appropriate the fine my Pop licke, I perceived the france in the himself that thou locked on a king a final mack with mapping bet the himself that thou locked making a final wing fire where it found but bot imbers, converting like the fpiver a livest flower into a bitter poplon. I am not Philautus an Italian Lavie, who commande are incorporated with heating, and montived link, entangles, with pecalificate more which leading, and montived link, entangles, with pecalificate more which heating, and montived links, and called lock heating, and continue of the links and called lock heating, and continue of the first heating when the nations of the first links and called lock heating when the nations of the first links and called lock heating when the nations of the links and called lock heating when the nations of the lock is the lock of
For mine pune persid ander paung to knowe the pattions of a Louer, and too wife to beleene them, and lotarfrom trading any, that I lufpect alinge that there is in auermone practife to beceine but there mantethin me a canacitie to conceine. lo sasuitina aris to

Sectional thes. Palenting famale the tennet tinings crooken by Art. which might have growns freight by nature. Corne is not to be gathered in the blade, but in the care, not fruite to be publicant the Tree when it is greene, but when it is anticided, not observed by the care from the property of the care from the party of the care from the party of the care from the first of the care from the care f no fooner are not of the crable, but thep are fent to the Court, and mosed Cometimes before they are meaned, which bringeth both & ation and their names, not in question onelie of disponettie, but Lans with mine poner to tent thee an animere estimold atm

This I moule have thee to take for a flat antwere, that I netther meane to love thee, un beereafter if thou follow thy fute, to beare thee. Chy tint practile in the Balque 3 bis not altowe, the terond by the watting. Amilike if the actempe the third means, that will enforce me to attempt that, which modelie now makery me to conceale. If the good will be fo great as thou tellest, feeke to mittigate it by realon, or time. I thanke ther for it, but I canot requite it bulelle thou either were not Philaprus, or I non Camilla. Thus paraoning the bolomes byon condicion, and resting thy friend

.9

tu ca tu

friedt if there thee that been a moseine water by me word i desire trad not regres of the source of the source of Philaster tour tour Camilla.

Chis Letter Camilla fticebester un Brattan Petratk whith the had, betermining at the nept comming of Philaurus to belier it. polonisticond ed 50, notifeit emolynistato consulpadirend

Philauris, accombing boneese ebetweelne bebie tone ! made bis repaite according to his decistiomable ble, and unding the Gette. women litting in an Arbour lalives the currevully not forgetting to be inquille we both Camille was sufer by his pomgranat, which aftentimes alking sopre, which which him this 23 3 3 3 1000 is all a first pomore and a first source with a strength of the land to much strenoeding weake thomack, that the very most cauted nic to loathit, and the fene to throwitt into the fire. In . Allimit

- 3 amforrie quots Philautus, (togo Thane no telle then trut that the previoine could not worke that which the name tought of and with that field us one two transcribited whith percenting thought belt to rub no indeed and the gatt, then the transcribe by hold espie where Philaurus shore wrung bime il ducal a data data one elpie where Panialites ipote whang mais Angure it to my ill for-tune that where I looken for a recoritie I tomos confumption: and with that the britise one perpendite fordatting fin to con-thes her a tellon, hoping his tent aing word be bettet for a Sepontemaller, then his luck form Phylicion. Thus walking in the After these liftenes to his conficuerion, who exening the Books, found where the Letter was inclosed and billembling that he ful petted, beeland hermoning toe your sended but it the morning toe your jobe se falia leaureh che leut berante bee ie raten, allima detann

. actich that the Gentlewomene interen about them work, epther to heare how counting Philadeus would conflet by how reavily Camilla could contain. It belong that they weren to they a place as turned them all to a blanke, where it was realined, whether tout cament the finding wint of wender, of the hold experience of pertue. a long wif putacition as little to entire, had not Camilla till from before they could topic illust, as one not willing in the company of Philadeus configurations after a containing the company of Philadeus configurations. Philaurus, epther totalke of loue or thinke of loue Healt efthet hee thould suspect thee had beene mogen or might ber monne, tohich was not done to ciolely but it was perceived of Philautus, though distembled.

Thou lo

omit their Cable talke leaf I loofs wined to chris omner, where I

After their repair Suring same in mitha great trayers, inhich tightned Camillas hart, and was a bagger to Philautus heeft, who tapried no langer then be had laiftness take his leave, either belitous to read his Ladies and were, or not willing to entop Surius his company, whom also a mis poin to lake, and follow Philautus, to heare how his minde is anisted with Camillas curtefle. Philautus no looner entraphies however, we he read ben Leaven, which wrong he such shim then in his minde, the description of tealon, falling into the also wainers his rage in this manner will be cruell Camilla, and accurred Philautus. If for now that it fareth with the as it post, with the Barpen, which having made one afformed being her fails high curneth him into a some with her bent mous langue, and with the lages curneth him into a some with her bent mous langue, and with the lages as it hat have believed to be written the Barting langue, and with the second lighter provide about the with the will save and beath at the second lighter provide and survey and with save and beath at the second lighter provide and survey and save and save has the second lighter provide and survey and save and save has the second lighter provide and some manners. The large with save and save has the save second lighter provide and some manners to save and s

In this the contained England to wards thrangers, to intreate them to nelvic befold it is not good incident onely referred without cause but also opinates introductions at the parting. If the bed not ishen therefor month never have and improved the month they believed the most characteristic water a forter to meet for many they believed most characteristic water a forter to meet for meet for meet an incident the company of the most regard of the feather than the interpretation a now the buttone have a formal to the cause he feat because here is raced, at the dather something once which have never retrieved his game. Let Arlanca them never he feather, never retrieved his game. Let Arlanca them remains which points by he has been been feather by mill at the last estantial which have a feather at the last estantial and more in mill at the last estantial states are summer at the last estantial and more in the last estantial at the last estantial states are summer and because in the feather are summer and a state in the feather are summer and the mill at the last estantial states are summer and because in the feather are summer and he was the feather than the last the feather are summer and he was the feather than the last the feather are summer and he was the feather than the last the feather are summer and he was the feather than the last the feather are summer and he was the feather than the last the feather are summer and he was the feather than the last the feather are summer.

mockatie. Lanier wie their Loners on the with the vent ber houng ones, who picketh them til they bleed into ber bully and then beed let been with her tongue. Capid himselfe must spend one acrow, and thinkell thou to freed with one Letter fo, no Philaurus bee that looketh to have cleere mater muddinge veep, be that langelb for (weer Mulick mult fet bis finings abthe highelt, pe that feek. eth to win his love, mult Breech his labour and hazard his life. Venuableffeth Loons in the folde, and Lambes in the Chamber. Carles at the affault, and Fores in counfaile to that then must be hardy inche gunine and meetern inchapy; benteraus inobtaining, and mile in concealing a fortialt thou win that with symile; which otherwife thou wile loole with peeuilhnes. Faine beart, Philaurus, neither winneth Caffle no; Lable : therefore endure all things p that happen with pactence, and purine with biligence: thy fortune is to be stied, not by the accidentalistic the end. and one des

Chus Bentlemomen, Philautis belemblethithe biper; who he ing ficicken with a Reeve, lyeth as it were bear, but firichen the fecond time, reconcreth his Arengeh: having his auniwere at the first in a Balque, be was almost amazen, and now againe bented, be in attimated; prefuming thus muchingon the good disposition and kinducks of accomen, that the higher they litter be somerched tooks, and the more they seems at the field on looth; the more they lone at the laft. Etholo inbgement as I am not altogether to allow, lo can I not in some respect millike. For inthis they relemble the Crocoble, who when one approcheth neere unto him, gathereth op himlelfe into the roundness of a Ball but running from him, Aretsbeth himfelfe inco the length of a tree. The milling relitance of momen, was the caufe that made Arelius (whole Arte was onely to brawe Momen) to paint Venus Cuydia, catching at the Ball with ber band, which thet fremen to spurne at with her foote. And in this point they are not unlike buto the Prire Cree, which being bewon, gathereth in his fappe : but not moved, poureth itout like Arupe. Momen are neuer moze cop then when they are beloued, yet in their mindes never leffe confrant : feeming to tye themfelues to the Ball of the fhip with Villes, when they are wood, with a ffrong Cable, which beeing well biscerned, is a tipine thied : thioming a stone at the head of him, onto whom immediatly they calliforth an Apple : of which their gentle nature Philautus being perfmaben, follow in his fute againe in this manuer. THE SALE WILL COUNTY OF

Philaurus

2011

0

24

1

94

IB

Philantus to faire Camillan) and Santill Con

Langet tell Camilla, whether the ingraticave be greater, of my Inilifortune: for peruling the fewe lines thougand nice. I found as small hope of my love, as of the cuetelle. But so extreme are the pations of love, that the more thou seekest to quench them by viscaine, the greater same thou increases by vesice. For balike to soprious stiell, which extinguishes patite by and kinoteth a met sich. Anoma less some hat by bediete over mee, then the sire hard over Naplysia, which seapeth into it, where sowerit seeth it.

I am not be Camilla, that wil leave the Role, because it pricketh my finger, or soplake the Goloschat spethin the hor liet, for that it is covered with Garpe business. The mends of a faithful loner, is netther to be vanues with velyight, no affergoted with a anger. For as the Loadsone what winve locater blowe, turneth alloap to the sporth, or as Aristotles Quadranis; which was specified by it in the it, in alumies companie socke skith of Philamies is encourse uppliced to she ious of Qualita in niches so beer emoties with any winve, not rolled with any winve,

Thou lapst greene wounds are to be delled roughlie, least they felter: certainlie thou speaked like a good Surgion, but dealest like one wolke this life; making a great wound; thou puttest in a small tent, cutting the stelly his sound before thou cure the place his soze astriking the veine with a knife, which thou shouldest stop with lint. And so hast thou drawne my Metter (I vie thine owne tearme) that in seeking to spople it in my chinne, thou hast spred it over imp bodie:

Thou about, thou are no Italian Lavie, I answere, would thou mere not that I would have thee woodd as thou failt they are, but that I might winne thee, as thou now are to and yet this I pare say, though nated excuse all or disprace thee, that some there are in Italia too wife to be caught with leadings, and too honest to be intangled with luft, and as water to eschuelinne, as they are buwilling to sustaine shame. So that whatsoeuce the most bee, I would not have thee thinke illos the best.

Abou alleadgest the youth and allowest the wifevome: the one,

tu

99 tus floi

H

not apt to know the impressions of love, the other, suspictous not to beseeve them. Truely samilla I have been, that young is the Goode that will eate no Pates, and a very ill Cocke that will not crowe before he begalve, and no right L you that will not seed on both meate before he take sweet milken and a render Cirgin Goo kno was it must be that measurable and a render Cirgin Goo kno was it must be that measurath heraffections by her age, who as naturally they are inclined (which thou particularlie puttest to our Coster ie) to play the Brides before they be able to dresse their beades. Pany smilitudes thou bringest in to excuse youth, thy twist, they come the fruite thy grape, and I know not what, which are as easie to be refellen as they are to be repeated. But my good Camilla, I am as unwilling to confate any thing thous peakest, as I am thou shouldest other is, in somuch as I would sweare y Crow were white if thous houldest but say it.

Preson will in greater then Acade expeller and the curtelle lefte then Apelepus supposed for with time a reason, is of solitele some that Thad neither the wiltows the mean, nor the wit to conceine it. Burehad Applehad nothing can breake off my lone but reathen any ching batten my death but the viscortale. And so I sattranthy fine it sentence, and my farall velicite.

Thine ever, though he be 1 40% and all

This Letter be thought by no meanes better to bee conveyed, then in the same booke her received hers: so omitting no time, least the Aron thousande before he could arthe, he presently was to Camilla, who he sound in gathering of Activers, with divers of their Ladies and Gentlewomen, which came as well to recreate themselves so pleasure, as to wifte Camilla, whom they all loved. Philaucus somewhat holdened by acquaintance, curteous by nature, and Courtie by countenannee, salue of them all with such training as he chought meete so their personages, not so getting to call Camilla his scholler, when the had schooled him being her spatter.

One of the Lavies who velighted much in mirth, fæing Philautus behold Camilla lo fledfally, lapo buto him : Gentleman, what flower like you belt in all this boyder Dere be faire Roles, freete Aioles, fragrant Primroles : here will be Ailly-flowers, Carnations,

R 2

tions Boys in wine, tweet Johns janu what imperther pleate you to light, or velight you with lauout ! loth wee are you fould batte a polle of all, pet willing to gine you one not that which that looke belt, but fuchia one as you that like belt. 20 34 34 34 34 34

Philaucies omiccing no opportunicle shat might either manifelt his affection, or commend his witzunswered her chas.

Lavy, of lo many fineet flamers to choose the bell, it is barb, feeing they be all lo good : if I Could preferre the lairest before the Queetett, you would happilie imagine, that either I mere floppen to the note, or wanton in the epen: if the foresties before the belift tie: then would you guefft me either to tine with landir or to baile no tudgement in colours: but to tell my mind, (opon correction be it fpoken)of all flowers I toue a faire woman, ass ined vode the Indeede quoth Flauia, (for la was the named) faire womerrare fer thicke, but they come by this, and to be weber begin to but, they are gathered, as though they were blobene of farb men as you are, Gentleman, who thinke greent graffe will neuer be bife Dayibut when the flower of their pourbetteing flipper ton young) that fave before they be olde, then I bare loy, pon wouldchange your faire flower for a weene, and the immunan pontonen then for the work

Thing ener, the wom stufer nog sniel?

Lavie, aun Oweren Philautus, it is a figne that beantie mas no niggard of her flippes inchis Barben , and berie enutone to other grounds, leging bere are fo many inone plot, as I hall neuer find morein all Malie, when her the realism ber the beate which willeth them, on the countries har counted bears them. As for pulling them by foune, in that melbely the velice mee have to them, not the malice. Wibere pou confecture, that men haue no respect to thinges when they be olde, I cannot but confent to your laying : for well Doe you know, that if fareth wish women as it both with the mulberrie tree inhich the elver it is, the pounger it feemeth, and therforebath it growne to a Prouerb in Italy ; when one feeth a 2010man fricken in age to looke amfable, bee laith, fhee bath eaten a Snakes forbat I muft of force follow mine olo opinion, & I loue freft colaurs well, but faire immien better 30 thing of bill ent

Flavia inoula not lo leaue bim; butthun cepipes to him Dou are very amozons Seutleman, otherwife you would not take the befence fence of that thing which most men contenue, and women wil not confesse. Any whereas you goe about to curry savour, you make a fault either in praising us continued; which we account in England slatterie, or pleasing your selfe in your own mind, which wise men esteems as follie. For when you endenour to prove that women the elder they are the fairer they looke, you thinks them eyther berie credulous to beleeve, or your talke very effectual to personate. But as cunning as you are in your Paternoster, I will bee holde to adde one Article more to your Eccede, that is, you may seeke in matters of love what you will, but Momen wil believe what they list, and in excelling their beauties, they give more credite to their owne glasses then mens gloses: but you have not yet answered my request couching that slower you most desire; for momen doe not resemble slowers neither in shew nor savour.

はかか

Philamus, not the inking for an Apeill thomes, follower the chale in this manner. Andle, I meicher flatter you not pleafe my telfe, (although it pleafeth you so to confecture) for I have althous observed this, that to time too much in minerime conceite, would gain me but little and to claw those of whom I lought so, no benefice, would profit mee less: per luns I never so ill brought up, but that I could when time and place though serve, give surry one their full commendation, but else it were among those that were without comparison: offending in nothing but in this, that being too curious in praising my Laste, I am like to the Painter Protogenes, who could never leave when his work was well, which sault was to be excused in him, because he would make it better, and may be borne in me, so, that I will it excellent.

Couching pour arit demaund, which you feeme agains to byge in pour last discourse, I lay of all flowers I tour the Role bett, yet with chia condition, because I will not rate my word. I like a saire Lapie well. Then quoth Flowis, since you will needed to you the flower with the moman, among allos (and speake not partiallie) call her your Rose that you most regards: and if shee venie that name, we will enjoyue her a penaunce so, her price, and reward you with a biolet so, your paines.

u

ű

4

0-ta

ue

are

De-

nce

Philaucus being driven to his this withen himfelfer in his chamber: for this he thought, that if he would choose Camilla, the would

R 2

nat

not accept it if another. Wee may intily reject him. If hee fourto vifcouer his loue, then would Camilla thinke him not to bee fecret, if conceale it, not to be feruent belides, all the Lavies would elpy bis loue, and prettent it, or Carvilla belpile bis offer, and not regard it. Talbile be was thus in a beep medication, Flaula wakened bim laping: Wiby Bentleman are youin a breame, bris there none heere worthy to make your choife of jog are wee all to invifferent, that there is never a good do a many new on friends on and area

Philautus feeing this Labie to curteous, and louing Camilla fo earnefile, could not yet refolue himfelfe what to boe but at the laft, Loue, which neverregarverh what it fpenketh, noi where, replied thus at all abuentutes. Labies and Bentlewomen, would I were to fortunate y I might choofe euerpone of poutor a flower, and then wold I boldiy affirme, that I could them the faired poficinshe morto, but folly it is for meeto with that, being a flane, mbich none can hope for yis an Emperout. If Imakemp chople, I wall speed so wel as be that entopeth all Europe And with that gathering a Rofe, he gauest to Camilla, whole colour fo intrealed, as one would have inoged all ber face to have beene'a Role, hav it mot been fained with a natural tohitenelle, which mabe ber to excell the Role, martalundi ambanin ambanisti nicel siene & indi

I

n

b

CO

CE

Chi

to

the

pu

fel

6

cut

Co

me

tot

ts b

mir

Camilla with a fmiling countenaunce, as though nothing greened, pet vered inmardly to the hart, refuled the gift flatty, pretenbing a ready excule: which was , that Philancus was eyther verie much ouerfeens, to take per before the Lany Planis, or els vifpoles to give bena mocke about the rell trebe company. and their live

Well quoth Flavia to Philaurus, (moo now troop like one that han been befmered) there is no harme bone, for I perceiue Camilla is otherwise sped: and if I be not much ve ceined, the is a flowet for Surius mearing: the penance thee that have is to make you a Molegap, which the thati not benfe, untelle the vefie us, and there ward you that haue is this, while pour arry in Birgland my Recre Ballbe pour Cliotet, and a fort une say siere serie get flie faille

Chis Ladies Colin was names Fraunces, a faire Gentle woman and a mile, young, and of very good conditions, not much inferior to Camilla, equall the could not be.

Camilla, who was loth to be accounted in any company coy, enpenguren in the prefence of the Laby Flama, to be bery curteous. and gathered for Philautus a polic of all the finel flowers in the Garben faping time buto him: I hope you will not be offenbeb Philautus, in that I could not be pour Role, but impute the faulte rather to bestiny then discurrefte.

Philaucus plucking op his intrits , gave ber thankes for ber paines, and immediatlie gathered a Cliolet, which be gave miltres Fraunces, which the curteoully received : thus all parts were pleareducing the first fill meter Date led foz chattime.

Philautus was inuited to binner, to that be could no longer flap. but pulling out the backe wherinhis Letter was inclosed, hee belivered tt to Camilla, taking his bumble leave of the Ladie Flavia and the reft of the Denclemomen. When be was mone; there fell much talke of him betweene the Genclewomen, one commending his wit, another his personage, some his favour, other his good conditions infomuch that the Ladie Flavia bound it with an oath. that the thought him both tolfe and boneff all ideas salate 183 as

Taben the company was viffo lued, Camilla not thinking to receine an animere, but a Lecture, went to ber Italian Book, where the found the Letter of Philamus, who without any further abuile. as one very much offended, of in a great beate, fenc him this bone cantiful and the first of the family of the

to gnaw on.

ie

D

at il-

iet

1 8

18-ett

nan

tioz

en-

ured

tuo vitast adolars, nei To Philainis, attada a tradit a drait

Cafficed it not thee Philautus , to betogap the follies, and moone Imp patience, but thou must also procure in mee a minbe to renenge and to the leife the meanes of a farther perill lothere bioft thou learne & being fozbiode to be bolde thou Coulvell grobe impubent? De being fufferen to be familiar thou monlock were baile fellow? But to lo malevert boldnesse is the Demognour of young Gentlemen come, that where they have beene once welcomed for curteffe, they thinke themselnes worthy to court any Lady by cufrome: wherein they imagine they ble lingular auvacitle, which we can no other wife tearme then fauchnelle, thinking women are to be brawne by their comes and counterfait effects, as the fram is by the Amber, or the Jeon by the Load Hone, or the golde by the minerale Chrylocolla, and and and an animal and animal and animal
But as there is no Serpent that can breed in the Bor-tree for THE

the

the barones, of will build in the Cypielle tree for the bitternes fo there is no fance or poiloneb Louer that thall encer inco mip bates which is barbenen like p Abamant, no; cake belig pe in my woods which thall be more bitterthen gall, or detter and bei and and

It fareth mith thee Philautus as mith the Diene, who hauing loft bis owne things, leakes to spoile the Bees of theirs, and thou being clipped of the libertic, goettavour to bereaus mes of mine, not far piffering from the nature of Dangens, who farking bloud out of the Clephant, kill bim, and with the fame poilon thefelues. Aun is may bee, that by the fame meanes that thou takeli in hand to inutiale my minut, thou intrap thine owne: a tuff remard for lo buiuft bealing anna fit revenge for le bukind a regato.

But A truft the purpofethall take no place, and that the malice hall manemight, wherein thou halt refemble the Berpent Prophirus, tobo is full of poilon, but being toothleffe, bee hurteth mone but plantelles and I doubt not but the minu is as ful of veceit as the words are of flattenies but having macery to bite; I have no cause to state. I have no cause to state a summa cause rules the Poole; a sputte must. When gentle Peoleman have no state purge, we must be historyotions, and where the some in neither to be discourse by platster, no, to be have ken, it is regulite is such be launced.

Dearnes that are the worse so, watering, are to be rooted out.

Access that are the such such so, the suppling, are to be bewen positive. Designed that we have beganning.

po tone: Detodes that mare baggard by manning are to be call off, and fond lowers that increase in their follies whether be relected, are to be delpifed and a state among the Mycanions, is account to no hame, because they be all borne bald, forth Italic, to the in loue is chought no fault, for y there they are al ginen to luft, which maketh thee to confecture, that weeth England teckon loue to bee the chiefest vertue, which we abhore as the greatest vice: which groweth like the Juie about the trees, whileth them by culling them. Thou are alivates calking of love, applying both the wit s thy wealth in that tole trave, quely for that thou thinkest thy felfe amiable : not bulike to the Debgebog , who enermore lobgeth amongif thomas because be himselfe to full of prickles. BH

Buft ake this both for atwarning and an anfwere, that if thou profecute thy fuite thou fhale but butos thy felfe, for Jam neithet to be wood with the unflions in hills thou linell moz to repent met of my rigour when thou art beabn fubich & would not hatte ebet thinke to proceede of any hate I beare thee, for I malice none, but for loue to mine bonour, which neyther Jealian thall violate, nor Carlifman bininifh. For nor beprecions fone Calazias , being throwne into the fire, keepeth Milt bis colones, not to be warmed with any beate losny beate, although binco at with the arrows of the burning affections and asia were environed with the are of the love, hall alwaies keepe bimbar dwelle ; and bee fo farce from being mellifted that thou fhale not perceine it mounto. The Miolet, Lady Flauia bestower on thee, I with thee, and it thou like ic. I will further the eather wild ift hou perlit in the olde fellies, whereby to increase thy new griefen; it wit inches come where thou artino; halt thou have accelle to the place where I im for s little agreement that there be bes weenens, antis betweene the Tine and the Cabbit, the Dake adpele Ditter tree abe Serpent the Alberteesthe Stewand Thearing site one . und Freite And if ever thou pipped love me manifelter in this eparberte shounever white to me, for hatt minut bee per furboroit the and safet of mine owne feare. But if then attempt again to wring water out of the Pommics, shoodsall but bewrap thy fal-thous, and augment the thame, ampleveritle. For this I lucare, bulen whole lighen can mener over Wella, and opher whole bettes are noctobe broken Dianather I will nowe confent to foue him, whole light (if I may to fay with movelte his more bierer uneo mill not vie many wards, for it chair be tuffe, fendened and per Afthis aunfwere will not content theey until wewe the Lettern, bife lofe the love, and make they amamieujus unegerake that which then confinement bring to patte in 10 3 bend jetine; if thou me leare intendech nor my tongue beter that lobistimuslosomes

. Recute. alline Jace (noth buto toborn onelp & with the it. Camilla Difpatches this Better with fpeed, and fent it to Philautus, by har man which Philautus haufug read, I omit the plight be magin to the iconfineration of poir Genetionen ithat hanc been in the it is became his baire; cone his clockers of eller our the pattions

C

ft

1£

12652

of a. Louer to the pangs of frenzie: but at the ladicalling his mits to himforgetting both the change Cainilla gans him, and the contents of her Letter, hagrested her immediatly again with an and fuere by her owne mellonger, in this manner; notice and an analysis of the contents of the

To the cinell Camilla, greeting. The second art in mine I to be belouse, thoushould either some bestade a wife, or ever remaine a virgin, the one month number of hope, the other acquite me of sease. But seeing there wanter which in mee to persuant, it will in these to consent. I dreams to manifell the beginning of any love by the and of my life, the affects of the one that appeare by the effects of the other.

Then as neither folering unth untfoliar pet function not ante realist can worke in the a remorts. Insends depoted to their his velice: the which the liver it commends, the livered to their his che thorems of the forces, that I be and the thorems of the forces. I cannot sell inherher then inight at any folly of lamenthing freely to but this I say, and with falt teamer enighting bowns my cheeker, I sweare; that thousand more more than the content of the say that the thorems in the same in the sa

Chou thinkelt all I write of course, and makelt all I speake of small account: but Gad, who revengeth the perinties of distinct blers, is witnessed in truth of whom I velice no longer to line, then I meane simply to love in this for a gam & 11 1021 along

I will not ble many words, for if thou be wile, fewe are lufficient: if from any superfluour constine is knough it thou bee cintenus, one word too much if thou be crack. Pet this I adde, and that in bitternes of foule, that neither my hand dareth write that which my beart intendeth, nor my tongue beter that which my band that execute. And so farewell, but o whom onely I wish well.

This letter being written in the extremitte of his rage he feuf by him that brought bers. Comills perceiuing a fresherply i was not a little inclantholic, but vigesting it with companie, and busning the Letter, thee vetermined neuer of instants him, not after that so see divisiones olute was their hat opinion. As vare not say oblivate least you. Gentle women thanks take pepper thicks make, when I put but so to your mouther. But this I vare holicity affirms that it apies are to be wored with Apriles [Dentituorphais Baspe, Mercuries conque, Adomis beauties, Crees went this imperite facilcoloques he wound: so chein beauties being blazed, which earns tickless bekaning a monember upes pleased, their appetite satisfice, their Costantality, when they have all thinges they from he bayes and would be not be manuscompt to stand in now he of their comment, but of their constants, the said and some amount a soutan

and gerichagidad wan adot suverick stolled sen ist tuck of the confidence of a surface of a surface of the construction of the

in the wall of the properties
Ab my good triend Euphues, I leasonathigth, thunghtop late, that a true friend is of more price then a kingdome, and that thy faith is to be preferred before the beautical Camilla. For as lafe being it is in the copungation truffic maternalise property beneure.

Then make very carefull for my constant from the for time.

12652

8, th in

Lit

ME

32

Trigite in pereciperation of the particular of the period of the control of the c confirment to fland at Euphues Dome as the true office. 112 8 304. 13 Mihat that I book in this extremities which way that I corne unices Di mbom frail it fertieremente? Euphiet milleviete ine lath who thouse be unt & Camilla fully treeters and Showly Though thee? The one I have offended Wiehthommutogete fo che other I bank ferued with ron great good will trbe one is tolk with loue the other with hate he for that A care who the bun, the because Tenede for trens Dibit phongh Chinallia tumod cu tet te bont Bublines mit bes inollifica Aerodus and an antique and announced and an antique and antique and an ique and antique and antique and antique and antique and antique antique and antique and antique and antique and antique antique antique antique and antique a futl harc, or mone in film a pitation with the the of nature curteous, one that hateth admission which there is a figure to the control of th cabless applytagistional spaces poles in the confidence of the con parens propositore ches affire repetition per provident per principal de l'alle de l'a habita meropering friems hands reconstituted friend by metifospen cante, which he had bed ken off by rathnes, vecermined to greece his friend Euchuck! who and talle beat the legisle part of an action of the land and the land pla ment (Anatha Matita Cello o Cantago de Las in ante Hely Geode Soin with detting den en anderlack i jarrait some positi no feontente por ta-chair interprese to man die fand prake troit is in interes, and inter-tinger von that i finde him to make positivo prince their alines. linger you fall finbe bim to me go my good friend Euphues, I femogwabla thraithe lath latt that a true friend is of moreprice then a kingbome, and that the fairy is to be preferred in Apple bormulted Camilla. J'or an fate Trupe tharpen sangifeat tomachany gloob Euphaes Iboth Bener and the property of the proper 391919000fflut met isgepat maning wien us spece thewie befoffie on eft Thuadoling has cookbuttone in anifer 1960 bonfordent lifte Cainer. Belleville 1960 bon 1860 ben 1860 b the state of the state of the constant of the state of th confirmined beina

111

21

th

ы

bí

eti

lie

the

D)t

am;

.600

being touched, to be mit Touchire. Friendshipshould bee like the Mines which Homen much commenting calleth Maronium mbereof one nine being mindle thick fine quarts of huser; vet it keepteb bis old fix inth any otrette, not co bequal the by any bifcurrefiel Where walt both growe nothing elleund breed, tobere friend thip is butlt, no offence can barbour. teams I fought for.

Som Euphasile the falling out offriends bee the remning of affreiun, that in this weaman refembles bones of the Lion which iping Billand not moourn, begin to for phit being frieken one againft another,breake out like fire, and ware greene : Che auger of friends is not Inlike bnto the Phylittons Cucurbita, which bearing all theinfection in the body into one place, worth purge al the discoles, and the larres of friendes, ripping spatt the hidden malices of fulpicious or follies that lie luthing in the minue, maactively knot more burable. For as the bobie beintipurced of mes lancholie mareth light a aut to all labour fuchamint as it were fcoarebol militathe commeth fit ever after for beleefe. But lobe boe I not confesse that invict I have committed, to knowing my felfe muiltie. why ble I to glole? diometrile.

I baue bniuftie (my good Eaphues) picked a quarrell agaynft thee forgetting the rounfaile than gaueft mee, and befuffing that which I note believ Which as often and call to my minte Team not but bitth to my felfe to hame : and fattout with my leffe for anger. For in falling much thet is have bone no otherwife. the bether deliving to faile fafely, katterpin at the brime refeme bling him that facing neered alight, fourbath dishoiles outle bim fand fill, or him that fwimming boon anothers backe frekerbes Rophis breath Actors in thee Euphics that I put all my seditand pet boon theethacis power out all impinalice , more senellabenabed wo covite anhainflerech the Birbe to breek in ber mouth the planuist hat there is more lightly white as the princelie Lyon, who laued his life that belpen his foote. But leepthet the goodmature can forgeochat subistempiti tomque vochrepent, or the accustomable kindurale forgive that my wab toled fury oto Commits I will bereafter be as will him cobeerby for waith class I am nom befirdus en not bodrien blank somadiere taku au ittute) month melither are than believed to apply something abandifican acthat ficab.

53

ge

Cabat I have none in the ablende y I will certifie at the comming, and get I boubt not but thou canft gueffe therof by my con-Dition, pet thus much I abre that Hamas cratte to vie as to line. and were I not imimated with the hope of the good countaile wante rathet haue finfferenthe beath Dwiffed, then luftaine the

But now in thele extremities, repoling both my life in thy baos, and my bufained fernice and good witt for ener beereaften at the commaundement, 3 attend thinganfmetr, prefithine to blemese then his owner, meake out like fire, end u aus green andr at finier

1.0

cb

anderen I regentlinelle wie eene entit Philauris, na eet fo This Letter being enbed , Philamus fent the Came by bis feruaunt, which Euphues reading, those as one in a quantarie. not knowing whether he thould more retopce at his friendes fubmillion, og miltrutt his fubritite : therefore beeing as pet nor fullie betermined to any thing, be prefently beparted into bis chamber and without further fearch of Philaucus well meaning , fent bim an aufwere by bis owne mellenger ginmanner as bereaftet Salein or I ald gird alt im alta followeth.

himmen Harm Euphues to him that was his Philantus. Me sued I Thank received the Letter, and know the man: I rede it, and perceived the matter, which Itam as far from knowing how to milwere, as Kwas from looking for fucipan errand. Thou begier: nell to infer a necessitie, that friends Gonto fallout; when I canot allowe an inconvenience for if it be anising furbus are fapthfull, there would be no caufe of breachtif betweene biffemblers, no care of reconciliation. of a more entrumper the demaid to held one france

The Cameil Caill thou, loueth water when't is troublet, and 3 Cap the Dare thirffeth forthe cleere freamerans fitty viobell thou being it in against shylelfefebaugh applyed it & knowe not bothe aptin for the felfe) for fuch frienoship not thou like to here brantes may be ffirten, not quietnenlought. 1911 and haful nov. ground tubich chou inferrett, pone in neitherfit for the beinking, posthe otherfor the talle of for fuch frong Wines will onercome luchtlight with ann ingood Shale cannot relift in foibulanorie a mouth, neither as thou befireft to apply them; can they fanor thee in ffean.

feat. For oftentimes I have found much water in thy beens, but not one brop of luch wine, and the ground where salt fold grow, n.

-

re

Ott

90 es

alt

na, me

E 8

ein

aB.

After many realous to conclude that farres were requilite, thou fallest to a kinde of submission, which I marunite at Forst I gave no cause, why didst thou pick a quarrel: if any, why should be thou crave pardon? If thou caust desie thy best friend, what will thou boe to thine enemie? Certainlie this must needes ensue, that if thou canst not be constant to thy friend, when her doth thee good, thou will never be are with him when he that we thee savine, thou that seekest to spill the blood of the innocent, canst show small mercy to an offender: thou that treadest a worme on the taile, will evulb a waspe on the head: thou that art angry so, no cause, will I thinke runne mad so, a sight oreasson.

now I choute againe be lo, I refule for final confidence that I re-

The malice of a friend is like the fling of an Alpe, which nothing can remedy: but being petroed in the hand, it must be cut off, and a friend chank to the hart it must be pulled out. I had as letter Philaucus have a wound that inwardly might lightly greene me, as a fcarre, that outwardly thouts greatly hame mee. In that thou bemed to earnest to crave action ment, that raulest mee the more to suspect the truth: for either thou are compelled by needfitte, when it is not worth thanks, or else disposed agains to abuse me, and then it described with a bitter Fig lease. The Lampy is not to be killed with a cudgell, put is he sported with a Cane: so friends, that are sollipperied wavering to all their bealings, are not to be kept with faire and smooth talks, but with rough and harpe caunts: and contrariwise, show with light persualions.

moued thee, when other whiles a Iwopo will not, then a friendlie checke killeth thee, when a Rafoz cannor associes. But to conclude Philaurus, it fareth with me now, as with those that have been once bitten with the Bottepion, who never after feelesh any fing.

12652

thing, either of the Matheopathe Poiner, of the Beer for I having been pricked with any other differentier, flatterer, or fickle friend. Conching the lifetening ablance, Afrace me it bath been too loofe: but leeing my complaite is no more welcome but thee, then water into a Ship, I will not wake wind to instruct him, that waster himself to believe others. Pet it I were as fully persuaded of the connection, as thou wouldest have me of the confession, I might happille does that, which now I will not. And so farewell Philauxis, and though thou lictle esteeme my counsails, pet have respect to thine awas credit: so in working thine owne good, thou shalt keep me from harms.

This Letter pinched Philautus at the first, pet trusting much to the good disposition of Euphurs, he determined to perseuer both in his sute ramendment, e cherefore as one beating his Iron, that he might frame it while it were hot, answered him in this manner.

didness of he made unit set adil a contra la salfamad.

Les is no bone to hard, but being laid in Chineger, it may be a torought, nor Austy to coughe, but fealoued with Zucho, it may bee ingraven, no Bore in knottie, that dispers in Dila caunot bee casued; and can obere be a heart in Euphurs, which nepther will yeeld to losenes with gentle personalions, nor true personance? This can't show supplies at my ban, that A will beny the? Dave I haden the league of friend high a confesse it. Dave I mission the intearmes? I will not beny it. But being so rowfull for eyeber, why shouldest not beautogine both.

Collater is praise for that it favoureth of nothing, fire for that it peel beth to nothing and fuch hould the nature of a true friend be, that it hould not favour of any rigidut, and fuch the effect that it may not be conquered with any offence; otherwise faith put into the healt that beareth grubges; of contracted with him that can remember griefes, is not butike white poured into fire beffels, which is unforced to the primber.

Arienas mult bevied, as the Pulletinus cane their fittinges, who anding them in differe, bosenet breaket bem, but eyeher by intention of remillion, frame them to a pleafant concent: of as rybers bandle their young colts, who finding them will and untractable, bring them to a good pale, with a gentle rapne, not with a sharpe spurre: of as the Scythians ruled their sques, not with cruell we a-pons, but with the thew of fmall whips,

Then Euphues consider with thy selfe what I may be, not what I have been, and so sake me not so; that I deceive thee: if thou do, thy discurresse will breed my destruction. For as there is no beast that toucheth the heard whereon the Beare bath breathed, so there is no man that will come neere him, byon whom the suspicion of deceit is saked. Concerning my life passed, I conceale it, though to thee I meane decreaster to confesse it: yet hath it not beene so wicked, that thou wouldest bee shamed, though so infortunate, that I am grieved. Consider we are in England, where our demeanour will be narrowly marked if we tread away, and our follies mocked if we ble wrangling. I thinke thou art willing that no such thing should bappen, and I know thou art willing that no such thing

I was of late in the company of vivers Sentlemomen, among whom Camilla was present, who marvailed not a little, that thou soughtest exther to absent the selfe, of some concessed injurie, where there was none given, or of set purpose, because thou wouldest give one. I chinke it requisite, aswell to avoide the suspicion of malice, as to hun prote of ingraticude, that thou repaire thither, both to purge the selfe of the opinion may be concessed, and to give thankes sor the benefits received. Thus assuring my selfe thou will answere my expectation, and renue our olde amitie, I end, thine assured to command.

Philaurus of o not fleepe about his bufineffe, but prefently fent his Letter, thinking that if once he could faften friendship againe upon Euphues, that by his means he hould compate his loud with with Camilla: and pet this I burth affirme, that Philautus was both willing to have Euphues, and fortowfull that hee loft him by his owne lauffnes.

ít

to an 19, 10

no

Euphues peruled this Letter oftentimes, being in a mammering what to answere: at the latt, he betermined once agains to lye aloote, thinking that if Philautus meant faithfully, he would not be-

aa

fift from his fute, therfore be returned falutation in this maner.

Euphues to Philautus.

There is an hearbin India, Philaurus, of pleasant smell, but whoso commeth to it, feeleth present smart, sor that there breed in it a number of small Derpents. And it may bee, that though the Letter be full of sweet words, there breed in the heart many bitter thoughts: so that in giving credit to the Letters, I may be deceiued with the leasings.

The Box-tree is alwaies greene, but the leeve is poplon: Tila hath a lweet rince and a pleasant lease, but the fruite so bitter, that no beast will bite it : a dissembler bath enermoze honey in his mouth, and gall in his minde, which maketh mee to suspect their wiles though 3 cannot ever prevent them.

Thou lettelt vowne the office of a friend, which if thou couldelt as well performe, as thou canst describe, I would be as willing to construe our olde league, as I am to believe the new lawes. Mater that sugareth nothing (an thou says) may be heated, and scale thee, and sire which yeeldeth to nothing, may be quenched when thou wouldest warme thee. So the friend in whom there was no intent to offend, may through the sinister dealings of his fellow be turned to heate, being before colle, and the fatch which wrought like a slame in him, be quenched and have no sparke.

The pouring of wine into Firre vellels, ferneth thee to no purpole: for if it be good Mine, there is no man fo foolish to put it into Firre: if bad, who would poure it into better then Firre? Pullie Calks are fit for rotten Grapes, a barrell of payfones Juy is good inough for a Cun of finking Dyle, & cruelty too mile a medicine for craft.

Dow Pulitians time their Instruments I knowe, but howe a man hould temper his friend. I cannot tell, pet oftentimes the Aring breaketh that the Pulitionseeketh to tune, and the friend cracketh which good counsel hould tamp : such Collegare to bee rivden with a harp snaftle, not with a pleasant bir, and little will the Socythian whip he regarded, whereathe tharpnesse of the suggestion is very bed. If the luck have been instrumente, it is a signe thy the using hath not been goods; so, communicatives commert and it end, where where there was a naughty beginning.

But learne Philaucus to live hereafter, as though thou shouldest not live at all, bee constant to them that trust thee, and trust them that thou hast tryed, dissemble not with the friend, either so, feare to displease him, or so, malice to deceive him know this, that the best same very simple, if the Physician could not apply the, that precious somes were no better the peebles, if Lapivaries did not know them, and the best friend is worse then a soe, if a man boe not be him.

Purgations must be taken inwardie, not spead in playsters: Purgations must bee bled like drinke, not like baths: the counsell of a friend must be fastned to the minde, not the eare; sollowed, not prayled, imployed in good living, not talked of in good meaning. I knowe Philaurus, wee are in England, but I would wee were not, not that the place is too base, but that we are too bad, a God grant thou have done nothing which may turne thee to discredite, or me to displeasure. Thou says thou wert of late with Camilla, I seare me too late, and per perhaps too some, I have alwaies to be thee, g she was too high for thee to climb, and too tair for others to catch, and too beet uous for any to inverige. But wild hopses break high bedges, though they cannot leave over them, eager to olves bark at the Moone; though they cannot leave over them, eager to olves bark at the Moone; though they cannot win ber.

For ablenting my leife, I hope they can take no cause of offence, neither that I know, have I given any. I some not to be bolde, yet would I bee welcome, but guestes and sish, say wer in Athens, at e ever stale within three papes: shortle I wil visit them and excuse my selfe, in the meane season I thinke so well of them, as is possible for a man to think of women, and how well that is, I appeale to thee, who alwaies madest them no worse then Saintes in hea-nen, and faines in no worfe place than the heart.

For aunswering thy suce, I am not per so hallie, sor accepting thy service, I am not so imperious, for in friendship there must bee an equalitie of estates, and that map be in be; also a similitude of divers manners, and cannot unlesse thou learne a new lesson, and leave the olde, butill which time I leave thee, withing thee well as to my selfe.

TL 2.

This

This Letter was written in halfe, lent with speed, & aunswered again in post. For Philautus seeing so good counsaile coulo not proceede of an ill conceite, thought once agains to solicite his friend, and that in such tearmes as bee most agreeable to Euphues time. In this manner.

To Euphues, health in body, and quietnesse in minde.

In Pulick there are many vilcords, before there can be framed a Diapalon, and in contracting of good will, many tarres before there be established a friendship, and by this meanes the Pulicke is more sweet, and the amity more soud. I have received thy Lecter, wherein there is as much good counsaile contained; as either I would wish, or thou thy selle couldest give: but ever thou harpest on that string which long since was out of tune, but now is broke by inconffancie.

Certes mp good Euphaes as I cannot but commend the wife-Dome in making a flay of reconciliation (for y thou findelt folicele flap in me)fo can I not but maruaile at thy incredulity in not beleeuing me, lince that thou left a reformation in me. But it may be thom dealeft with me, as the Philosopher both with his knife, tobe being many yeares in making of it; alwaies realing by the obfernation of the flars, cauled it at the laft to cut the bard whetfione : faying, that it fkilleth not bow long things were a boing. but how well they were vone. And thou holdelt me off with many belaies, vling I know not what observations, thinking thereby to make mee a friend at laft, that that laft: I waife the good meaning, I millike thy rigour. De thou thalt ble in what thou wilt, and doe that with a flender twiff , that none can doe with a tough Zaith. As for my being with Camilla, good Euphues my there nomore, leaft I winch, for beny I will not that I bane wonnig on the withers. This one thing touching mo felfe I fap, and before bim that feeth all things I fweare, that beereafter I wil netther diffemble noz belube thee, noz picke quarrels to fall out with thee thou halt finde me conflant to one, faithlelle to none, in paier benout, in manners reformed, in life chafte, in mords mobell : not framing my fancie to the bumour of love, but my beedes to the zule

th an

fei

EOS

rule of scale: And luch a one as beretofore merrilo chon fapot & mas, but now ernip thou fhale fee I am, and as I know thou art.

Then Euphues appoint the place where we may meete, and reconcile the minus, which I confesse by mine owne follies were lemeren. And if euer after this 3 thall feeme fealous ouer thee, or blinded towards my felfe, ble me as I beferue Chamefully. Thus attending the freedy antwer for that belates are peritous, efpecially as my cafe now flandeth. I end thine evertoble as his ofone.

Philautus.

that

Euphues feeing fuch freedy returne of an other animere thought Philappus to be bery tharpe fet, for to recover him : and weighing with himfelf, that often in mariages there havefallen out brauls, where the chiefeft loue fould bee, and pet againe reconciliations that none ought at any time to to love, y be fould find in his heart at any time to bate. furthermore, calling in his minte the good be micht hat to Philaucus by his friendmin, anuthe mifchiefe that might enfue by bis fellowes folly, antwered him thus again freebilp, afwell to prevent the course be might other wife take, as also to preferibe what way be bouto take.

et sous, a Hayr Euphues to his friend Philathis. D. oniet on the find a present mentaling I are not on the books, not the second of the sense, not

TEttles, Philautus, haue no prickes, per thep ffind. and morbes bane no points, pet they pearce : though outwardly they proself great amendment, per oftentimes the folines of amnoli which the Sores fend ficketh fo fall to the fkinne, that when one looketh it thould keep him marine, it fetcheth blond and the fingoth cathe; thy freet promifes, may, when I thatt thinke to fame them werformed to belighe mer, be a coraline to bestropme. Bat I will not call beyond the Moone forthat in all thinges I know there mult be a meane. Thou Iwearest now pahulife shall be let by my line. that thou will nive no cause of offence by thy bisozoers, not take any by good meaning, which if ie be lated and als willing to bethe friend as Ham to be mine owner its que et intammi (10) annami

But this take for a marning, if ever thou faire when thou fout belt felt, og follom thine owne will, when their are to beate my countaile then wil I vepalt from the jand to vilplay when as wone that is wife thall trut thee, or any that is honest that! live with thee. I am now resolved by thy Letters of that which I was almost persuaded of by mine owne contecture, touching Camilla.

Dung

part, and familiaritie of hers, to attempt a thing, which will not onely be a vilgrace to thee, but also a vilcredit to her? Thinkelf though the lefte exthet worther to move her, or the willing to we de thee? Cither thou able to frame thy tale to her content, or the reable to give eare to the conclusions.

Mo, no, Philautus, then are too young to woos in England, though olde enbugh to minih Icaly, for beers they measure more the man by the qualities of the minu, then they coporaton of his body. They are too expert in lone, having learned in this time of their long peace, every wrinkle that is feene wriningined.

It is neither an ill tale wel told, not a good historie made better, neither invention of new fablishappy the reciting of olde, that can either allusein them an appetite in love, or almost in incention to beart. when and mid describes allow a color of the beart.

It fareth not with them as it both with thole in Italy, who preferre a tharps wit, before found wilebonds, or a proper man before a perfect mind: they live not by thabows, nor feeds of the agre, nor luft after wind. Their touch not tred by Arce, but reason, not to shepresents of wild hunts the perf wallons of honeste. But A cannot but warmaile at the authorist that then proper once dark to must be to ince, whom A alwaiss fearer to wife in question uing, alwest doubting so be granelled by her quick has reaso with,
as to be poultiled by her granelled by her quick has reaso with,

to-

the 30

3117

and

curi

tot

buca

bebe

ter,p tratea

Mind 334

eage therethy feller him but Philamos, they be most noble; who are commonded anore sometimes show their perfection, then their perfere, and led this lassing thee, that her designing consists in versue, beautic, wit, not bloud, another, autiquicie. But more of this at our next meeting, where I thinks I shall be unity to be another viscourfe of the madney, so I imagine to my selferbats be handled the except hard ly collibering both the place she server in, and the person that server used ber, and sure I amissed of nothing sorthy modeling.

2. A Phonixie ma foods top Philamens) that Daintle tooth of thine mult must be pulled out, else wile thou surfer with velire, and that Cagles eie picked out, else will it be dazled with velight. Hy counsaile must rule thy conceit, least thou consound by both. I mill this evening come to the longing, where we will conser, and till then I commend me to thee.

Thine ever to vie if thou be thine a single hand traited a said agree to the class of terowne; Euphnes: Hand

This Letter was to thankfully received of Philaurus, that he almost ranne beyond himselfe for top, preparing al things necessate for the entertainment of his friend, who at the houre appointed tapled not a restained and decided and decided and

Many embracings there were, much firange curtelle, many prette glaunces, being almost forthe time buottenngers, because of their long absence. But graining to questioning one with another, they fell to the whole discourse of Philaurus lone, who lest out nothing that before I put in, which I must omit, least I see before you Coleworts twice somen, which will both offen your eares, which I seeke to belight and trouble my hand, which I couet to ease.

But this 3 am fure, that Euphues conclution mas this bermeene waking and winking that our English Lavies and Gentlemont were to cunning infoues hat the labour mere more refle buledies to begone and burie her thoubeste to made and francy her sight thus they with long talking waren wearies where I leave thein, not william so talke are longer, but to fleen their file tilmouning. and the president and appealed whis controller bere pour entificiences, in has begit benedication and areas to income this hies e beginning in header the continuous and an eliminated by the if curteous : by befire, if one be vertuous : mbich Tomoult not klade to this intent, that I might be infructed bom to win any of you. bucaothe sun Imigha brander at you all florif there be in tous an Art then don't not marualle to fee men thavalor of that save to de de longo, lo aften timen come refecse acidime focte exercipacitio annie. ter pertapning nothing colour fere. I will not farther entocide uf trieal happily in quelling what Arts women vie inclosed admin minister au Artechepwener knew befores and foin chinking to 334 bewrap

tC

2

DA

to 35

tie

a

bewray the baite that hath caught one, I give them a net to brate many putting a fwort into the band, where there is but a heath. teaching them to frike, that put we to our tryings by warding. which would bouble our perill, who without Arce cannot allore them, and increase their tyranny, who without they togment, will come to no Parley. But this I abmonif you, that as your owne beauties make you not couclous of your almes towardes true lo-Hers to other mens flatteries make you not provincil of your bonois tomarbs billemblers. Let not them that weake faireft be heleened foonest, for true love lacketh a conque, wit is treed by the gies, which in a heart that meaneth well, is as farre from wanton glanfes as o mind is from tole thoughts. And this Art I will gine you tobich memen commonly practifesifyou behold any one that either pour curtelle hath allured, ay your beautie, og both, criumph not over him, but the moze earnest you fee him, the moze readie be to follow bim, and when be thinketh bimfelfe neerelf, let bim bee fartheft off: then if be take that with patience, affure your felfe be cannot be faithleffe.

De that angleth, placketh the bait away when he is neere a bite, to the end the fifth may be more eager to fivallow the hooke. Birds are trained with a fineet call, but caught with a bread net: and loners with faire lookes, but are incangled with viloainfull eyes.

The Spanish that famneth when he is beaten, will never for-

The Spanier start award when he is beaten, will never forlake his Palter: the man that voteth when he is vilvained, will never logged his Philires. But too much of this irring Which lotineth too much out of lquare, and returns to Baphuel in Philancus.

Lesie, toperalizations to the persecutive, they went into a Sullesie, toperalizations dels persecues. Philamis gricious and perplesso republishment Camilla, began than because with a delication to talks with him. delications and assume a such a sulface of the

In lilaurus, I have melnig hall this nighe beine disputing with a my selfe of shoutstresse, yet can I resturing selfe in nothing, chat exther may content me, or quiet thee. White mertal art thou made of Philaurus, that chinkest of nothing but sone, and art remarked with nothing lesse then love: Lucilla was too bab, yet viols thou court her: thy sweet hart, now in Naples, is none of the best,

pet

F

170 con

boo

tiou

me (

Dot

only

that cine.

Jail.

pet ninft thou follow ber. Camilla exceeding all, where thou wast to have leaft hope, thou ball wooed, not without great hazard to 3 baue peruleb ber Letters, which in mp fimple inogement, are to far from allowing the fute, that they feeme to leath the fernice. I will not flatter thee in thy follies, thee is no match for thee, nor then for berithe one wanting living to maintaine a wife, the other birth to aduance ber bulband. Surius fobom I remember thou biobeft name in thy biscourfe, I remember in the Court, a man of great birth, and noble bloud, lingular wit, and rare personage : if be goe about to get credite, I mule what hope thou couldeft conceine to have a good countenance,

Well Philautus, to fet bowne preceptes againft the loue, will nothing prevaile: to perswave thee to goe forward, were very perilous : for I knowe in the one, loue will regard no lawes, and in the other, per l'malions can purchase no libertie. Thou art too bea-

Die to enter in where no beebe can belp one out.

Thefeus would not go incothe Laby inth without a threed, that might them bim the way out, neither any wife man onter into the crooked comers of loue, buleffe be knew by what means be might gecout. Loue, which Chould continue tog euer, thould not be begun in an boure, but flowlie be taken in hand , e by length of time finithen: selembling Zeuxis that wife Painter, who in thinges that be would baue laft long, tooke greateft leffure!

ı-ı

15.

p

t

13 th

g, att

8-

all

W. et

3 have not forgotten one Mittrelle Frauncis, which the Labie Flauia gaue thee for a Miolet, and by thy velcription, though the be not equall with Camilla, pet is the fitterfoz Philaurus. If the bumay be fuch, p nothing can feebe it but love, call the mind on her: confer the impollibilitie thou baff to win Camilla, with the likelibood thou mail haue to entopthy biolet : and in this will I endenour both my wit and my good will, fo that nothing thall want in me that may worke eale in thee. The Mioles if thee bee honelt is worthy of thee, beautiful thou failt the is, and therfore too worthy: Dat fire is not anelie quenchen by the cleere fountaine, nog loue only lanceified by the faire face. Therfore in this tel me thy mind, that either me may proceede in that matter, or leeke a new medicine. Philaucus thus ceplped.

12652

Oh my good Euphues, I have neither the power to follake mine owne Camilla, not the heart to very the countaile, it is easte to fall into a net, but hard to get out, Motwithflanding I will go against the haire in all things, so I may please thee in any thing.

O my Camilla, With that Euphues stayed him, saying.

Mold leave his love, fall to remembring of his Lady, the one cauleth the eye to limart, the other the heart to bleede. Well quoth Philautus. I am content to have the wound learched, yet unwilling to have it cured, but Athens the lick men are not to prescribe dyets, but to keep them, I am ready to take potious, and if wealth serve, to pay thee so, them: yet one thing maketh me to seare, that in running after two Pares, I catch neither. And certainly quoth Euphues, I know many good hunters, that take more velight to have the Hare on soote, and never catch it, then to have no ery, and yet kill in the sourme: whereby I guelle, there commeth greater belight in the hunting then in the taking. It may bee, sayed Philautus, but I were then very unficious such pastimes, so, what sport source I have all the day, I sour to have the game in my bish at night.

and truly antipered Euphues, you are morle made for a Doung then a Bunter for you marre gourfent with carren, befoge you fart your game, which maketh you bunt oftentimes counter. whereas if you had kept it pure you might ere this time bane turned the Warryon winder, and caught the game you courfer. The then I perceiue quoth Philaurus, that to talke with Gentlewomen couching the biscourses of love, to eate with them to confer with them to laugh with them, is as great pleafure as to entoy them. to the which thou mailt by fometallacy vitue mee, but never per-Imabe me: For theu were it as pleafant to bebold fruite as to cate them.or to fee faire bread, as to tafte it. Thou erreft Philaucus. fan Euphues, if thou be not of that mint, for bee that commeth into fine Garbens, is as much recreates to Imell the flowers, as to gather them. And many we fee moje belighted with picenres then peticous to be Painterst the effect of love is faith, not luft delightful conference, not vetettable concupifcence, which beginneth with folly and endeth with repentance, for mine owne pare I would wiff

5

ier

the

mbi

with nothing. If againe I hould fall into that baine, then to have the company of her in common conference that I bell loued, to heare her lober talke, her wife answeres, beholve her there capacitie, and to be persuaded of her constancie: and in these thinges do me onely differ from brute beasts, who have no pleasure but in seusuall appetite. You preach hereste quoth Philautus, and besides, so repugnant to the text you have taken, that I am more ready to pull thee out of the Pulpit, then to beleeve the aloffes.

I loue the company of women well, pet to have them in lawful matrimony, I like much better, if the reasons thould goe as currant, then were lone no tomment : for haroly both it fall out with bim , that is benyed the fight and talke of his Lavy. Wungry fomacks are not to be fed with layings again I furfetings, not third to be quenches with fentences against brunkennesse. To love women and never intop them, is as much as to love Zaine, and neuer tall it,02 to be belichted withfafre apparell, a neuer weare it. And tole love is that, and fit for bim that bath nothing but ears, that is fatiffied to beare ber fpeake, not belirous to baue bimfelte Tpeebe. Wiby then Euphues, to have the victure of his Laby, is as much as to iniop ber prefence, and to read ber Letters, of as great force, as to beare ber aunimeres : which if it bee, my fuice in lone . thould be as much, to the Painter to sam ber with an amiable face, as to my Lavie to write an amozous Letter: both which, with little fute being obtained, I may line with love and never wet my foots, noz breake my fleepes, noz wafte my money, noz tozment my mind. But this worketh as much velight in the minde of a Louer, as the apples that bang at Tantalus nole, or the river that runneth clofe by his chin. And in one word, it would boe me no more good to fee my Labie, and not to imbrace ber in the beat of my belire, the to fee fire, and not to warme me in the extremitie of my colbe.

Mo, no, Euphues, thou makelt lone nothing but a continual woing if thou barre it of the effect, and then it is infinite: if thou allow it, and yet forbid it, a perpetual warfare, and then is it intollerable. From this opinion no man should with draw mee, that the end of fishing, is catching, not angling: of birding, taking, not whistling: of love, wedding, not wootng. Deherwise it is no better then hanging: Euphues, imiling to see Philaucus so earnest,

ST- COM C- COM

112

paged

baged him againe in this manner.

1.7 by Philaucus , what barme were in lone, if the beart Could peelo bis right to the eve, or bis fancie bis force to the eare? I have read of many & fome I knowe, bet weene whom there was as feruent affection as might be, that never belired any thing but Iweet talke, and continuall company, at banquets, at playes, and other affemblies, as Phrigius and Pieria, whole confrant faith was fuch that there was never word nor thought of any bucleannelle. Pigmalion loued his Juopp image, being enamoured onely by the fight: a why thould not the chaffe lone of others be builded rather in agreeing in beauenlie meditations, then cempozal actions. Beleeve me Philautus, if thou knewell what it were to love . thou wouloft be as far from the opinion thou holbeft, as Jam. Philautus, thinking no greater absurbity to be belo in the worldehe this, replies before the other could end, as followeth.

Doced Euphues, if the king would relique his right to his Legate, then were it not amille for the heart to prely to the eves. Thou knowed Euphues, that the eye is the mellenger of love, not the mafter the eare a carrier of newes, the beatt a digeffer. Befines this Luppole, one bave neither eares to beare his Lady freak. noz epes to fee ber beautie, fall be not therefore be fubiect to the impressions of love? Ifthou answere no. 3 can allebae bivers, both beafe and blind, that baue been mounded : ifthou graunt it, then confelle, the beart mul bane his bope; which is neither feeing no? bearing: and what is the chird? it and Thank yed?

Touching Phrigius and Pieriathinke them both fooles in this. for be that keepeth a Den in his boule to cackle, and not lap, 62 a Cock to crow, and not to treat, is not unlike unto bim that bewing fomen bis wheat, nener reapeth it, og reaping it, nener strefbeth it taking more pleasure to fee faire come , then to eate fine bread. Pignalion maketh against this, for Venus feeing him fo carneffly to love, and lo effectually to pray, graunted him his request, which had be not by importunate lute obtained, I boube not but he wold rather have bewed ber in perces; then honozed ber with pallions, and fet ber by in fome Wemple foran Image, not kept ber in bis house

po

liti

lan

tob As.

Sap

wit

belo

fon,

petu

Bell ther

meat

berp. with folute

suerp

Flauia

thie G

ALL DE

Eu

house for a wife. De that belirech ouriges talke and tiem without any further luce is not far different from him, that liketh to fee a painted Role, better then to smell to a perfect Cliolet, or to beare a bird ling in a bulb, rather then have ber at home in his owne care.

This will I follow, that copleane for love, and request nothing but looks, and to be serve works, and live only by words, is as one should plow his ground, and never some it; grind his colours, and never paint, labole his boole and never ribe.

As they were thus communing, there came from the Ladie Flatuia, a Gentleman, who invited them both that night to supper, which they with humble thankes given plamifed to dee, and till supper time I leave them debating their question.

Now Seutlewomen, in this matter I would I knewe your minds, and pet I can somwhat guess at your meanings: If any of you should love a Sentleman of such perfection as you can wish, would it content you onelie to heare him, to see him vaunce, to marke his personage, to velight in his wit, to wonder at his qualities, and believe no other solace? If you like to heare his plealant voice to sing, his sine singers to play, his proper personage to undertake any exploite, would you couet no more of your Love? As good it were sor you so be silent and thinks no, as to blush and say I.

I must needes conclude with Philautus, though I should cauell with Euphues, that the end of lone is the full fruition of the partie beloved at all times and in al places. For it cannot follow in reafon, that because the sauce is good which should provoke mine appetite, therfore I should so sake the meate so; which it was made.
Beleve me, the qualities of the minde, the beauty of the body, epther in man or woman, are but sauce to whet our stomackes, not meat to fill them. For they that live by the view of beauty stillook bery leane, and they that seede onely by on vertue at boord, will goe with a bungry belly to bed. But I will not crave heerein your resolute answer, because betweene them it was not vetermined, but suery one as be like th. and then.

Euphues and Philaucus being now againe fint for to the Lable Flavia ber house, they came prefently where they found the morthic Gentleman Surius, Camilla, Mittreffe Francis, with many other

ALL TELL

ZI 3

poping their duetie, thep fainces all his companie and were wel-

The Lavie Flavia entertained the both verie louinglie, thanking Philaurus for his last companie, saying: be mertie Gentleman, at this time of the yeare a Citolet is better then a Role, and so spee a cole and went her way: leaving Philaurus in a must ber words, who before was in a maxe at Camillas tookes. Camilla came to Euphues in this manner.

Jam forty Euphues that we have no greene rulbes, confidering you have been to great a firanger; you make me almost to thinke that of you, which commonly Am not accustomed to image of any, that either you thought your left ton good, or your cheere to bad: other cause of absence I cannot imagine, on less seing us very ivle, you lought meanes to be well employed: but I pray you hereaster be bold, and those things which were amisse half bee redicted for we will have Quailes to amend your commons, come questions to sharpen your wits; so that you shall neither since fault with your oper so, the grosenesse, nor with your exercise so; easienesse, As so, your fellow and stiend Philautus, wee are bound to him, so, he would oftentimes see us, but stoome ease with us, which made us thinke that hee cared more so, our companie then our meate.

Euphues as one that knew his good, answered her in this wile. faire Ladie, it were bulgemelie to strewe greene rushes for his comming, whose copanie is not worth a straw, or to account him a stranger, whose bolones hath been strange to all those of knewe

ki

His

foli

Ch

tun

3 m fita

thre

uin

him to be a ftranger.

The small ability in mee to require, compared with the great cheere A received, might happily make me refrayne, which is contrarie to your confecture: Meither was I ever sobuled in any waightie affaires, which I accorated not as lost time, in respect of perercise I alwates found in your company, which maket me thinks that your latter objection proceeded rather to convince me so, a Tremant, then to manifest a truth.

As for the Availes you promise me, I can be cotent with beefe, and for the questions, they must bee easte, else hall I not answere and so them, for my wie will shewe with what grotte oper I have beene brought opela that effecting my rade replies with my bale birth, you will thinke that mean e cheere will serve me, and reasonable questions deceive mee: so that I shall neither since fault for my repast, not fauour for my reasons. Philautus indeed taketh as much delight in good company, as in good Cates, who shall answere for bimselfes with that Philautus says:

Eruly Camilla, where I thinke my felfe welcome, I loue to bee bolv, and when my Comacke is filled, I care for no meate: so that I hope you will not blame me, if I come often and eace little. I boe not blame you by my faith (quoth Camilla) you millake me, for the aftner you come; the better welcome: a the less you eate, the more is sauch.

Spuch talke palled, which being onely as it were a repetition of former things, I omit as superfluous; but this I must note, that Camilla earnestly bessed Surius to be acquainted with Euphues, who very willing stee accomplished her request, westing Euphues for the good report he han heard of him, that he mould bee as bolde with him as with any one in England. Euphues humbly spening his duty, promised also as occasion should serve to trie him.

It now grew toward supper time, when the Table being conered, and p meat served in, Lavy Alavia placed Surius over againste Camilla, and Philaucus nept mistresse Francis, the tooke Euphucs and the rest, and placed them in such owner as their thought best.
What cheere they had I know not, what talke they beed I hero not: but supper being ended, they sate still, the Lady Flavia speaking as followeth and and the supper set of the same of the sam

is 111

30

at

n-np

ecs

me

3m

ele,

ere

m,

Centlemen & Gentlewomen, these Lenten enenings be long, Cand a chame it were to goe to bed: cold they are, therefore folly it were to walke abroade: to play at Cards is common, at Chesse tevious; at Dice unseemely, with Christmas games untimely. In my opinion therefore, to palle away these long nights, A would have some passime that might be pleasat, but not unpositable :rare, but not without reasonings that wee all accounte the enening well pertobe it never so long which otherwise would be be tenious, were innever to thost. Surius the bell in the companie, and therefore bell worthy to answere, and the wifelt, and therefore bell able replied in this manner.

Thosas the cale now flanbeth, there can be nothing either more agreeable to my honor, or these Gentlewomens velices, then to vie some viscourse, alwell to redue olde traditions, which have been e beretofore vien, as to increase friendship, which bath been by the meanes of certains once persons befaced. Eustie one gane his consent with Surius, reelving the choice of that nights passime, to the discretion of the Lady Flania, who thus proposed her minde.

Pour talke Surius hall bee to vilpute with Camilla, and choose pour owne argument: Philautus shill argue with Aptitrelle Frauncis: Marrius with my selfe. And all having finished their discourses, Euphues shall bee as Judge, who hath done best, and whatsoever he shall allot either for reward to the worthiest, or for penance byto the morth, shall be presently accomplished. This liked them all exceedingly: And thus Surius with a good grace and pleasant speech, began to enter the lists with Camilla.

Faire Ladie, you know I flatter not, I have read that the fling of an Alpe were uncurable, had not nature given them bimme eyes, and the beauticals woman no lesse intectious, had not nature bestowed on them gentle harts: which maketh mee ground my reason upon this common place, that beautifull women are ever mercifull, if mercifull, vertuous, if vertuous, constant, if constant, though no more then Goddes, yet no lesse then Saints: all these things granted, I bree mp question without condition.

If Camilla, one wounded with your beauty (for onver that name a comprehend all other vertues) thould fue to open his affection, ferue to try it, and drive you to so narrow a point, that were you never so incredulous, be should produc it, yea, so far to be from substantians beceive, that you would confelle be were cleave from difficult, what answer would you make if you gave your consent, or what excuse if you beny your curteste?

Gamilla, who belired nothing moze then to be queltioning with

Suging with a imodest countenance, yet fame in hat hathfull (inhits about more commendation to her fper the their difference) replies to the smanner, and a market of the old of the countenance and the counter of the reforer the million of a manifelona, for that mature might be fair to T Dough there be no caple, poble Genelema, to fulnect an infury cre a good furn bath been received; per is it wifenometo be carefull tohat antimere be made tobere the quellion in vifficulors baue beard that the Costolle in India, when the Sunnefhineth. finimmeth abone the mater with her back, o being velighten to the faire weather, forgettech ber felf, untill the beat of the Soun fo barben ber the charite connoc finhe thien the would, to ber the is caught. And fo may it fare with me, that in this good company vilplaving mymind, having mote regard to my velight in calking, then to the cares of the bearers, I forget what I fpeak, and to be taken in fomerhing, the which I wonto not peter, which happily the itching cares of soung Gentlemen moulo fo canuality that when I would callit im I cannot and fo be caught with the Dostoile, when I mould not. Therefore if any thing be fpaken egther imipares of buintile, Tam to crane parbon for both: bauing buta weaks memory, and a loorle wit, which you cannot beny me a for that me fay momen are to be bonne withall, if they offend against their wiles not much to ber blamen if they trip with their wile, the one proceeding afforgerfulnelle, the other of their naturall weaknest Buttothe mattet and not for ald need ame indnes

I de invesentes (which Governmen hote limple tets) thoule inthingle any with belier, then thoule I characterize, that either her were inflamed with hub, eacher then love (for that bein incured by presouncement, not inquiving af imprecibitions) or slup I gave lone occasion of lightness, breause he gathereth a hope to speed, wherehe never have the harres speaks. But if at the last I should precedent have been acted more topenalize gold in the strangible at him tip proceedes from a which has please from a most the archaracters than both I either attimet his love with the inglish meanthant his is devention. So all hope thirs you to the nice of the humbar these speeding. So all hope thirs you to the individual translations. So see the strain men have reason to the soft beautiff as the attimeters.

35

u,

16-

H-

02 ith

ius

tions par Debermile were mix bound to furly an incommensories, that who foever ferned by, we show no such an incommensories, that who foever served by, we show an spece this such incommensories, respect we missisk his conditions, so that nature might be said to send the me by, for others human, not so contains appealed. Where in to some weeks of the hought very correctual bursts of another most served by and send some of any. I think it reason to believe the hought were the hought to me to be selected to some as that also some inharm contained to the first where is some and the source of the sourc

To Stop, if the Costolle you frenke of in India , were as contilled In finimming, as you are in freaking he would refthe feare the heat of the fun not the win of the Fifter. Butthat excell was brought in tat her to them what you could far their to craus par! bon lord baryon have fato. Bustwonvan were las divert & naget But bat pour beauty in I wil vor beere offqute; leaff etchet pour mobel eares thous glow to beare pour unin philles, of my friett congue trip in being cucious to pour perfection; to profit Francis not commend fufficiently. I will not ve ale continually to materi at. Poutpanter (mone thing outofthelung) where you fur that timule are inflamet with the konintenance, morenquiting of the conditions , when this polition was before grounded that there mas none beautiful, but the mas allo merciful, and fo brating by the face of her beauty, all other Worall verties; for we one thing being touched with the Landstone, bratherfingston, and that this fellow, til tecome to a thaine, fo til aby indued with prairie put leth on curteffe to outselle, merele, and one ver the linker it folle to pother, butill there be water perfection? ... the pille nother so sine? es touching your owne lightnelle pownish not hikagine ie ligoeverh in f harrolanamby your looklybut t pon tp thet berregue innet feerpet ib laborqueth plain key that the cleaf the man first the Manticol the moutanthe white, which thou

neth

Eura

weth, being the patient, not the agent; byon triall pou confelle pas monto eruft, but what eriall you'require you conceale, which makes meto inspect, that either you would have a triall without meane, or mithout enveither not to be fullnines being impollible. o) not to be finified being infinite. Wiberein you would baue one runne in a Circle, where there is no way out, or build in the appe, wherethere to no meanes both, and of 187 not another, work Chis tetal, Camille, mat be Afret to narrote points, leaffin leeking to teie pour louer like a Jennet , pou tice bim like a Nave. Then pou require this libercle mbich trulie I cannoe vente you) y you may baue the choice, nimel torefule as the ma hath to offer; requiring by that reason forme qualities in the person you in beflow your love on : presentritle hising what properties either pleafe you belt, of like women well: moerin againe you monue a poubt, whether perfonage, or wealth, or wit, or all, ace to be requirenels that what with the close trial of his faith, and the fubtil willing of his qualities, you make either your louer fo boile, that fopfaith De muit be made all of truth.og to exquittee, that for th be mult be framen in entire to bieb lett be your opinion, the be tie pau have wil be micheren before pou be wended, and pour wooers good old Gentlemen, befoge thep be fperbers.

Camilla not permitting Surius to leape ouer the benge, which the fee force heep him in, with a fmilling countenance Caped him there is to be occount at a punite, ich char liges camaramina aid: the up being the property of the constant of the party of the confidence of the conf

7f your policion be graunted, that where beauty is, there is also ighe pou aone, char where a faire flo perio, there me, which both repugnant it is to dur common tre is none but impirerb, and how conteate the pther is to truth there is none but feet b. Maby then was you not let potenes big for a quie, which is as agreeable to reason, that Rodophe being beautiful (if a gaod complex incomplaire favour, he sepmen beogete.) man also berranes a chat hais extelling, may also pour a pictus. Phone surpussing them both in beautie, man-also currents above tests a reason amongst pour appilos opperas battelle themaine, followeth the composition of the bavie: hain crue in arguing is may be I know mot bow faile in exiall it Suns is.

in who knowell hote constant parel tenture of the phied of inand entry, thought the anichles workether any bidge contrary to be faite the water wall be unto the public being white phiese ech flack tines of relembling the tall creed in the which gitnere many to relembe expert the bodow years the inferential to both their feature to the angle of the contrary.

j?ow, whereas you let downe, that lone commeth nor from the eyes althe moman, due from the glances of the man dunberior rection be to spoken) it is as far from the truth, as the bear from he to a from we can be to spoken) it is as far from the truth, as the bear from he to a from were a Lady blinds, in what can she be brantifulled to mind be, in what analised har microphen as the epechach ever been stough rope pearle of the face; and the conquesthe Andrews property barts. At ther were such a Lady in this company Surjection wink with both her eyes, when you should have ber see your and rous looks, or be no blad of her conque, when you would have her answers to your questions. It cannot think, he either her vertuous conditions, or her whice were complexion, could mpace you to have a show with surjection when you contained the vertuous conditions on her whice were complexion, could mpace you to work when you will surject to work see to some see it, and speaking what you would not see it, and see to one see it is done are districted south and anies that have no stes, when there is no districted tome them, if he himself have even spore realish there is to woos one that is bumbe, for that thee cannot being pour fute: and pet having eares to heare, thee may alwell give an antimer with a ligne, as a fentence. But to the purpose and a light with a light as a fentence. But to the purpose and a light and a light with a light as a fentence. But to the purpose and a light Unite commech not from him that taket his hom the part pitonet; elle must be cake his love uponne vainse, and chemis is tuit, of thinks himselsen he cause, and chemis is no love When must pour conclude thus stehere be not in women the breasts, they are soots to trust men that praise them; if the engine he such empthed are not men wife to acrogate is to themselven you is plained and and

A fe in the spe of the moment that is materal Avantaus, the hart of the innerthal is trainen of Juonianu Jaminos thak journal field spatial for the Avantaus of the feether perform anniether of the section, that many mentaus been entaughen against their wills with long

EP !

Deci

sála:

sere eite Camilla, that be polime night dim si niagentente comi son, medicale en de enistade production de comitante en de en de en de son son, des completation de comitade de succession de la electrical de en
The dipulicane you brought in of the anoth, first marking right to hearter wherefore I multifloored hat the discrepantation broad. For all the specification is the prenty, and heart who indicates the specification may be predicted in Cupics between that the indicates the indicates the specification and three flority may the the specification of the property of the property of the specification is the specific the specific the specific the specific the specific the specific that the specific the specific the specific that the spe eyes, not those thus incorposed the research of offs) and note, each eyes, not those thing things incorposed there is desired things things in the policy of The qualities that appropriate of the party and to the continuous and the personal process of the personal process of the personal process of the personal process of the configuration of the personal process of the persona

Euplynes and his England.

Tiperceine Camilla, that be pour cloth mouer to boult will calse to the rest to the calse to the calse to the calse to the calse of the

This property from airfluere, that beautie may him faire tears and able are not ponent that allocate and able are not ponent that have plated by a take an anna perfection; and the whole foll the continue plated by a take permanent and an allocate and able to perfect and a perfect and the perfect and an appropriate and the analysis are the perfect and the perfect and a perfect a Confp ipathe Consiliating total mas bluck, and therefore it confu take no at his colour, and therefore a value of their species in value evalue canelly and op the malop Pair dutous of their species programs be of the last boundered and bring duty as, belto de to Programs be foully that learthing to a mand. I gather a Camacke 403 letting Exint to ather grainly plicings may letter must be content, that of the toogs poore bely partence; which by the match the inorties to be harrishe but a mack the mineral to perfect to be the content.

of the world poore bely patience: which by to much the moreis to be bearing by how much thempipate in partope and a antifum and of the static transfer thempipate in partope and a antifum and of the static transfer thempipate in partope and appearance him, saying the static transfer from breaks pilly incorpered, lead was have not thing to paths, by hours your moreis paths and the part realists, and leave by no time, and take part realists, and leave by no time, and take part realists, and leave by no time, and take part realists and leave by the static transfer the construction and the static transfer the partope by the paths and the static transfer the static transfer to be specified and the static began in this manner to greate algorithm that from the static are, they realists at a smill to make a static to the static transfer to the static are, they realists at a smill to make a static transfer to the static transfer to the static transfer transfer to the static transfer transfer t

E #

that have more peeres, to have we talke

olle

CU

the chia

this 1

CO HOLD

to best

to mel

that en

MADE

9:001

Empliyes and his England

talke by the affectionisting have habitue by sh In this therefore I mouth kingto ntent for Women to home futh places for men to pune astended and ping to sectors in confide can not be collerable) and ping to sectors in permission curitiperation four, and the figur, broken the . They than fe are. amelies, they that frant in bread affer to ought not they that wold not be inch companied of land homes congress mbend thep detabl bridge from the same or latter chem to eat their nteat by a causic that freshablacquis gads Meshan the place of petilenne for fear of intent Catharities beamle of vilcales the light of the Be trap be in love tobich in more bitten fic theeyenthat deale our gentry A cutour throates? If we be beedie to come where allal to de flung, Politus, payme to em fall fire titles definite between sicher ingie repugnant last af obje sicher ingie repugnant last af obje to feether just not though them, despite the manay Dischant furbe enfrei chingfunne,twhen we may fleep to al from fancy cofeehr aften laue, which in ar hiter with Acondominatorial to be affinishen bind be this discourse, for the Supin and Good meh nedeup ministration into to Kouth & pen te beset bie Wifatoer, but met 3:001

Bushard andhis England

ipilciantle, panimei brito year otalina proofe, be beligieren & facilies. ber tebe requilira that Gentleme Could among Louers icis ofur-Repa (a than Her fieme, nevelfante lane, away will meeting for feare of the the fire of bate. Thet is greater. effection. on sloud and again to the top that the coinpany haulo be barren, her biarteen abudition everly farfery of luffer them to eat their meat by a canble that have loggetes ! Co from one I tone, wols with me more contract, to the will her I tone her, wolvant kinnte velive, kone lien be the cares, by the repopose good conditions; by the ambitte coducenance, wylch is the caute efferience faw yand fechesholashel entour throacer? If we be pecole to come where iofoure protoning south deepend wils, resta a fallace troope , fory Serie extpacketel tacetheepesof: Acia e there then the company of magnetic aren to lone, and being refuted band a Lershie ter with for a Late that des beintiful sotichal poil episteidhe deitestrament be of thomself-conquity of Betafree Louis grand beginnen ther politions amountalisticistics plans roote roote of Rubarbe, which being full of choler, purgeth choler, of of the Scorpions fring, who being full of poplon, is a remevie for poplon. But this I conclude, that to barte one that is in love of p company of his Ladie, maketh him rather mad then mortified, for him to refraine y never knew love, is either to suspect him of follie without caule, or the next may for him to fall into folly whe he knoweds the cause.

A Louer is like the hearde Helitropium, which alwaies inclyneth to that place where the Sunne idineth, and bring deprined of the Sunne, deth. For as Lunaris bearbe, as long as the Poone inareth, dringerh loorth leaves, and in the waning chaketh them off: to a Louer while he is in the companie of his Ladie, where al inies increase, brieveth many pleasant conceits, but banished from the light of his Pictuelle, where at mirch decreaseth, either lineth in melancholie,oz bieth with belperation.

The Lable Flama, weaking in his rast proceeded in this maner. Cruely Marrius, I have not thought that as yet your Colees couth stuck in your mouth, or that sooid a tremant in lone, could bether to tentember his lesson. Don leeme not to inferre that it is requilize they should meete, but being in love, that it is convenient, least falling into a madde moode, they pine in their owne peeuthnesse. They then let it follow, that the viunkato which surfecteth with thine, he alwaies quasting, because he liketh it, or the Epicure, which glutteth himself with meat, he ever earing, for that it contented him, not seeking at any time the meanes to revelle their vices, but to renue them. But it fareth with the Louer as it both with him that poureth in much thine, who is ever more thirste then be that drinketh moderally, for having once taken the velights of love, her belieth the thing most y burteth him most, not laying a platster to the wound, but a corasive.

Bellves, I am of this minde, that if it be dangerous to lay flare to the are, fair to the eies, Sulphure to the note, that then it cannot bee but perflous, to let one Louer come in the prefence of the other. Surius overhearing the Laby, and feeing her is earnell, atthough he were more earnell in his lute to Camilla, cut her off to thele words.

13

į,

13

m

43 的眼睛睛

ch.

feit

ich

the

t De

of

båt

9700

Bood Paname gine me leane either to bepart or to fpeake, for in truth you gall mee moze with thefe tearmes then you wiffe, in feeming to inueigh fobitterly against p meeting of louers, which is the onely marrow of loue: and though I boubt not but & Mare tius is fufficiently armed to aunimere you, pet mould I not have thole realons refelled, which I loath to have repeated. It may bee you beter them not of malice you beare to lone, but only to moue controuerle, where there is no queftion : for if you entry to have Louers meete, why bid you graunt vs?if allow it, why feeke pout to leverate ba?

The good Labie could not refraine from laugbter . when thee fam Surius fo angrie, who in the mibit of bis owne cale was troubled with bers, to boin the thus againe aufwereb.

I crie pou mercie Bentleman, I bat not thought to have catche ed pon when I fife to; another: but I percetue now, o with one Beane it is ealle to catch tino Bingione, with one baite to paus biners bites. I lee that others may guelle where the fone mings belides bim that weares it.

Dabame quoth Surius, pour baue caught a Frogge,if Thernot beceived, and therefore as good it were not to burt him, as not to eace him: but if al this while pour Laviffip angled to baue a bite at a Louer, you hould have bled no bitter medicines, but pleafant baites.

I cannot cell, antwered Flauia, whether my batte were bittet or not, but fare I am I baue the fift by the gill that both me good.

Camilla not willing to be fitent, put in her Tpoake as the chought in the belt wheele, and began inthis manner. Lavie, pour cun ning may becrine you in filbing with an angle , therefore to carch bim you would have, you were bear to ple a gret.

A Met quoth Flauia, I need none, for mpfich playeth, in a fette alreadie. With that Surins began to winch, replying imprematlie. So both manie a fift good Labie, that flippeth but, when the ficher chinketh him fall in and it map be, that richer pour fret too meake to hole him at your hand foo met.

A wet band quoth Flauia, will bolbe a vew Berring. 3. quoth Surius, but Celes are no Derrings. But Lotters are, fato Planta, Surius not willing to baue the graffe momen, whereof be meant to make his Dap, began thus to conclube. Bood Mabaine frane f

m

th

to 20

fau

Ph

wit

Ime

off fishing for this time, and though it be Lent, rather break a fla-

I am content quoth Plauia, rather to fast for once, then to want a pleasure for ever: pet Surius betwirt be two I wil at large prove, that there is nothing in love more benemous then meeting, which filleth the minde with griefe, and the body with diseases: for baning the one, he cannot faile of the other. But now Philaurus, and Meece Frauncis, lince I am cut off, begin you, but be short, because the time is short, and that I was more short then I would.

Frauncis, who was ever of wit quicke, and of nature pleafant, feeing Philautus all this while to bee in his bumps, began thus to play with bim.

Gentleman, either you are muling who hall bee your fecond Wife, of who thall father pour first Chilve, elle would pou not all this while hang your bead, neither attending to the biscourses that you have beard, noz regarding the companie pou are in:02 it may be (which of both confectures is likelieft) p bearing fo much talke of loue, you are either brinen to the remembrance of the 3talian Lavies which once you ferued, or els to the feruice of thole in England, which you have fince your comming feene: or as Andromache whenfoener the faw the Tombe of Hector, could not reframe from weeping, or as Laodomia could never behold the victure of Protefilaus in Mare, but the alwaies faintes : So louers, whenloeuer they view the image of their Lavies, though not the Same Cubitance, pet the Amilitude in Cadowe, they are fo benummed in their ioints, and fo bereft of their wits, that they have netther the power to move their bodies to thew life, nor their thanes to make antwere: To that I thinking, that with your other fentes you had alfo loft your fmelling , thought rather to bee a Thome, whole point might make pouteele fomewhat, then a violet, whole fauour could caufe you to fmell nothing.

Philautus per teining this Gentlewoman lo plealantlie vilpoled, with a metrie countenance and quicke wit, began to make aun-

Iwere in this manner.

Bond's History

th at

ue

off

Gentlewoman, to flubie for a second wife before I knowe my first, were to resemble the good hulwife in Naples, who cooke thought thought to bring forth ber chickens, before the had hennes to lay egs; and to mule who thould father my first childe, were to doubt when the Cow is mine, who should owe the calle. But I wil neyther be so halfy to beat my brain about two wines, before I know where to get one, nor so leasons to mistrust her sidelity when I have one.

Touching the view of Lavies, or the remembrance of my lone, mee thinketh it should rather sharpethe point in mee, then abate the edge. Hy senses are not lost, though my labour be, and therfore my good violet, prick him not forward with sharpnes, whom thou shouldest rather comfort with saures. But to put you out of bouls, that my with were not all this thirle a wooll-gathering, I was debating with my selfe, whether in lone it were better to be constant, be wraping all the counsailes, or secrete being ready energy hours to slinch and so many reasons came to construe either, that I could not be refolued in any.

To be conflant, what thing more requilite in love, when it that al water begreene like the June though the fun parch it that that! ener be bard like the true Diamoun, though the Dammer beat if: that Ril groweth with the good Hine though the knife cut it. Co-Cancy to like onto the Storke, who, whereforeer thee flie, commeth into no neall but berowne : or the Lapwing, whom nothing can brine from her poung ones bur Death. But to reneale the lecrets of love, the countailes, the conclutions: what greater beluite to his Lavy or more hameful discredite to himself can be imagined when there thall no letter palle, but it thall bee bifclofed , no talke betered, but it that be againe repeated, nothing sone, but it thall be reuealed. Which when I confibered, mee chought it better to have one that Gould be fecrete, though fickle, then a blab. though constant. for what is there in the world, that more beliebzeth a Louerthen lecrecy, which is bothe of feare, without lufpicion free from enute : the onely bope a woman hath to builbe both her honour and boneffie boon.

The congue of a Louer hould be like the point in a Dial, which though it goe, none can fee it going, or a poung Tree, which though it grow, none can perceive it growing, having alwaies be from in his mouth which the Cranes vie when they fly over the mountaines,

fa

m

tr

bo

hi

ttr

net

in L

wb!

wit of ti

eth

ned

Diff

mountaines, frad they make a noile but to efteeme of his Cany, to make ber our roungh in thange to; energiging though hee bewrap north thing that cutterbebe bart in peeces of a true and contrant fouet: which veepely weighing with my felt. I preferred bim that wold neuer remoue though be reneale all, befoze bim that would conceale att and ever be filbing : thus watting too and fro I appeale to you my good watet whether in laue is moze required fetretie

Frauncis with her accustomable botones, pet moventy, erpiped as followeth. Dentleman, if I wonto alke you weether in the making of a good line je pion mere moje to be required or there, the I am that pour wonto antwere that both were necellary. Ot if I haulo be to curious co vemano, whether in a tale tolo co pour Laote, vilpolition or invention be moll convenient . Trannor thinke but you would ingge them both etpedient. For as one meetall is to betempered with another in fathioning agood blave, least epther beeing allof freele, it quickip breake, or att of prope it never cut: to fareth it in speech, which if it be not seasone wat well with mit to moue velight, as with Arre to manifell cunning, there is no eloquence: and in no other manner fanbert it with loue : for to be lecrete and not conffant, or conffant and not fecrete, were to buffy a boule of moster wirbout Hones , by a wall of Hones would hiver. There is no lively preture of anone with one colour, no cortoin mage wrought with one toole no perfect mulick plages with one thring, and monlock thou have love the paterne of eternitie colored either with contrancie alone, of onely legrecie

There muft in eurep Triangle bet thie lines, the firit beginneth, the fecond augmenteth, the chito concludeth it a figure. So in loue three pertues; affection, which praweth the beart, fecrecy, which increases the boye, constance, which flashes the worke: without any of thele rules there can bee no triangle, without any of thefe vertues, no tone.

b

b

There is no mant bar runneth with one lenge, no Bird that fieth with one wing, no love that latteth with one lim. Love is likened to the Emerano, which cracketh rather then colenteth to any billopatrie and can there bee any greater villand, then being le2652 erete, not to be conflant, or being conflant, not to be fecrete. But it falleth out with those that he conflant and yet full of babble, as it both with the Serpent faculus, and the Cliper, who burst with their owne brood, and these are to ne with their owne tongues.

It is no question Philaurus, to alke which is best, when beeing not ioined, there is never a good. If thou make a question where there is no boods, thou most take an answere where there is no reason. Why then also post thou not enquire, whether it were better for a Boyle to want his soze-legs or his hinder, when having not all, he cannot travaile. Why art thou not inquisitive whether it were more convenient sor the Wirastlers in the games of Olimpia to be without armes, or without seete: or for Arees to want rootes, or lacke tops, when either is impossible. There is no true Loner, believe mee Philaurus, sense tesseth me so, not triall, that hath not saith, secrecie, and constancte. If thou want eyther, it is suff, not soue; and that thou has not them al, thy prosound question assured mee; which if thou didded aske to trie my wit, thou thoughtest me very dull, if to resolve thy selse of a doubt, I cannot thinke thee very that pe

Philautus that perceived ber to be fo tharpe, thought once againe like a Colbettione to make her tharper, and in these mostes returned his antmere.

App sweet Clivies, you are not bulike but othose who having gotten the start in a race, thinks none too neers their becles because they be formost for having the tale in your mouth, you imagine it is all truth, and that none can controle it.

Frauncis, who was very much buwilling to heare him goe forward in to fond an argument, cut him off before he thould come to his conclution, in this manner.

Gentleman, the fatter pour runne after me, the farther pour are from me: therefore I wold with pour to take beene, that in sce-king to trike at my beeles, you trip not by your own. Dou would faine with your wit cast a white spon blacke, wherein you are not bulke unto chose that seeing their shadow very short in the Sun, think to touch their head with their beele, and putting sorth their legge, are surther from it then when they stood still. In my opini-

OR

11

fl

th

fo

lor

[w lan

D E

mp

Pou

Bs 1

Bui

that eth a

that

Diini

too .f

fo chi

courf

fallo

tpa2

on it were better to ut on the ground with a fiftle eale, then to rife and fall with great banger.

Philantus being in a mage to what ende this talke thould tent. thought that either Camilla bab mabe ber printe to bis laue, or p thee meant by fulpicion to incrap bim theretore meaning to leave his former quellion, and to antwere per fpeech, proceeped thas.

M Idrede Frauncis, pou relemble in your fayings the mainte Tamantes,in whose pictures there was euer moze onnerfoon, then painted: for with a glole you teente to thavow that, which in colours you will not thew. It though be my violet enarror fauci I runne after you, the tarther I would be from you. parelle that either you have wings then to your bestes, of Il bornes think tuto inine. The last bogge oftentimes carebeth the wate, though the sleetest turne him: the slowe finalle climethed the Lower at last, though the swife wallow mount it the factor winners the goale sometimes, though the lightest be never it. In honeing I hav as leeve stand at receite, as at the booking! in running rather indure long with an eafle aumble, then leaut of being out of wind with a fong with an eaue aunible, then a run as l'hippoinenes bis with Allanca, who was fait in the courle, but first at the Crownes So that I guelle that women either are eaterd bedur thepper of theine my felt: for in letting your courte by arising at pout there perfes As for my thavowe, I never goe about to reat git, but when the Sunne is at the highest, for then is my have we distributed. It that it is not vittepit to touch my be an with my beete when it lyeth almost unver my beete. eth almost bnoer my beele.

Pou lap it is bercet to fit fitt! theit to arile and fait: die I lay, be that never climeth for feare offalling, is like but o bim that wever top dippery wheron I tunne that I mun needen fatt ur my trete fo chill chat I mutt peeves tounver it maybe I will change mp courfe heereafter, but I greane the note nowe, for I hav rather fall ont of a lowe window to the ground, then bang in the mittiday

e

2

2-

D ot n, ir

ıi-MO

Frauncis.

Frauncis, who cooke malittle pleafure to beare Philaurus, began to come on roundly in thele tearmes.

TE is a figne Gentleman that pour footmanibip is better then Pout Momacke: for unatfoeuer you fap, me chinketh you had ra-ther bee belp in a flip, fben let flip, wherein you relemble the graybound, that leeing bis game, teapert bpon him p holbeth bim, not running after that he is belo for or the Dawke, which being cast off at a Barcringe, taketh a frant toppine ber feathers, when thee hald fake her flight. For le leemeth pon beare good wil to game pour causor play at .03 mil not .02 pars not wheren you imitate the car charles octo the motife to initial the milk-pan: for A perceive hat sou let the pare goe by and bout the Babger.

Phismus altouist at this Greech, knew not which way to frame the antiper. What is altouist at this Greech, knew not which way to frame the antiper.

to yet change has some mastites on Camilla; but to tio her of ful-nicios though lary ever Camilla Moule conceine any inkling, hee player that any profession in the manner.

Tullemoinan vou miliake me bete much, tot I have been betquoth Frauncis, gou cannot tell which totallote, one runneth lo fall pour bull neperfatch berathe ather in to at the faunt , you can tieler finde har and sell bi. Duelirous to fleepe, ox loth these testes the Land Flangs what her helirous to fleepe, ox loth these testes those he too broad, as manerator commanded them both to frenke his milling Euphues as amper inchese matters, briefly to speake his milling Euphues as amper inchese matters, briefly to speake his milling Euphues as amper inchese matters, briefly to speake his milling Cample and Philautus are notible pet all attentive to beare Euphues, alwell to) the expectation they hab of his wit, as to know & buitt of his bilcouries:

20

1101

Caurcis,

who thus began the conclusion of all their speeches dance change

It was a lain amongs the Perfians that the Pulician Gold not funge the Dainter, nor any one meddle in that hanoy craft wherin be was not perfect: which makethme maruaile (good Davam) p you hold appoint him an omper in loue, who never pet had ikill in his lawes. For although & feemed to confent by my Alence, before I kne webe argument whereof you wold dispute yet hearing nothing but realons for love, I must either call backe my promile, 02 call in your vilcourles a better it were in my opinion, not to bane pour realous concluses chen to baue chem confutes. But fure 3 am, that neither a gron excule wil ferue where authopitie is rigo-rous, not a bab que beheare where necessity compelleth. But least I be longer in breaking a web, then the Spider is in weaning it, your partames obtaines, if I offend in Charpnes, and your pattence granteb, if moleft in length, I thus begin to conclube againfl pou all not an one fingular in his owne concert, but to betrieb by pour Surius hoginacth with lone, which proceedeth by beauty baver the which he consederate all other pertues). Laby Flavia moueth a question, whether the mercing of loners he colerable. Philautus commet his mith two brackes in his hand, as though there were mer af that exce. alking whether constacy or lecrecy be paulish greathold there back been whathould prove most to her bin bain my opinion, there is none good, But luch is f uch hit thinketh nothing worthy either of commennation or conference, but only lone, wheref they fowe much a reap licele, wherein they fremont agains nothing, whereby they run into Danget before then will a revent their vefires before they would. I do not bil commerce bie boueff affection of is grounded byon verducias the mean but discontinue fancy which in builded byon full, as an extremity: and luk 3 mult terme that, which is begun in an batte gended in a minute sthoughound after our age, where Levice are constructed the contract for the contra peratipus ameniciachus imiliting m'escelle, it biceveth mannes.

9,0

112

CS C£. his tus

eres: uho 12652

quellion monly

monly by unhance be closed hold be ventiled. In and of that mind, that where youth are given to fourthe invanit hould be removed. For as the earth wherein the mines of flace and give is biven, are profitable to no other things in the table, to the heart wherein love is harborevereivery no other feet but affection. Lovers feet not those things which are most profitable, but intelligentant, refembling those that make given your about the finite flatter, refembling those that make given your about the finite flatter, and being once the affection by fairly beine, they all water bave the vileale, not on the wind the world water in the first once of the latter, and being once in the first once of the latter, as they would produce a arming to high the period in her fines latter, as they would produce to fines. Critical is it possesses where a later, as they would produce to fines. Critical is it possesses where information before the state of the later a case, of or the complete when beautiful to the finite interest on a resister of to take a case, of an about to finite think the finite of the state of the state of the later of the later of the later when the finite of the finite with a sea to fine the finite of the finite of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the finite of the period of the finite of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the finite of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the finite of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the finite of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the state of the interest of the period of the st neither know the means to come up it, not the and the and theres? That to fet would be and out the tening the said will and theres? But to fet would be a moverace fetted potential of the the parforms as as entempted talker of the infection to provide the street of the parform and office in supplied and the construction to the construction of th

Leguesin à moment pat times communication ne le fingert misses sité lieu to besto le fermence fassifiquation : one at sie inject de la financia de che moment de che momen autilion, inhether loudcoine from the man of the moman, it is man nifelt that it beginneth in both, elle can it not end in both.

To the Ladie Flavias bemand concerning company, it is requifices bep hould meete, dithough they be hindred by biners means, yet it is impossible butchatthey will meeter are not lade means,

pailethlittle, antileacete without conflancie profiteth leffe.

Sous have I goo Parami, according to my limple this in lone, for down may be fund only for many at your Lapidline pleasured to the form the form the contest of the property of the form the cornect of the first and the first of the form the cornect of the first of the form of the form of the first of the form of the form of the first of the firs feare to offend our eares of to be the appoint of the picker you leave to offend our eares of to be the appoint of the follies one may early perceive that you have been of late in the Painters (hop, by the colours that flicke in pour coates but at this time I will vice mothing, though Afufvect formembas. The received a reason of the second of the sec

Sering game Suplices than he galloming his in agement in the perferious love especializate chias has be mouth have a woman if the were faithfull, to be also lealous, in his way as needlary to be required in character with a little of the characters.

penninen inchames maltanciael que aldmallia alliene de moulo de Camilla imiliag la inchas la papas man perçiued, for bet moulo bane la inchas men forte bane bean iralansiano per chas hap been but imperficament for they are neuro other mile aband la dande la anti-

Philaurus thinking Camilla to ble fueb speech togiro him for that all that night be visined her with a suspicious eie answered, that icalouse in a man than to be parbonen, because there is no difference in the looke of a Loues that can bissinguish a jealous eye from a louing the diam it as a such as a such as all the transport

Frauncis, who thought ber part not to be the least, said, that in al things Euphues spake Dospell, saving inchat he bound a woman to partience, which was comeke them fooles.

Thus every one gave his perdit, and to with thanks to the Lady Flavis, they all tooks their leave for that night. Swins went to his longing. Euphues of Philamunto theirs. Camilla accompanied with her woman and her maiting maire, departed to her home, whom I meane to bring to her Chamber, leaving all the rest to their rest. Camilla no some had entred her Chamber, but shee heganne in trange tearmes to beter this trange talether boote being thut, & ber Chamber voiceber in the allegand mit tours.

3 2

9119

Grange

A D Camilla ,ab weetched wench Camilla, I perceine now , that when the Dop growert bigh it muft bane a pole, who the Juy fpreabeth it eleauech soebe flint holerwiche vint ellert jis brameth about the Elme, when Wirgins mute in peaces, thep followe that Which belouguth to their apperices, loue, loue Dea loue Camilla, b force wherefetou knowell not, a pet and endure the fury. Where is that precious hear be Panace, which curethall utleatestor that bearb Nepenthe, that procureth all belights? 100, no, Camilla, loue is not to becuren by hear he mhichcommet b by fance, neither ta platters take away the griefe which is grown to great by pet-Challons. For as p flone Draconites can by no meanes be pulifice, buleffe the Lapivary burneit:forbe minve of Camilla, can bono means be cured ercept Surius ente te d fee chat laine is not butthe bito the fone Pantara, which sommethat acher fones beet bepitetier to beaup, having in te the three roots which they accrebite to Pulichimitth, melanchalpimanner: balla ad or iff

th

th

1

me

E

att

fro

th

In

COL

I but Camilla viflemble thy lone, though it hopten the life, los better it were to die wish griefe, che line with Came. The fpunge to full of water, per to is mostione, the bear a diton, though it bee wet,looketh alwaies byp, o wife Loues bribe neuer fo much toy menten, behaueth ber felfe as though the were not touthen. 3, but fire cannot be hivoen in the flate without broke, not mulke in the bofome without (mel, no) loue in the breatt wont fuspicion tuby then confelle the loue co Surius, Carrilla, who is ready to affic before thou grant. But it fareth in loue, as it both with the roote of the Reeve, which being pur ther the Frenche, taketh away all bis firength: and likewifethe cout of the Fearin put to the Meeb, veprineth it of all bis force: to the lookes of Surius having taken all freedome from the eyes of Camilla, it may be pglances of Camilla have bereauer Surius of his liberty: which if it were to, how happy Conlock thou be and that it is lo, why thoulvelt thou not hope? T. but Surius is noble. 3, but loueregarneth no birth. 3, but his friebs will not confent. I, but loue knoweth no kindes. I, but he is not willing to love, not thou worthy to be woord. I. but love maketh the the prondest to stope and to court the passell. I shall all and the court to knock mhichibe bearing, left offchat; which all you Genelewomen would giante bear, for no bould the beterminen to make a long Sernion bat not the been interrupten. Bot by the preamble you may quelle to bobat purpatethe briff tente be Chia A note, that they that are most wife, most wirthous, most innutifull, are not free from the impersions of fapopiles who would have thought. & Camilla who fremen to pilbain tone, hoult fo loonetreentanglev. But as the freichteft wands are to be bent whenthey be final, fo the precifeft Citrgins are to be wonne luben thep bepung But 3 wil leave Camilla with wholed bue I have nothing comebble, for that it maketh not himsed my macter And returns me to Euphues, mbe mult play the laft parter to benete, vet natural alast all flum oder college giving thanke to el chofe which fines big committed Wohnes hellowing his sime in the Court began to marke ville gently the mediand their manners not as one curious to mil-Wabut beftroug to be inftructed, 90 any vales be viet fpeech michthe Lanies, lauder times with the Mentlewomen, with all became to familiar, that he was of all enchelle beloneb.

Philautus ben taken fuch a fmacke in the good entertainment of the Laty Flavis; that he because looke afkem boon Camilla, byfping out the remembrance of this old lone, with precording of the neto, all ho noto but his biolet? who but nuftreffe Frauncis! whom if once everie day be bad not feene, be would have been folullen. no man (bould batte feene bim. Com confor Sanda sines at atte

Euphues who matchen his friend bem aben how his love naocesper with Camilla buto whom Philaurus gane no anfmere , but a Smile be the which Euphues thought his affection but Small. At o Tall thinking it both contrary to his oath a bis bonetty to conceale any thing from Euphnes, be confelled that his mind was changed from Camilla to Frauncis. Long quoth Euphues will menor make thee man for it commeth by fits not like a quotinis but a terris. Inverse quoch Philaurus, if euer I kill mp feife for loue, it that be with a figh not with a fwort.

Thus they palled the time many bates in England Euphues commonly in the Court to tearne falbions , Philaness quer in the Country emmeli fo

Emplanes and his Empland.

Country to love Frimengin Court a Cinact and in the Charles and the Country in th

Enphasikaapsing operate hould dury for mo dian, and teing his busines carequire such speed, being torbus great preferment, vetermined sobainly to depart, yet northput taking of his some curteonly, a giving thanks to at those which lince his comming had blem him friendly attituded that their which him being attituded that they beach, bedesires the par chane, with topomal opin while before invened, to invite a great number comment some of great latting, many of good creating allows the which, is a some of great latting fluid, Camilla, and Spillette Francis, were not to system. To be time being come of angering, befoliuted them all in this maner.

I was dever more delivers to rome into Bagland, then I am loth to be part, such incresses have Albams, which I tooked not for, and such qualities as I consume looked publich I speake not to state any imper intential is known exceptable. For now the time is come that Euphues must pack tram those whom he best loverly, and more with Euphues must pack tram those whom he best loverly, and more with Event, which he packed because the I wold of out we had beate to danourably it a pour constitution, that he might have either been borne here for able to time here; which seeing the one is past and cannot be the other ordinally and there is not eithe to be, I must induce the cruetay of the one, a with partence beare the necessary of the other. Pet this I earnestly reads of you at that you will in Gear of a recompence accept thankes, post fine that is able togice nothing, take plates so painted that in your hearts cannot conceive appears a caston built serve, I will show of I have not so gotten any, though I may not require one.

Philautus

te

3751 etibi fogg

taki Wou

Jake mefe

Frau

tones

gott Bu

forme

curte

TRane!

beene

ana

2.0

Philautis not miler wer Padent, iponguvotoral voicermined to early believe, so perfuse, shather purious local bed burnes on Brigland, as marries littledy, to portune on the continue of a point of the moment best which arrives a point of the moment best who arrives around grant of pure to incipe the my alta most grant on the around the continue of the perfuse of the perfuse of the continue you all, not for my fake, who ought to belire nothing and forthe fave totio to differed before that to build or object and office of Hog. third, the chorace present to well air persons or order in production to well air persons of the production of the character of the production of the character of the production of the character of the characte bini put efoj olionich Afpenke betozkoù tate, pourmit alme cone helicopsobiotistic beliepet but waselubich much be wrough: ubiterije di dien in angemen ann plukijub hivir beinij han in niproj-ehrven in niproj ni potivi ngrajuh des ili anjen univalen interior minter affatemuniminglaget bes nit for Hophuky do win ell tu, pet peope. The Aipend of is allower to maintains as early illigiblist y i Conhect her hand chun faturphan coll to dennée théat ette pacéping, attente complante were softentingue him! formeipsomifer him monepilome languifonnd a demigration foils the mouth cell ting distancement of an extension of the bill the bill etillise diarros chiebiscosium godrosburgi canalisandii (senomi scovi gendarburgid eslamosfiist déntifficonochedroir inde, mode the Bows after vience, or whos other execule hall simuladini nod fomerele, forthe fermoune itteriorinens duri Bufbaes coulo Montu Colfonica enveritibieleto aichem etranyck om flor glarichent similor fy are fort of flu herrichen Anto full Colleges der strangen product beir teatres of Bujibasu Cantilla, what itematite und und its regulanto, taking him byscht han vanvelichrighen that besing in Antopis fine thating your opens for his fixens in England) and the inches for paint though not forgethis fixens in California describe legitary personne to me to f histowne fill giroth stand whereophilispeds retopert, and Frauncis was not forry his begand little to litter to the litter of or ereiche mee of the proceeding by the Lecters and chinhuol graBuphue shatting attabing de in a readines y went immediatile tothate Donaguether thisacus alle abcompanien him, per int. curteffe they recetued at their comming. Fidus glad to fee them, made there great the are according to this abilitie, which had it beene leffe, would have been aunf therableto their velices, abuch ana communication communication cherebas of the Courtbest Luphuce erper anitcance, for bee faine stoings abor ar assummente knowness were follie to repeate and forestand were against wine honeste to becer; the nert maining they make to Douer, where Euphues boeing ready co take thip bee first cooke his faretwel of Philautus in epele montes and ion ariso or id you offer a led sim rol for the nor Phologianthe care that I bene hat of thee from time co time dridut, redranding exacts sund Eliphune ede adiosing weddend if it responds to be exacts on engage E. Erropes and node it rememberampeint it in feele. But freing my veparting fro thee in an it were my veach for that I know not whetherever I that fecches cabethis samp laft tellament of good will. Be bumble tashe fuperiouse gentle to the equals to the inferiouse famours bie, ennie not the betters, in the not the fellames, apprelle not the poore. The Ripent o is allower to maintaine thee ble milety be neither probigalito fpeubalinos conesous to keepe all cut the coate according to the cloth, and think it betten to be accounted the iftie among the wife, them goes abupanion among the clotons, for the fluor of trans of life, blothy books in the morning, the Bowe after binner, or what other exercise that please thee best: but a function de que an vie tothe maine, so hat sover thou art chaustien at the singlest she pen existe hand assesses the pennisses of physicise in consideration for finitely furtions from the half conching sty. proin the becantion thene, our but one other wife, thou hale being the meniteinen quelinuand thy lave into berifian. Elleant the felfefrom Camilla Deale toifele with Frauncis, for in Englanathon halt finnette fathit metipher tip healinges, be they mever to militiche whe femete to the falle; and with mone in mattere ablant ,au thou laughthydife. anto son ente simus. Certifie mee of thy proceeding by thy Letters ,and thinks &

Euphues cannot forget Philanus, who is intheme buto me as my felfe Commentum to all mafriends, the fofaretpel good chilautusiand wel waterhou fare off thou followele confife of Emplace.

curtefferber tecernebat their comming. Plate fab to file Dillaumithe mater fanning in his eyes, not table to antwere one word butill be bab well wept, replies at laft,agit were in full a filmin of ane

one word, lavings that his countaile should bee engranen in his peart; & ben inouid foldo in energi thing that was preferibed birn : certifping him of his fuccette; as either occustion or opportunitie thoule lesue. But when frienes at parring mould beter molt, then ceares binner mot, which byake off both bis aunf were, and flated Euphues replie fo after manufmillions of embracings, at the laft then penargen, Philaugus socionadon, where 3 teaue bim, Euphues to Athens, where I meane to follow him, for he it is that I am to The to and that is point head of pontaupidid top, dim son

There inag nathing that happened open the Seas worthy the maising bes within few bates Buphues hauting a merry wind arrived at Acimpa where, after be hav vilicen his friend es, and lette anopher in his affaires; be beganite abbielle bis Letters to Liuia, touching the Safe of England, in this manner.

luia Maluta chee in che Lozo, et: I am at length returned out of England ny lace in my opinion (if any fach may bee in the earth not inferiorso Paranile. I have bereintlofen, fent thee the pelcoincion ethemanners reconvictions, the government, and encercainment afchat Countrys 3 have chought to good to bedicate if to the Laurence leader stitchou whinke it worthe, as thou canft non geber mile caufe it to be imprinten, that & pratte offich an Aleman confector duellalle where, both to commenve icagio maruatte acte. Plaintroi & bane wiebehinde me, who like an old hogge followest his nintenej Londenviller he is then he was mone, but as yet nothing appetoliturate. I am in beatthing that thou art for A beare mostinger obe contrasp : but I know not ham if farechivish mee; for it connovate per bivolle nitheo line Council A am fo delighed panich another Quiert Reme'by Let ters to hat effe the aut finallo both thou likell the thate of Engl land, which I have fent the And lo farewell 1461 am admit adien daidet aan ein Miren mag to al Thine tovie, Buphues. pout of no maje price then broken glaifen.

9

L

mi ale the Larlies and Gettelewomen of England's Emphries saraty of an newithentheathand honoungania for allain bigs som a lucs in a looking glade in commendation of men Amily

T A han brought (Ladies)little volges from Maliajoj Arange I flones from India,og fine Caipets from Turkie, Jam fure that Euphues either

either you would have woodn merto have thent by wither to fee them. But I am comeour of England with a Glaffe, wherein you hall bebolo the things which you never fame, and marnaile at the lights which you have feen. groe mglaffe to make you beaucifull but to make you blufb, yet not at pour vices jout others bettues : not a glaffe to breffe pour baires ; but to tebittle pour barmes; by the mbich, if you enery morning correct pour minners, being as carefull to amend faults in pour bearts, as you are curious to finde faults in your beads, you that in forttime bee us much comended for bertue of the wife, as for beauty of the wanton. Det at the first light if pou feene verozmen tip tooking in this glaffe, you muft not thinke that the fault toin the glade, but in pour manners; not relembling Linia, woo feeing het beauete in a true glalle, to bee but befoamitie , malben ber face and beoke the gialle. Dere pouthall fee beauty accompanies of birginitie, temperaunce ; mercy , indies ; quagnanimitie , and all orbet berfnes what loever, race in your fere and but one, and ratet then the Phoenix, wherof Athinke there is not two. In this glaffe that! you Lee, that the glattes, which you carry infannes of trathers, their you to be lighter then feathers : that the glattes wherein you taroule pone Lating, make pou to bee more wanten then Bacchus that the new-found glatte thaines that you meave about your pecks argue pou to bee more bettele then glatte. But your even being too olde to tubge of foregreafpeet acle, my commaile is, that you looke with spectacles, for itt can pour shire the beame of the eleare Sunne, being Ceant able to biem the blaze of a bim cambie. The spectacles I would baue pan wayare for the one epe, filoge. ment, without flattering your letter, for the other eye beleete mithout millruftjug of mee. Ino them I burbt not, but you fpall both thanke me for this glatte. (which I fend alfo inco all places of Europe)aut thinke maile of pour garifh glaffes, which make pou of no moje price then broken glalles.

Thus faire Landes, hoping you will bee us willing to pip in this glaffe for amenament of manners, as you are to pranke pour felues in a looking-glaffe for commendation of men , I with you almuch beauty as you moule hane, to as you wold enbeuous to have almuch bertue as you fould have. And fo farewell.

Euphues

enten al com tron di estimiliam antical limitare dell'anticone

There is an Me lying in the Ocean Sea, vivertly against that part of France, which containeth Picardie and Mormandie, called now England, betternsyst named Britaine. It hath Ireland on the Mest side on the Part the maine Sea, anothe Cast the Germany Decan. This Mann is in circuite 1720 miles, in some like into a Griangle, beeing broadest in the South part, and gathering narrower and narrower, til it come to the farthest points of Latinesse, Postoward, where it is narrowest, and there expects in manner of a Promontopie. To repeate the auncient manner of this Mann, or what sunds. Nations have inhabited there, to select downerse Giants, which in bigues of home have passed the common size, and almost common create, to rehearse what binerst jes of Languages have beene when, into home many king-homes it hat beene nimber, what Religious have been sollowed beings the comming of Chill alchough it mould beeve great velicit so the comming of Chill alchough it mould beeve great velicit so the comming of Chill alchough it mould beeve great velicit so the comming of Chill alchough it mould beeve great velicit so the common expenses as at my being some even, we might it beguite some court such sings as at my being some seasons. But my painte is bytefelie to court such the things as at my being some must and inquirie, not meaning to mate as the painter of white and inquirie, not meaning to mate as the painter of the power and inquirie, not

There are conference making the fee power in a word what I beard are conference making in indicate the which the chiefest is named London, a place both for the beauty of building, infinite riches, national all chings, that excellen all the sittyes in the more informational chiefest and Part of all knoops. Close he this sitie sunners the famous Kiver, called the I bames, which from the bead where it rifest named I-fis, and the full midinapic, is shought to be one bundred to four e four e fine miles. All hat can there be in any place moves the beauens, that is not in the noble sitty, exthents because the paose, sire from all the Royal Exchange, for the selecting of the paose, sire from tall the Royal Exchange, for the meeting of Parchantes of all countries, where any training into be had. And among all the countries, where any training into he had. And among all the firange and heautifull shewes, me thinkes there is none so notable as the Bridge which existed the Chances, which is in 9 maner of a continual street, well replenished with large and stately houses on both sides, and stuate byon swentle Access, whereof each one is made of excellent free somes squared, every one of them being breesone some in beight, and full twenty in vistance one from another. Thousand placette whole staling bath his remark, whereby it seemeth so populous, that swe wold starte think source, whereby it seemeth so populous, that swe wold starte think so many people to be in the whole gland, we wold see tomtimes so many people to be in the whole gland, we would see tomtimes so all the condon.

O

103

This maketh Gentlemen baus, ant Berthantes etch , Citif. seus to purchale saus foloucues remaigage? le tout it is to bee chought jehat the greate ft wealt pain fabilitaire of the whole Realme, is conches within the inalies of London, where they that be rich, keepe to from them than bet violate, not bet quiting it from the indiseponsties at Ongrand by rigons, but increasing it from young men that fauture at confident the engine of the fauture at confident the engine of the fauture at confident the engine of the fauture of the fautu and very kindlote og ejonligent pieneberost ebe biers, en lowers of their voctrine, carefull watchmeletet the actiffe De nour northe meen the Challe outsmient politich, in calling the fulrituall floord as for an inches bower the Prince apportuined full, cut sing of choles meniscruf sons che Charon by fingur, fon are oblinate inches persons and intrateing their that are in my rant, appointing godly and seather an introis in curry of the cant, appointing goule and he acres sprinters in a green vark
Sees, that in the iteroferice in ap us negoted du frich as are pricate ness, falt to chalo characromlanaps the historia thick as are pricate
ness, falt to chalo characromlanaps the historia thick as are pricate ness, falt to chalo characromlanaps the historia for any bit ness, cather in the Lintop for and thereof the Criticis for the orders setting the the Lintop for and there are printing there. per Mitton, op trealf for wither many there are pur more partep, und followes word greater Ruteritie. Chere are at in this Jiano two famous Gnilleffores , the one Oxford, the other CBB 37114, 3 other Cambridge state of a control of a cont the Colleman im Porcedure anuclimme Refetutol she battiling and Cambridge much more fumptuodestatebeben febing white. ting Ar cetes of the other format of them both no nation process in a fire of will both extra country of great will common people, of all linguler kinds professions in the good without Annies shirtle the restanting the interpolation with the good without Annies shirtle the restanting the without with the good without a spein is the luper tour dens has neisde no tehe in theur opeir referato phore to after ing ir hantbamin cheminik muitienen bine inhetbedaup beber tathion.now the Spanilly, the the Popilico growner, Marina place expension weekly the expension of the Popilico growner, Marina place expension and state of the expension of th fore, but alla green en mingraple them and rouse thems; their appearing in merchalikation in That which in other worth tries them inform Coefferin Climinian Mideen proper of that is Inc thickenlates of years has are fatued so the farme The Divenance ther haue in gtrat and bertiff great frois Wheir Boute to vintbed us to mercinum three formers, of the which the one fer week for warres, the other for burthen, the other to a in comen and fome pessels there do (if and mot the expertence and open were but one by six comments in a continue to the continu i dan inicarcealinks noith willtilie fante hand it. Condhing tobic commoditionaler three fance Barbs, the first on the Selvin gentent helecome flatty well, theishied Bulleon, elle fourth as in old that the property of the policies of a follow vecte abiopumgatiocation the Bak, Beltoes in von Hanvert many hunderesto befound awhich Twitt not cepeate, becaute 3 my felfe neuerlawithen, and I bane bened of greater. designal, Ra 2 Con-

Enphysis and his England.

been their along and an angular of all fingular and a protection of the control o more conflette shen the immultancy uture permutuhing & grench fathion, now the Spanith, the the Pozifco gownes, themone thing fathion, note the Spanish, the the Popisse grames, then one thing observations and spaints for the private factors between the first and spaints of the private factors between the appears arctory, and the missions parties for the factors will private the appears arctory, and the missions after the Barbaria factors after the parties are makened file out after the Barbaria file out the Barbaria file out the Barbaria file of the

tearmethe Lomon of the Evolunation, officed to reflect Latine, and the Crommation of reflect Latine, and the Crommation of reflect Latine, and that is in Parliamental being that be digited Court, confiding of the first several force of propleting Robil transference than the transfer of the Random force and another result of the Random force and another result of the Random force and another result of the result of the Random force and the first of the first o calculuchis Laine are called Pleaso Antomi jambehep are ep ther criminall of civill: the meane to becerntue, are wites, foure oziginal

282

Da

to.

nie

gen Live

Sal

original, fome indiciall achefranish out commende the party greened may bound incidentalists ble Lawe, which conlifteth opon laubable cuffomes bled in Cheir appe is ver p wholsome and pleasant, the rounge panigg

Latt of all prefeription which is a premite dufome on time out of minde, but it is mine anticu have accounted them but grade & oull pared: which a think, chal

Mattherine and theres are tiflapies shat pelerne og ethipuniden i ingies incident to an El

Charles beach seventer to be the beach seventer beach formatte and the seventer beach seventer beach seventer beach are not considered beach seventer beach are not considered beach seventer beach and seventer beach and seventer beach and seventer beach seventer beach and seventer beach seventer beach and seventer beach and seventer beach seventer be to brain thater to match therees, ac. thus thereofichen verjum the

those Mattig.of Male and Cheeke at Giung & Opnopile angua Luarries of from fas but thing of and primer also de mickilluse.

Ancimony to apper shiest Lean and De pinetament and period.

Ilia, there growers be fineth Allom that in Memphism, Bittamen, Christocolla, Coposage (be Pinetall Ross Inherent Petrolina) is made a that which would from a the Minerall pearte, which as they are for great yes and colour mother reliance for matches when the one of the match long to place to militare from the flore Best libes their change not from your colour than the process in the state of the sta Salt-preter for Dipingace la Giope forglatte, giragaire of que

Chep made netther Stime nor Lead Abere grotundention,

Steele,

Ot eale jen vie appen gant tip atomer in the Heith Cost Blette it he sentempen in the Beith and the sentempen in the State of the in the sentempen in the sente

Cheir appe is very whollome and pleafant, their einflat pot inferimentation gestellentere enterplate bei freier den große beite beite große den gr

pert, then are in England.

"Our diat initity mad alluset in traigers of the first their that gailies made agreement in the point the first of the first that gland many fills a send first first for a quintage and the first of the point are districted as a send and the first of the point are districted as a send of the first of the point are districted as a send of the first of the point of the point of the first of the point of th and former applications fall steadile weige editit er and their t onmittomitte qualiformend though all a principle by being in the Chief, where alchough I hould as operating fire their into beet things for an amalican interpressional parties with the collection of the collection

ſe

in loth

. This is a second of the content of

Steeles

what confederacies at home: what injuries in any place have at any time beene contriued, the which they have not either foreseens befoze it could kindle, oz quenched befoze it could flame?

If any wille Villes thould faine madnes, there was amongst them some Palamedes to reueale him : if any Theris ment about to keepe ber sonne from the boing of her Countrey service, there was also a wife Vliffes in the Court to beingap it. If Smon came with a smooth tale to bring in the horse into Troy, there bath beene alivaies some couragious Lacaon to thoust his speare against the bowels, which being not bewitched, with Lacaon, bath bufolded that which Lacaon fulpeted. If Argus, with his hundred eies, went prying to bonermine lupiter, pet met he with Mercury, who whiftled all his eies out, infomuch as there could never yet any craft prevaile as gainft fheir pollicy, og any challenge against their courage. There bath alwaies been Achilles at home to buchle with Hector abzoad. Neltors granity to counter unile Pryams counfels, Vliffes fribtilties to match with Antenors policies, England hath all those that can and have weaftled with others, whereof we can require no greater profethen experience.

Belides, they have all a zealous care for the increating of true Religion, whose faiths for the most part have beene tried through the fire, which they had felt, had they not ded over the water.

Moreover, the great Audy they bend towards Scholes of learning, both sufficiently veclare, that they are not onely furtherers of learning, but Fathers of the learned. D thrice happy England, where such Counsellors are, where such people live, where such ver-

tue freingeth:

ここの 子のおかれ

ao,

bat

Among these you hall finde Zophirus, that will mangle himselse to doe his Countrey good, Achates, that will never start an inch from his Prince Ancas, Nausicla, that never wanted a shift in his extremitie, Caro that ever counselled but the best, Prholomeus Philodelphus, that alwaies maintained learning. Among the number of all wise, noble, and which Counsellors, I cannot but so, his honours sake remember the most prudent and right Ponourable, the L. Burleigh, high Areasurer of that Realme, no less reverenced so, his wishome, then renowned so, his wishes: more loued at home then seared abroad, and yet more seared so.

15 b

his comfellamong other nations, then swood of fire, in whom the saying of Agamemnon may be verified, who rather withed so, one fuch as Nestor, then many fuch as Aiax.

This pobleman I found so ready, being but a Aranger, to doe me good, that I neither ought to sozget him, neither cease to pray so, him, that as he hath the wisdome of Nestor, so her may have the age: that having the pollices of Vlisses, her may have his homour, worthy to live long, by whom so many live in quiet, and not unworthy to be advanced, by whose care so many have beene presented.

Is not this a glasse (faire Ladies) for all Countries to behold, where there is not onely an agreement in Faith, Religion, and Counsell, but in frindship, brotherhood, and living? By whose god endeauours, vice is punished, vertue rewarded, peace established, forcame broiles represed, domestical cares appealed? what Pation can of Counsellors desire more: what Domunion that excepted, both so much? when neither courage can prevaile against their Chivalties, nor crast take place against their counsell, nor both ioined in one, be of force to undermine their Countrie. When you have dazeled your eies with this glasse, behold heere an other.

th

et

pu

in ear

thu

Pon

oug

neer

pou

Celu

whe

cloth

Pour

Hone

areth

Denot

tobel

praise

but fte

It was my fortune to be acquainted with certaine english Benflemen, which brought me to the Court & where, when I came, I was briven into a mase to behold the lustic and brave gallants, the beautifull and chaste Ladies, the rare and godly orders, so as I could not tell whether I should most commend vertue or braverie.
At the tast, comming offner thither then it best med one of my degree, yet not so often as they desired my company, I began to prie after their manners, and natures, and that which followeth I saw,

Tohereof tho fo bouteth, I will (weare.

The Ladies spend the morning in denout praise, not resembling the Gentletsomen in Greece and Iralie, who begin their morning at mid mone, and make their eneming at mid night, of sing Connets sor Plalmes, and patients sorpraises, reading the Epistic of a Louer, when they thous peruse the Golpell of our Lord, drawing wanton lines when death is before their face, as Archimedes did triangles and directs when the enemie was at his backe. Behold Lapies in this glasse, that the secure of God is to be preferred preferred before all things : imitate the English Daniosels, suho are as cunning in the Scriptures, as you are in Anotho and Petrack, og any boke that liketh you beft, and becommeth you worff. For brauerie A cannot far that you erciede them, for certaine it is the most gozgious Court that euer I haue fene, read, 02 beard of, but vet one they not ble their apparell so nicelie as you in Italic, who thinke scorne to kneele at service for feare of wrinkles in their fikes, who dare not life by your heads to heaven, for feare of cumpling the cuffes in your necke : yet your hands (4 confesse) are holden by, rather I thinke to thew your rings, then to manifest your righteousnes. The brauerie they vie, is for the honour of their Brincs: the attire you weare, for the alluring of pour preie: their rich apparell maketh their beautie moze scene, your disqui-Ang caufeth your faces to be moze fulpeded. They resemble in their garments the Effridge, who being gazed on, closeth her wings, and hiveth ber feathers: you in your roades are not bulike the Beacock, who being praised, spreadeth her taile and beinrais eth ber prive. Teluets and filkes in them are like golde about a pure Diamond: in you like a greene hedge about a filthie bunghil. Think not Lavies that because you are becked with gold, you are indued with grace: imagine not that thining like the Sunne in earth, ve fall climbe the Sunne in heanen : looke Diligentlie into this English glass, and then thall you fie, that the moze cofflie ponrapparell is, the greater your courteste should bee, that you ought to be as farre from paide as you are from pouertie, and as nere to Brinces in beautie as you are for brightnelle. Because you are brave, distaine not those that are base, thinke with your felnes that Kuffet coates baue their Christendome, that the funne when beeis at the highest, thineth as well boon course Carlie as cloth of Diffue, though you have pearles in your eies, iewels in your breaks, precious Kones on your fingers, yet distaine not the Kones in the Arete, which although they are nothing so noble, yet are they much more necessarie. Let not your roabes hinder your benotion: learne of the English Ladies, that & D D is worthie to be worthinged with most price, to whom you ought to give all praise: then that you bee like starres to the wife, who note are but flarcing flocks to the folith: then thall you be praised of moth, 1B b 2 who

who are now pointed at of all, then thall God beare with your fol-

tie, who now abhorreth your prive.

As the Ladies in this bleffed Jland are devout and draue, so are they chatte and beautiful insomuch that when J first beheld them, I could not tell subether some mist had bleared mine eies, or some strange incharmement altered my minde: for it may be, thought I, that in this Jland, either some Artimodorus or Lismandio, or some odde Higromancer did inhabit, who would shew me fairies, or the body of Helen, or the new shape of Venus: but comming to my selfe, and seing that my senses were not changed, but hindred, that the place where I soo was no inchaunted Castell, but a galalant Court, I could scarse refraine my voice from crying There is no

beautie but in England.

There did I behold them of pure complexion, exceeding the Lil He and the Role, of favour (wherein the chiefest beautie conflicth) furpasting the picture that were fained, or the Pagician that would faine: their eies piercing like the Sun beames, yet chafte, their spech pleasant and sweet, get mobest and curteous: their grace comely, their bodies firaight, their hands white, all thinges that men could with, or women would have: which, how much it is, none cari fet volume, when as the one veficeth as much as may bee. the other more: Anoto thele beautifull moulos, thate mindes: to the comely bodies, temperance, movettie, milbnes, fobuetie: whom I often beheld merry, yet wife : conferring with Courtiers, yet warilie: beinking of Wine, yet moverately : eating of belicates. get but their eares full: liftning to biscourfes of loue, but not without teafoning oflearning: for there it more belighteth them to talke of Robinhoo then to those in his bowe, and greater pleasure they take to beare love, then to be in love.

Dere, Lavies, is a glasse that will make you blush so thame, and looke pale so anger: their beautie commeth by nature, yours by Arte: they increase their favours with fairs water, you maintaine yours with Painters colours: the haire they layout, groweth upon their owne heavs, your seculines hangeth upon other: theirs is alwaies in their owne kieping, yours often at the Diars: their beautie is not tolk with a sharpe blast, yours faveth with a soft death; not unlike unto paper slowers, which breake as some as they

m

E

m tra

tai

021 ioh

bar

in a

the

Loan

inai Ane

Char

hight

full t

speri

R

they are touched, refembling the Birds in Egypt called Ibes, who being bandled lofe their feathers : 02 the Gernent Scrapic, inhich being but toucht with a Brake, burfteth. They ble their beautie because it is commendable, you because you would bee commen: they if they baue little, Doe not fake to make it more, but you that have none, indenour to befreake molt: if theirs wither by ace-they nothing eleme it, if yours walte by yestes, you goe about to keepe it: they know that beautie must faile if life continue, you five are that it shall not faire, if colours Latt. But to what end, Labies, dos you alter the gifts of Dature, by the gifts of Art : Is there no cotour goo but white, no Planet bright but Venus ? no linnen faire but Lawne: Wilhy goe you about to make the face faire, by those means that are most foule: A thing loathsome to men, and therefore not louely horrible before God and therefore not lawfull.

Dane you not heard that the beautie of the cradle is most brightell? that paintings are for pictures without fense, not for persons with true reason? Follow at the last, Lavies, the gentlewomen of England, who being beautifull, voe those things that thall become so amiable faces: if of an indifferent bew, those thinges as wall make them louely, not adding one ownce to beautie, that may des tract a peam from bertue. Belides this, their chaftety and tempes rance is as rare as their beauty: not going in your footfleps, that drinke Willing before you rife to increase your colour, and swill it inhen von are by to prouske your luft : They be their needle to banith inlenes, not the pen to nourify it, not frending their times in antipering the Letters of them that wose them, but for five aring the company of those that write them, giving no occasion either by inanton lookes, bufeemin geftures, bnaomiet beech, eamy bn cornely behaviour of likenes or liking. Contrary to the cultome of many Countries, where fifthy foods are accounted to favour of a fine wit, becan freechof of a bold courage, wanton glaunces of a tharpe eie-fight, wicken beebs of a comely gesture, all baine belights, of a right courteous courtelle. sagin vione action of

And yet they are not in England precise but wary, not bilbaines full to conferre, but fearefull to offeno: not without remaile where: they perceine truth, but without replying where they suspent tretherie: when as amongs other Antions, there is no take fo 15 h 2 loathe logthfome to chaste eares, but it is heard with great sport, and and sweet with great speed. Is it not then a shame, Ladies, that that little I land should be a mirrour to you, to Europe, to the whole would?

There is the temperance you professe, when Whine is more common then water? There, the chastitie, when your lust is thought lawfull? There the modestie, when your mirth turneth to uncleannesse, uncleannesse to shamelesnesse, shamelesnesse to all sinfulnesse? Learne Lavies, though late, yet at length, that the charfest title of honour in earth, is to give all honour to him that is in heaven, that the greatest braverie in the world, is to be burning Lampes in the world to come: that the clearest beautie in this life, is to be amiable to him that shall give eternall: Loke in the Glasse of England, too bright I feare mee so, your eies. What is there in your sere that you have not, and what that you should not have: They are in prayer beauti, in braverie humble, in beautie chast, in feasting temperate, in affection wise, in mirth modest, in all their actions, though courtie because women, yet Angels because vertuous.

Ah (good Lavies) good I fay, for that I love you, I would you could a little abate that price of your fromackes, that loofeneffe of minde, that licentious behaufour, which & hand feene in you with no finall forcow, and connot remedie with continual fighes. They in England pray when you plate, felve fohen you flepe, fast when pou featt, and weepe for your finnes when you laugh at your fenfualitie. They frequent the Church to ferue God, you to fee gale lants: they becke themselves for cleanlineste, you for prive: they maintaine their beautie for their wine liking, you for others luft : they refraine wine because they feare to take too much, you because you can take no more. Come Ladies, with teares & call you, looke withis glaffe, repent pour finnes patt refraine pour prefent vice, abhore panities to come, fate this with one voice, We can fee our faultes onely in the Figlish Glaffe. A glaffe of grace to them of griefe to you, to then in flead of righteoulnes, to you in place of repentance. 30 duodinulion a smalle of hu

The Lords and Gentlemen in that Court are also an example to, all others to follows true types of nobilities the onely state & staffe

of (el fo₂

tha

Pic:

but

Au

Mose

to be there.

the

Dreci

once (e

begin.

b2iabti

tosom

tobo be

OM

of honour, beaue Courtiers, Mout Souldiers, apt to reuell in peace, and ride in war. In fight fierce, not decading death, in frindily firme, not breaking promise: courteous to all that deserve well, cruell to none that deserve ill. Their adversaries they trust not, that theweth their wisdome: their enemies they feare not, that argueth their courage. They are not upt to profer injuries, not fit to take any: loth to pick quarrels, but longing to revenge them.

Actine they bee in all things, whether it bee to intalle in the games of Olimpia, 02 to fight at Barriers in Paleltra, able to carrie as great burthens as Milo, of Arength to throw as big Arones as Turque, and tohat not, that either man bath done 02 may doe, inoze thy of such Ladies, and none but they, and Ladies willing to have such Lozos, and none but such. This is a glasse for youth in Greece and Iraly: behold it Ladies and Lozos all, that either means to have piety, bee bravery, increase beauty, or that desire temperancy, that this, will be brown, balour, or any thing that may delight your

felues, 02 deferue praife of others. io ma mi Rangel The agrice door

25

m

m

of sie

ffe

of

ON

But another fight there is in my glasse, which maketh me figh for griese I cannot shew it, and yet had I rather offend in derogating from my glasse, then my good will. Welsen is that kand that half commodities to increase the Common wealth, happiets that kand that hath wise Comsellors somewhaten it, beretwous Courtiers to beautifie it, noble Gentlemen to advance it: but to have such a Prince to governeit, as is their Someraigne Avene, I know not whether I should thinke the people to bee more so be had inadmiration; that have such a kaler or ber bertwes to bee honoured that hath such royalty, for such is their estate there, that I am ensured to thinke, that every day is as lucky to the Englishman, as the sixt day of February bath beene to the Bresians of more and and more order.

e Wit I fee pougazo putill them this class, which you having once seene, will make you giody: The Ladies I know not when to begin, or where to end: for the more I goe about to express the brightnes, the more I find wine eies bleared; the neerer I desire to come to find the further I seeme from it. Pot pulike to Simonides, who being curious to set downe to hat God was, the more leisure be take, the more loath be loss to medule, laying, that in things a boue reachit was easie to catch a straine, but impossible to touch a Stavre: and therefore scarce tolerable to point at that, which mone can never bull at. Withen Alexander had commanded that none thould paint bim but Apolles, none carne him but Lifepus, none engrane him but Pergotales, Pharrafius framen a table fourren every way two bunded foote, which in the bosders his trimmed with fress colours, and limmed with fine gold dequing all the other rome without knot or line : which table be prefented to Alexander, who no leffe marmelling at the bignes then at the barones, bemanded to what end be have him a frame without face, being to naked, and without falbion, being fo great? Pharrafius answered him : Let it be latofull for Pharrafius, D Alexander, to their a table Inberein bee would paint Alexander if it were not unlawfull, and for others to fquare Dimber, though Lylippus carne it, and for all to call Male, though Pergotales ingrane it. Alexander persenting the good minde of Pharrafius, parboned his boldnes, and preferred his Arte: petenquiring why beframed the table fo big, bee answered that he thought that frame to be but little enough for his victure, when the whole westo was too little for his perfon, faying, that Alexandermultaffeell be praised as painted, and that all his victo les and bertues, were not to be pratone in the compalle of a bignet. but ma field.

he

This unfluer Alexander both liked and rewarded, informed as it was lawfull ener after for Pharrafius both to praise that noble bring, and to paint him. In like manner I hope, that thought be not requisite, that any house paint their Prince in England, that cannot sufficiently perfect her, yet it shall not be thought rashnes or moreover, for Euphues to frame a table for Elizabeth, though hee presume not to paint her. Let Apelles them his fine Arte, Euphues will manifest his faithfull heart: the one can but prove his conteste to blaze his cumning, the other his good will to going his conteste to blaze his cumning, the other his good will to going he cannot cause the Jurage: the morner that spinneth the sike is to be else med, though the cannot worke the Sampler: they that fell Limber so thips, are not to be blamed became they cannot build ships. Pe that carrieth the Morter surferent she building, though hee became that carrieth the Morter surferent she building, though hee became

no

n

Con

Din

the

loff

one.

alm

But

man ( confi

tende

racil.

TI.

prouit

of Lan

Doubt

tearm

gether

no expert Palen, he chut diageth cha gament in tu bee combreson, chough he cannut treat the Angreathe Calphuiths hop much have his wages for blowing the Arathough he cannot falbion y dewelf. Then Lavies A hope paore Epphics Pohitot he remited though he before not to be remarked, where have applied to the stand of and the

be, that as the Venus of Apelles not finished, the Trindrides of Nichomachus not envented Medea of Timomachus not perfected, the table of Pharrasius not coloured, brought greater vesse coche to cosummate them, and to others to see themselvine. Elizabeth of Euphues being but shadowed for others to varnish, but begunne for others to ende, but brawne with a blacke coale for others to blaze with a bright colour, map morke either a vesse in Euphues herreaster if he line to end it, or a mind in those that are vecterable to amend it, or in all, if none can work it, a will to wish it. In the mean season, I say as Xeuxes did, when he had brawne y picture of Attalanta, spore will enuy mee then invitate mee and not commend it, though they cannot amend it. But I come to mp England.

Chere was for a long time civili wars in the Country, by reafon of several claimes to the Crowne, betweene the two famous and noble houses of Lancaster and Yorke, epther of them pretenbing to be of the Royall blood, which causes them both to spend their vitail blood: these tarres continued long, not without great losse, both to the nobility and communalitie, who topning not in one, but viners pares, turned the Realme to great ruine, having almost vestroped their Country before they could annoth a sking.
But the living God, who was both to oppresse England, at last began to represse injuries, and to give an end by mercy, to those that could sind no end of malice, not looke for any end of mischiese. So tender a care hath he alwaies had of that England, as of a new is-racll, his chofen and beloued people.

This peace began by a marriage solemnized by Gods speciall providence, betweene Henry Carle of Richmond, heire of the house of Lancaster, and Elizabeth daughter of Edward the fourth, the broubted issue and heire of the house of Yorke: whereby (as they tearme it) the red Rose and the white were united and somed together. Dut of these Koses sprang swa noble budges, Prince Argether. Dut of these Koses sprang swa noble budges, Prince Argether.

CI

characture and the court ping without Mit, the effect of wall fare and the many to being believe the exploration of the stand of the Many the Book Elizabeth Atting Edward internet long, which was to chat Realing base time too long, but harpe frosts bite for ward springes, Casterly windes blatte towards Mostonia, time beath spareth not those whom we were trues fruing carmot sparet.

The Crowns, and as fe chaunced next befre to the grave, couching while life I can fap little, because I was fearer boine, and what others fap, of me that be forborne.

Chie Queene beine peceafes, Elizabeth being of the ageof twentie chie preces of more beauty then bonoue, and pet of more bonor then any earthly creature, was called from apilloner to a Prince, from the Caffle to the Crowne, from the feare of loung ber beat, to be Conzeme beat. And beere Labies it may be you will moone a queftion, why this noble Labie was either in baunger of beath,03 raufe of biffrelle, which hab you thought to have palled in filence, I would not with Canbing baue ceucates. This Lavie, al the time of her lifter graiane, was kept clofe, as one that tendered not thole proceedings which were contrarie to ber confcience : who bauing biners enemics, endured many croffes, but fo patientlie, as in ber neenelt forrow, the would rather ligh for the liberty of the Golpel, then ber owne freedome. Suffering ber inferiors to triumph ouer ber ber foes to threaten ber ber billembling friends to unbernine ber, learning in all this milerie only patience that Zeno taught Ereticus, to heare and forbeare, neuer feeking reuenge, but with good Licurgus to lofe ber owne epe, rather then to burt anothers eye. But being noto places in the leate Ropall, Gee firtt of all ftabliffen religion, banifen Poperie, anuauncen the Mont before was fo much befaceb, who having in her hand the fworde to reuenge bled rather bountifullie to reward : being as far from ricour when thee mighe baue killed, as her enemies were from hos neftie when they could not giving a general parton, when the has caule to ble particular punifbments, preferring the name of pitty before the remembraunce of pertis, thinking no reuenge more princelie, then to space when the might spil to stay when the might Brike:

pu

ma

Con

tín

200 ma

taci

oper

enb

Diut

mac

Cubic

mall

D

dentered proffer to faue with mere ie, when the mighe fiante vertrotes with indice. Deere is the elementic worthy commencation and armiration, nothing inferior to the gentle disposition of Ariffides, who after his exile, bir not so much as note them that banished bim, saying with Alexander, that there can be nothing more noble, shen to be well to those that belerne til.

This mightier mereifull Queene, having many bils of private persons that loughe before time to betray her, burnt them all, re-cembling Iulius Gæsar, who beeing presenced with the like complaintes of the Commons, them them into the fire, saying, that he had racher not know the names of Revels, then have occasion to remenge, thinking it better to be ignorant of those that hated him,

then to be angry with them.

This clemencie die her Paieltie not only thew at her camming to the Crowne, but also throughout her whole government, when the had spared to theo their bloods y sought to spil hers, not racking the Lawes to extreamity, but mittigating the rigour with mercle: insomuch as it may be said of that rayall Pouarch, as it was of Antonius, surnamed the godly Emperop, who raigned many peeres without the estulion of blood. What greater bettue can there be in a Prince then metric? What greater praise then to abate the edge which thee thousand where, to parvon where thee thousand pumish, and to reward where the thousand reucuge?

Implete being in England, when her Paieltie was to; her recreation in her Barge upon the Chames, heard of a Gun that was hot off, though of party unwittinglie, yet to her noble person damagerously: which fact the most gracionly paroaned, accepting instructe before a great amends, taking more griefe for her poore Barge-manchet was a little burt, then care for her felf that was in greatest hazard: Drare example of pity, P singular spectacle of pietie.

Divers bestves there have been; which by private conspiracies; open rebellions, close wiles, cruell wiccheraftes, have lought to end her life which faverh all their lives: whose practices, by the vivine providence of the Almightie, have ever been visclosed, infomuch that her bath kept her fase in the arthales belly, when bee subjects went about to throw her into the sea-presence her in the

CC 2

boc :

Euphyes and his Englands I

botte Duen, when ber enemies increales thefier nothefferiann Hatre to fall from het much lelle any barmeta follome Their inturier and freatons of her lubiccies, their policies and papermining of forraine Mattons lo little moones ber, that the month ofcenfale. Let them know that though is be not lawfulfor them to theate what they lift, pet it is lawfull for be to soe with them what ince lift, being almates of that mercifull mind whis b was in Theodofius, who mithed rather that bee might call the near to life, then put the living to beath : faying with Augustus inhen the thould lefte ber band to any condemnation . A would to coon we could not wille. Infinite were the examples that might he affeatored and almost incredible, whereby the bath the web bor Telle a Lambe in meckenelle, when thee had caule cobe a Lyon in micht, propued a Doue in fauour, when the was prouched to be an Cagle in fier cenes, requiting iniuries with benefites reuenging grubaes with gills in bigbelt Baiettie bearing the lowest mint forgining all that tued for mercie and forgetting all that beforen inflice. D viuine nature. D beauenlie nobilicie, what thing can be more required in a Bituce, then in greatest power to theme great tell patiente, in chiefell glorie to bring foorth chiefell grace, in a-boundance of all earthly felicitie, to manifelt aboundance of beamenlie pietie! D foreumta England chat harb fuch a Queene, bngrateful if you play not for ber wicken if you bee not lone her mi-Cerable if pou loofe ber.

Deere Ladies is a glatte top all Princes to beholde, that beeing talled to bignitie, they be moderation, not might, tempering the teneritie of the lames with the mildness of lone, not executing all their will, but the wing what they may Dange are they, and only they that are under this glorious and gracious poneraigne, infomuch that I account all those shietes that be not ber subjects.

But why doe I tread Militin one path, when I have lo large a field to malke, or linger about one flatuer, when I have manie to gather, wherein I relemble those that beging delighted with the little brooks, neglect the fountains beads or the Painter that being curious to colour Cupids bows, longer to paint the Arings.

heing curious to colour Cupids bolus, lorges to paint the Aring.

As this poble Prince is indued with mercie, patients, and inodecation, lois the midued with lingular desurgand chalitic, excel-

ling

fh

no

DE

Яì

m

the Let

boi Ion

ling in the one Venus in the other Wella. Who knoweth not home tore aching it is (Le vies) common vinginitie with beautie a chill mind with an amiable face vivine cogications with a comity mill tenamer. But luch is the grace bestowed upon this earthlic Ganbelle that having the beautie that might allitre all Bainces, there hath the chaffitte allo to refule all, accounting it no leffe praile to bescallen a virgin , then to becaffeemon a Nevus; thenking it as great benour to bee found chaffes shought smiable ambers is nom Electra, the challe paughter of Agamemnon, where is Lala, char fenomined Clirgin? There is Asmillia, that through her characteristics tity iorguest manuers, in maintaining continuall five at the althip on flace with her finger charmulainunes could not remonite by force? Colhere is Tuleia, one of the fame onner, that brought to paffe no lette margailes by carrying water in a Sine, not thebbing one byop, from Tyber to the Temple of Vesta? If virginitie have fuch force, then what hath this chatte hirgin Elizabeth bone? who by the space of twenty any orde peeres to construct peace agathit all policies, with miracles contrary to all hope, buth go-nerved that noble Hand. Against whom, neither for raigne force, not cintil fraude, neither bilcoro at bome, nos comperacles abroad could prenaile. the of electrication on a such as well Calbat greater maruaile bath bappened fince the beginning of the world, then for a your and tenber mapben to douerne front and baltant men, then for a birgine to make the whole worlde, if not to Cant in ame of ber pet to bono; ber: yea, and to live in fpice of all thole that fpight ber with her (work in the theath, with her Armor in the Cower, with ber foulviours in their gownes ? infomuch as her peace map be called more bleffen then panier raigne of Numa Pompilius, in whose government the Bees have mabe their biues in the Couldiers belmets. Dow is the Compte of lanus. remoued from Rome to England, whole bose hath not been opened this 20 getes: more to he meruailed at then the regiment of Des bora toto ruled so peres with religion, on Semiramis, that rules long with power of Zenobia, that raigned a peeres in prosperitie. This is the onely minacle that virginity over wrought, for a little I land incirond round about with mars, to dang in yeare, for the

Ct 3

wid 3

malles of Fraunce to burne, and the boules of England to freely, for all other Mations, either with civill more to be viniber, or with foraignefoes to be impaved, and that Country neither to be mole free with broiles in their own bosoms, nor threatned with brail of other borders: but alwaiss though not laughing, yet looking thorough an Emeralo at others larres.

Cheir fields have been fowen with come, thrangers theirs pitched with Campest they have their men renping their harvelt, when others are muttering in their harvelle: they vie their peeces co fowle for plealure, others their Calivers for feare of perils. D blelles peace, D happy Prince, D fortunate people. The living God is only the Euglish God, where her harbylaced peace, which bringeth all pleates, annotated a Mirgine Dueene, which with a wand ruleth her owne lubiects, and with her worthines winners
the good wil of tragers: so char she is no selle gracious among her own, then glorious coothers, no selle soued of her people then mare united at of other Pations.

This is the bledling that Chill alwaies gave to his people, peace. This is the curie that he giveth to the witken, there that he no peace to the bugodly. This was onely the falutation he bled to his Disciples. Peace be ento you: And therefore is he called the Boo of loue and peace, in boly wait.

In peace was the Temple of the Lord built by Salomon, Christ would not be borne until there were peace throughout the whole world, this was the only thing that Excelias praped for; Let there be truth and peace D Lord in my dayes. All which examples doe manifestly proone, that there can bee nothing more notable then peace.

This peace bath the Low continued with great and infpeakable goodnes among his chosen people of England. Dow much is that Mation bound to such a Prince, by whom they entop at benefits of peace, having their Barnes full, when others family, their Coffers stuffed with gold, when others have no silver, their wives without vanger when others are defamed, their daughters chaste when others are bestowed, their boules furnished, when others are fired, where they have althings so superfluity, others nothing to suffaine their need.

This

tt

fa

Hil

m

mi

25 fo)

CON

tol

ma

ber

enn

to b

Chispeace bath God given to; her vertues picty, moderation, virginity: which peace, the same Bod of peace continue for his names lake.

T Duchingthe beauty of this Prince, ber countenance her matelly, her personage, I cannot think that it may be sufficiently commended, when it cannot be too much margafled at : fo that 3 am conftrained to lap, as Praxiciles ofd when be beganne to paynt Venus and her Sonne, who doubted whether the world could affood colours good enough for two fach fayze faces . & I whether my tongue can peeld wordes, to blaze that beautie, the perfection whereof none can imagine. Which feeingit is fo, I must voe like thole that want a cleere light, who being not able to difcerne the Sunne in the Chy, are inforced to behald it in the mater. Zeuxis bauing before him lifer fapre Hirginsof Sparta, whereby to brate one amiable Venus fart, that fiftie more farzer then thole could not minister fufficient beautie, to thewe the Govbelle of beauty. therefore being in befpapre either by Art to thabom ber, or by imagination to comprehend ber be bremin a Cable a fapre Temple, the gates open and Venus going in lo as nothing could bee perceined but ber back, wherein he bled fuch cunning, that Apelles bimfelfe feeing this worke, wither that Venus woulde turne her face, laying: that if it were in all parts agreeable to the back, bee mould become an Apprentice to Zeuxis, & flate to Venus. In the like manner fareth it with me, for haning all the Lavies in Italica more then fifty bundred, whereby to colour Elizabeth, I muft fap with Zeuxis, that as many more will not fuffice, and therefore in as great an agony vaint ber Court with ber backe towardes pou, for that I cannot by Art postrap ber heantie: wherein though 1 want the fkill to bo it as Zeuxis Did, pet viewing it narrowly, and comparing it wifely, you will fay, that if ber face be aunf werable to ber back, you will like my bandy-craft, and become ber fantmaides. In the meane leafon I leave you gazing butiff the turne ber face, imagining ber to be fuch a one as Mature framed, to that end that no Art Could imitate, wherein the bath prootes her fells to be erquilite, and Bainters to be Aves.

This beautifull mould when I beheld to be indued with chaffi-

tie. comperance, milones, and all other good gifts of Mature ? as beereafter thall appeare) when I fatoe ber to furpalle all in beautie, and yet a Clirgine , to ercell all in piecie, and pet a Paince , to be inferiour to none in al the lineaments of the bodie, pet fuperiour to everie one in all giftes of the minde, I began chus to map. that as the bath lived forcie peeres a Mirgin in great Maiette . fo thee map live fourefco te veeres a Bother with great top, that as with her we have had long time peace and plentie, lo by ber wee euer map bane quiernes and aboundance, withing this even from the bottom of a hart that witherh well to England though fareth ill, that either the worldmap end before the bie; of thee line to fee ber childrens Children in the world: otherwife howe tickle their fate is that now triumph , boon bifat a chiff thep hang that are in bonour, they that line thall fee, which I to thinke on, ligh But Boo for his mercies fake, Chill for his merices fake, the holie Shoft for his names lake grant to that Realme comfort without ante ill chaunce, that the longer thee lineth, the Iweeter thee may imell, like buto the bird lbis, that the may be triumphant in bictories like the Palmetree, fruitefull in her age like the Cline, in all ages profperous, to al men gracious, in all places glorious: lo that shere be no end of ber praifes, butilt the end of all fielb.

Thus oto I often cath with my felle, and with with my whole hare. What thould I calke of her harpe wit, excellent wiledom, exquite learning, and all other qualities of the minde, wherein thee feemeth to favre to excell those that have been accounted inquiar, as the learned have surpassed those that have been thought simple.

mo

ma

ani

ees

abi

150

all,

02 b

gen

to b atue

939

Deie

then

telle:

foo2t

11361

her !

In questioning, not inferiour to Nicaulia & Ducene of Sabathat vio put so manie hard voubts to Salomon, equall to Nicostrata in the Greeke conque, who was thought to give precepts so, the better perfection: more learned in the Latine then Acalasunta: passing Asposia in Phylosophie, who taught Pericles: exceeding in imagement Themistoclea, who instructed Pythagorasi abbe to these qualities those that none have had, the French tongue, the Spanish, the Italian, not meane in everte one, but excellent in all, readier to correct escapes in those languages, then to be controled, fitter to teach others then to learne of any more able to abbe new rules.

rules, then to erre in the old. Infomuch as there is no Embaffabor that commeth into her Court, but thee is willing and able both to buberftand his mellage, and btter berminde : not like buto the Bings of Aifiria, who answer Embassages by mellengers, while they themselues either bally in finne,02 snozt in flepe: Der godly seale to learning, with her great fkill, bath beene fo manifeftly and propued that A cannot tell whether the beferue more homer for her knowledge.ozadimication for her courtelle, tobo in great pompe bath twice directed her progrelle unto the Univertities : with no leffe ion to the Students, then glozy to the State: where after long and folemne diputations in the Law, Bhiticke, and Divinitie, not as one wearied with Schollers arguments, but medded to their D. rations. when every one feared to offend in length, the in her offene person, with no leffe praise to her Maielly, then belight to her Subteds, with a wife and learned conclusion, both gave them thanks, and put her felfe to bery great paines.

D noble patterns of a princely minde, not like but of the kings of Persa, who in their Progresses did nothing else but out sticks to drive away the time, nor like the delicate lives of the Sidarites, who would not admit any Arts to bee exercised within their Citie that might make the less noise. Her wit so thatp, that if I should repeat the apt answers, the subtill questions, the sine speaches, the pithy sentences, which on the sooden she hath bitered, they would rather breed

ให้ก็ ของที่ โดยรที่แล้วจากจำหนดเลย อดีรี เกต

aboutation then credit.

But such are the gifts that the living God hath endued her with all, that looke in what Arte of Language, wit, of learning vertue, of beauty, any one hath parienlarly excelled most, the onely hath generally exceeded enery one in all: insomuch that there is nothing to be added that either men would wish in a woman, of God both give to a creature.

Let palle her skill in Pusicke, her knowledge in all the other Sciences, when as I feare, lest by my simplicity, I should make them talle then they are, in seeking to she w how great they are, on telle I were prissing her in the Gallery of Ohinpia, where giving foozth one word I might heare fenen.

But all these graces, although they bee to bee wonded at, yet her politicks government, her prudent Counsell, her reals to Do Religion

Religion, her elemency to those that submit, her stoutnes to those that threaten, so farre excede all other vertues, that they are more

ealle to be maruelled at, then imitated.

five and twenty yeares hath thee borns the Swood, with such instice, that neither offenders could complaine of rigour, not the Annocent of wrong: yet so tempered with mercy, as malesanors have been sometimes pardoned upon hope of grace, and the injury requited to ease their griefe: insomuch that in the whole course of her glorious raigne, it could never be said, that sither the pare were oppressed without remedy, or the guilty repressed without cause: bearing this ingranen in her noble heart, that instice without mercie, were extreame injurie: and pittle without equitie, plaine partiality: and that it is as great tyranny not to mittigate Lawes, as iniquity to breake them.

Her care for the flourishing of the Gospell, hath well appeared, when as neither the curses of the Pope, (which are bleakings to god people, nor the threatnings of Kings, which are perilous to a Prince) nor the perswasions of Papists (which are hony to the mouth) could either feare her, or allure her to violate the holy league contracted with Christ, or to maculate the blood of the ancient Lambe, which is Christ. But alwaies constant in the true faith, she hath to the erceding soy of her Subsects, to the inspeakeable comfort of her soule, to the great glary of God, established that Keligion, the maintenance wherof shee seketh rather to consirme by for titude, then leave off for feare, knowing that there is nothing that smelleth sweeter but the Lord, then a sound spirit, which neither the hoasts of the imposely, nor the horrour of death can either remove or move.

This Gospell with innincible courage, with rare constancy, with hote zeale the hath maintained in her owne Countries with out change, and defenced against all kingdoms that sought change: insomuch that all Patiens round about her, threatning alteration, chaking Smords, throwing sire, menacing famine, mutther, destruction, desolation, the anely hath stood like a Lambe, on the top of a hill, not fearing the blasts of the sharpe winds, but trusting in his providence that rideth upon the winges of the source winds. Pert followeth the lone shee beareth to her Subjects, who

HE WINDS

no

n

d

th

n

ac

C

th

to tha

tha

wi

car

the per

Deu

of b

gen

entel

tun

thin

whe

that the e

in al eithe

think

Apple

Œ

业 no lesse tend zeth them then the apple of her owne sie, shewing her selfe a louing Pother but the affliced, a Physician but the sicke, a sourraigne and milde Governesse to all. Louching her Pagnanimitie, her Paiessie, her estate royall, there was neither Alexander, no; Galba the Emperour, no; any that might bee compared with her.

This is the, that resembling the noble Duxne of Navarre, beeth the Parigold for her flowre, which at the rising of the Sun openeth her leaves, and at the setting thutteth them, referring all her actions and indevors to him that ruleth the Sunne. This is that Calar that first bound the Crocodile to the Palme tree, briding those that sought to reigne her: This is that good Pellican, that to seed her people spareth not to rend her owne person: This is that mightic Cagle that hath throwne dust into the cies of the heart that went about to worke destruction to her subjects: into whose wings although the blind Beetle would have crept, and so being carried into her nex destroyed her young ones, yet hath she with the vertue of her seathers consumed that Flie in his owne fraud.

She hath eriled the Swallow that fought to spoile the Grashop per, and given bitter Almonds to the ravenous Wolves, that endenozed to devour the fillie Lambes, burning even with the disath of her mouth, like the princety Stagge, the Serpents that were engendered by the dreath of the huge Clephant, so that now all her enemies are as whist as the bird Accagen, who never singeth any tune after fbe is taken, no; they being fo suertaken.

But whither doe I wade Ladies, as one forgetting himselfe, thinking to sound the depth of her vertues with a fewe fadomes, when there is no bottome? for I know not how it commeth to passe, that being in this Labyrinth, I may somer lose my selfe then finde the end.

Behold Ladies, in this glasse, a Dueene, a woman, a Airgin, in in all gifts of the body, in all graces of the minde, in all perfection of either, so far to ercell all men, that I know not whether I may thinke the place to bad for her to dwell among men.

To talke of other things in that Court, were to bring Egs after Apples, or after the setting out of the Sunne, to tell a tale of a D d 2 shadow.

thavolv. But this I say, that all Offices are loked too with great care cand vertue is imbraced of all, vice hated, Religion baily increased, manners resormed, that who sæth the place there, will thinke it rather a Church so, divine service, then a Court so, a Bzinces belight.

This is the Glasse, Lavies, wherein I would have you gaze, wherein I twke my whole velight: imitate the Lavies in England, amend your manners, rub out the wankles of the mind, and be not curious about the weams in the face. As for their Elizabeth, lith ye can neither sufficiently marnell at her, nor I praise her, let us all pray for her, which is the onely butie we can performe, and the greatest that we can proffer.

Yours to command, Euphues.

IOVIS ELIZABETH.

PAllas, Iuno, Venus, cum Nimpham numineplenam, Spectarunt, nostra hæc, quæque triumphat, erit,
Contendunt auide, sie tandem regia Iuno,
Est mea, de magnis stemma petiuit auis.
Hoc leus (nec surro raprorum insunia parrum)

Hoc leue (nec sperno tantorum insignia patrum)
Ingenio pollet, dos mea, Pallas ait.

Dulce Venus rift. vultufque in lumina fixit,

Hæc mea dixit erit, nam quod ametur habet,

Iudicio Paridis, cum fit prælara venustas:

Ingenium Pallas? Iuno quid vrgit auos?
Hæc Venus : impatiens, veteris Saturnia damni,

Arbiter in colis non Paris inquiterit.

Intumuit Pallas nunquam paffura priorem,

Priamedes Helenam, dixit adulter amet.

Rifit, & erubuit, mixto Cytherea colore, Iudicium dixit Iupiter iple ferat.

Affenfere, Iouem, compellant vocibus vitro,

Incipit affari régia luno Iouem.

Jupiter, Elizabeth veftras fi venit ad aures.

(Quam certe omnino coelica turba stupent)

Hane

be nei

of

the

Hane propriam, & merito semper vit esse Nonarchum, Quæque suam namque est, pulchra, deserra, potens.
Quod pulchra, est Veneris, quod polleat arte, Minerua,
Quod Princeps, Nimpham, quis negat esse meam?
Arbiter istius, modo vis, cert aminis esto.
Sin minus, est nullum lis habitura modum.
Obstupet Omnipotens durum est quod poscitis, inquit,
Est camen arbitrio resperagenda meo.
Tu soror & coniux suno, to filia Pallas,
Es quoque, quid simulem? ter mihi chara Venus.
Nontua, da veniam suno, nec Palladis illa est,
Nec veneris, credas hoc, licet alma Venus,

Hæc Iuno, hæc Pallas, Venus hæc, & quæque Dearum. Dinifum Elizabeth cum Iouenumen habet.

Ergo quid obstrepitis? frustra contenditis inquit, Vitima vox hæc est, Elizabetha mea est,

Euphnes

Est Iouis Elizabeth, nec quid Ioue maius habendum, Et Ioue teste Ioui est Iuno, Minerua Venus.

Dese Merses Euphues sent also under his Glasse, which having once anished, hee gave himselfe to his Boke, determining to end his life in Athens, although he had a moneths minde to England: who at all times, and in all companies, was no niggard of his god speech to that nation, as one willing to live in that Court, and wedded to the maners of that Country. It chaunced, that being in Athens not passing one quarter of a yeere, he received Letters out of England from Philautus, which I thought necessarie also to insert, that I might give some end to the matters of England, which at Euphues departure were but rainly left. And thus they follow.

Philaurus to his owne Euphues.

Thane oftentimes, Euphwes, since the departure, complained of the distance of place, that I am so far from thee:of the length of time time that I could not heare of the, of the spite of Fortune that I might not send to the: but time at length, and not to late, because at last, it hath recompensed the invuries of all, offered me both a convenient messenger by whom to send, and strang newes whereof to write.

t

1 fe

bi

w

be

DE

kn

lik

to foo

ma

In

car

fur

hau

ket

Choi

aro

getl

Sent

whi

ton

rase

tleu

to n

L

beca

ing

Thou knowest bow froward matters went, when thou takest Thip, and thou wouldest maruell to beare how forward they were befoze thou troket faile: for I had not bene long in London, furs I am thou walt not then at Achens, when as the come which was græne in the blade, began to war tipe in the eare, when the feebe Tuhich I scarce thought to have taken rate, began to spring, when the loue of Surius, which haroly I would have gheffed to have a blof. fome, thetred a bud. But fo bukind a geere hath it beene in Enge land, that we felt the heate of the Sommer, befoze wee could bif. cerne the temperature of the Spring, infomuch that wee were reaby to make Way, before we could mowe graffe, having in effect the Joes of Bay, before the Calends of Barch: which fæing it is fo forward in thefe things, I marnelled the lette to fe it fo readie in matters of love, where oftentimes they clap their handes before they know the bargaine, and feale the Dbligation before they read the Condition.

At my being at the honte of Camilla, it happened I found Surius accompanied with two Knights, and the Lady Flavia with their other Ladies: drew backe', as one somewhat thame-fast, when I was willed to draw niere, as one that was wished for. Who thinking of nothing less then to heave a contract for mariage, where I onely expected a conceit of mirth, I sodainely, yet solemnly, heard those words of assurance betweene Surius and Camilla, in the which I had rather have beene a partie then a witnesse. I was not a little amazed to see them strike the Iron which I thought solve, and to make an end before I could heave a beginning. When they saw me as it werein a trance, Surius taking me by the hand, began thus to iest.

Pou muse Philaucus, to see Camilla and mee to bee assured, not that you boubted it bulkely to come to passe, but that you were ignorant of the practices, thinking the Wiall to stand still, because you cannot perceive it to move. But had you been pring to all veoses, proofes, both of her good meaning towards me, and of my god will towards her, you would rather have thought great half to be made, then long deliberation. For this understand, that my friends are unwilling that I should match so low, not knowing that love thinketh the Juniper shrubbe to be as high as the tall Dakes, or the Pinghtingales laies to bee more precious then the Estringes seathers, or the Larke that breedeth in the ground to be better then the Pobby that mountest to the clouds. I have alwaies hitherto preferd beauty before riches, and honesty before blood, knowing that birth is the praise ive receive of our Ancestors, honestie the renown we leave to our successors: and of two brittle goods, riches, and beauty, I had rather chose that which might delight mee, then destroy mee.

Made mariages by friends, how dangerous they have beene a know not, Philautus, and some present have proved, which can bee likned to nothing els so well, then as if a man should be constrained to pull on a shooe by anothers last, not by the length of his owne foot: which being too little, wrings him that wears it, not him that made it: if too big, shameth him that hath it, not him that gave it. In meates I love to carve where I like, and in mariage, shall I be carned where I like not? I had as seve another should take measure by his backe of my apparell, as appoint what wife I should haue by his minde.

In the choice of a wife, sundry men are of sundry minds, one looketh high as one that feareth no chips, saying, that the oyle that swimmeth on the top is the wholesomest: an other pozing on the ground, as dreading all dangers that happen in great stocks, alleageth, that the hony that lieth in the bottome is the sweetest. Jassent to neither, as one willing to follow the mean, thinking the wins which is in the miost to be the sness. That I might therefore match to mine of whe minde, I have chosen Camilia, a Wirgins of no noble rase, nor yet the childe of a base father, but between both, a Gentlewoman of an ancient and worthipfull house, in beauty inserious to none, in bertue superior to anymber.

Long time we loved, but neither durk these manifest her affection because I was poble; not I viter mine, so; seare of offence; seeing in her alwaies a minde more willing to carte Lorches before

Vesta

Vesta, then Tapers before luno. But as fire when it bursteth ent catcheth hold someth of the driest wood, so love when it is revealed, fastneth easiest upon the affectionate will: which came to passe in both of vs: so, talking of love, of his lawes, of his delights, torments, and all other dranches, I could neither so dissemble my liking, but that she espied it, whereat she began to sigh: or she so cloake her lone, but that I perceived it, whereat she began to blush; at the last, though long time straining courteste who should goe or ner the stile, when we had both haste, I, (so, that I knew women would rather vie then seeme to destre) began first to unfold the ertremities of my passions, the causes of my love, the constancte of my faith, the which she knowing to bee true, easile beleeved, and replied in the like manner, which I thought not certaine, not that I mispondted her faith, but that I could not perswade my selse of so good softune.

frequented more ofter to Camilla, which caused my friends to suspect that, which now they shall find true: and this loas the cause that we all meete heere, that before this good company we might knit that knot with our tongs, that we shall never bridge soith our teeth:

This was Surine speech unto me, which Camilla with the rest affirmed. But I, Euphues, in whose heart the stumpes of love were yet sticking, began to change colour, seeling as it were new stormes to arise after a pleasant culme: but thinking with my selfe that the time past to woos her that another was to wed, I vigested the will which had almost cheakt mee. But time caused mee to sing a new tune, as after thou shall heare will be a sure of a sure of sing a new tune, as after thou shall heare will be sured a sure of sing a sure of sure of sing a sure of After much talke and great there, I taking my leave, becarted, being willing to vifite the Lady Flavia at my leafure, which word was to me in thed of a welcome. To the attent of a stand a store a stand of Carithin a while after it was notice that Surius was alluted to Camilla, which beed quartels, but her like a poble Genthian, terioising more in his love, then elecaning the love of his science, many gerthem all, was in wise, not in a Chamber prinately, as one searing tumults, but openly in the Church, as one ready to answer as one objections.

This

This marriage folemnized coulde not be recalled, which canled his Allies to confent : and fo al parts pleased, I thinke them the

bappieff couple in the worlb.

Mome Euphues thou that understand, that all hope beeing eut off from obtaining Camilla, I began to vie the advantage of the most that Ladie Flavia cast out, whom I visited more like a so-iourner then a stranger, beeing absent at no time from breakfaste till enening.

Daffe was mine errand, but brink I would, my great curtely was to excule mp greewous toamets.for I cealed not continually to court my Giolet, whom I neuer found to coy as I thought, no? To curteous as I miles. Ge the laft thinking not to fpend all my wooing in Agnes, I fell to flat laying:revealing the bitter fweets that 3 fullaineb, the top at ber prefence, the greefe at ber ablence, with all fpeeches that a Louer might frame: the not begenerating from the wiles of a woman, feemed to accuse men of inconftancie, p their painted words were but wind, that fained fighs were but fleights, that al their lone was but to laugh, laying baits to catch the fift that they meant again to throw into the River, practiling onely cunning to beceive not curtelle to tell truth : wherein thee compared all Louers to Mizaldos, the Poet, which was fo light, that every wind would blowe him away, unleffe he had Lead tied cobis beeles, and to the Fugicine flone in Cicico, which runneth away if it be not fattened to fome polle. Thus would fee bally, a wenchenermoze giuen to luch vilport : I anlweren for my felfe as I could, and for al men as I thought.

Thus oftentimes had we conference, but no conclution, many meetings, but few pattimes, but if at the last Surius, one that could quickly perceive on which side my bread was buttered, began to breake with me touching Frauncis, not as though he had heard any thing, but as one that would understand something. I durit not feem strage when I found him so curreous, knowing that in this matter be might almost work al my liking.

I bufolded to him from time to time the whole discourse I had with my Atolet, my carnest delire to obtaine her, my lands, goods, and revenues: who hearing my tale, promised to further my sute, wherin he is so bestirred his study, that within one mouth I was

æ e

in pollbilitie to haue ber I moft wilhed and leaft looked for.

It were too too long to write an hiltory, being but determined to lend a Letter: therefore I will deferre all the actions & action to the that happened, but I occasion that lerne either to meet thee, or minister leasure to mee. To this end it grew, that conditions drawne for the performance of a certaine Joynter (for the which I had many Italians bound) we were both made as sure as Surius and Camilla.

Her vowzie was in ready money a thoulad pounds, and a faire boule wherein I meane hozely to dwell. The Iopnter I mult make, is foure hundred pounds yeerely, the which I mult beere purchale in England, and fell my lands in Bralie.

Mow Euphues imagine with the lelle, that Philautus beginneth to change : although in one yeer to marry, and to this is it be hard. But would I might once againe fee thee beere, unto whom thou

Spatt be no telle welcome then to thy bell friend,

Surius that noble Gentleman commendeth him buto thee, Camilla forgetteth thee not both earnefily wish thy returne, with great promises to doe thee good, whether thou wish it in y Courte or in the Country and this I durit sweare, that if thou come agains into England, thou will bee so friendly increased, y either thou wilt altogether Dwel brere,or carry beere longer.

The Lady Flavia faluteth thee, and also my Cliolet, every one witheth thee so well, ythou cant with the selfe no better. Dither newes heere is none, but y which little appertaineth to mee and nothing but thee. Two requests Jam to make, as wel fro Surius as my selfe, the one to come into England the other to heare thine answer. And thus in halle I bid you farwell. From London the first of februarie. 1579.

Thine, or not his owne,

This Letter being belivered to Euphues, and wel peruled, caufed him both to meruaile a to toy, feeing al things to frangely concluded, and his friend to happily contracted having therefore by the same meanes opportunity to send aunswere, by the which be had pleasure to receive newes, he dispatched his letter in this forme.

Euphues

Euphues to Philautus,

Dere could nothing baue come out of England to Euphues. moze welome then thy Letters, bnleffe it had been thy perfon:which when I hav throughly perufed , I coulde not at the firft either beleeue them for the frangenelle,or at platt for the happines:for bpon the fundaine to beare luch alteratios of Surius, palled all credite, and to unberffand fo featunate fuccelle to Philamus, all expectation: pet confidering that many things fal between the cap and the lippe, that in one lucky houre, more rare things come to paffe, then fometimes in leaven peeres, that mar. riages are made in beauen,though confummated in earth. I mas brought both to beleeue the euents, & to allow them. Couching Surius, and Camilla, there is no boubt but that they both wil line well in mariage, who loued to well befoze their matching:and in my mind be realt both wifely & bonorably to prefer bertue before bain glozy and the goodly ornaments of bertue, before the rich armour of nobilty: for this mult we allthink (bow well lo enec wee think of our felues) that bertue is most noble, by the which men became firft noble. As for thine owne effate, 3 will bee bolbe ta counfell thee, knowing it never to be more necessary to ble abnife then in marriage. Solon gaue counfaile, that before one affureb himfelfe, be fould bee fo warie that in tring himfelfe fall, he bib not bnooe himfelf, wilhingthem firft to cate a Duince peare, that is, to have a fweet conference without brauls; theufalt, to be wife without boalting. In Boetia they couered the Brive with Afpara. gonia, the nature of which plant is, to bring fweete fruit out of a tharp thoane, whereby they noted that although the birgin were fom what the with at pfirft, vet in time thee might become a thep. Therefore Philautus, if thy Cliolet feeme in the firt month either to chive or chafe, thou muft beare without reply, a endure with patience, for they that cannot luffer the wranglings of young maried women, are not bulike to thole, that talling the grape to be fowge befoge it bee ripe, leane to gather it when it is ripe, refembling them & being dung with the Be, foglake the bonny. T ben

CE 2

HOE'D

Thou must ble freet words not bitter checks: and though baypilpebou mile fay that wands be to be wrought when they are greene leaft they rather breake then bend when they be biy, pet know allo that he that benneth a twig because hee would fee if it would both by firength, may change to have a crooked cree, when he woulde have a fraight. It is prettly noted of a contention between the wind and the bun, who thould have the bictory. I gencleman walking abzoad, the wind thought to blow off his cloak, which with great blatts and blufterings, frining to buloofe it, made it to fitch fafter to bis back, for the more the wind increased the closer the cloake class to bis bobie: then the fun thining with his bote beames, began to warme the Bentleman , who waring fommbat fains in this faire weather, Die not only put off his cloak but his caste, which the wind perceining , reelbeb the conqueft to the Sun. In like manner farech it with roung wines, for if their bulkands with great threatmings, with fars, with brauls, feek to make them tractable,orbend their hnees, p more friffe they make them in the topnes, the offiner they go about by force to rule them, the more froward they find them: but bling miloe wordes, gentle perfmations, familiar countell , intreatte, lubmillion, they thall not only make the to boto their knees, but to bould up their have: not only cause them to honoz them, but to tano in awe of them: foz their Romachs are al framed of Diamod, which is not to be byufer wich a hammer, but blood, not by force but flatterie; refembling the Cock, tobo is not to be feared by a Serpet, but a Gleav. Thep that feare their Clines wil make too farpe wine, muft not cut the armes, but graffnert to them Denvrage, which caufeth the grape to be moze plealant. They o feare to have curft wines mult not with rigour feeme to reclaime them, but laying gentle words in every place by them, which maketh them more quiet.

Intruments found fweetest when they be touched foftest: women are wifest when they are vied milvest. The hope triueth when he is hardly rained, but having the bridle, never streeth i women are statke mad if they be ruled by might, but with a gensle rainethey will beare a white mouth. Gall was cast out from the factifice of lund, which betokened that the marriage bedde

Could be without bitternelle.

Thou mult be a glaffe to thy wife, for in the face mul fin fee ber ownerfor if when thou laughe the giggle, the one in a manifelding the belighteth it o other is a taken the acipulothe beer. Be in the behaviour perate, laber: for as thou framed thy manners, to will the act if a fit bers. Lings that be mettlere, caule their fubiecces co exercife that feate: Princes that are Bulletons, incite their people to vie Instruments: Dulbanos that are that and goody, cause also their wines to imitate their goods

For the great downie, that ought to be in thine own bands, for as wee call that wine wherein there is more then balle water, to Doe me tearm that the goods of the bulband, which his wife beingeth,thoughte be all. an infinolen briting gift infatte otial ? Helen gaped for his goods, Paris for pleafure. Vliffes mas content with thaff Peneloperlo let it be mith thee, that mhatfoener others marry for, be thou almaies latiffice with vertue, other wife may I ble that fpeech to thee that Olimpias bib to a pong & man, who onely tooke a wife for beauty, faying: this Gentleman hath only married his eyes, but by that time be bath also wended bis care her will confelle that a faire those wrings, though it ber imooth in the wearing

Lycurgus made a Lawe that there hould bee no bowr giner with maybens, to the end that the vertuous might be married. who commonly have little, not the amozous, who oftentimes have too much.

Behaue the felle movelly with the wife before company, remembring the lenerity of Caro, who removed Manlius from the Senate, for that be was leene to kille bis wife in prefence of bis baughter:olo men are felbome merry before chiloren, leaft their laughter might breed in them loofenes: bulbands fold fearce ielt before their wines, leaft want of mobelty on their parts, be caufe of wantonnelle on their wives part. I mitate the bings of Perlia, who when they were given to root, kent no company with their. wines, but when they bled good ogner, babtbeir Ducens euer at the Table Gine no example of lightnellen for tooke what thou practifeft mott, that wil the wife folio me mott, though it becommeth her leaft. And yet mould I not have the mife focusious to pleale pleafe thee, that fearing leaft ber bulband thould thinke the painced ber face, the thoulo not therefore mail to, onety let ber refraine from luch things, as the knoweth cannot wel like thee : bee that commeth before an Elephant, will not weare bright colours, noz he that commeth coa Bull, red, nor he that fandeth by a Erger, play on a Caber:to; that by the light or noile of thefe things; thep are commonly much incented. Juthe like manner, there is no wife if thee be bonett, that will practife thole thinger, that to her mate that feeme bifpleafant, og moone bim to choler . Bethaifty, and warp in thy expences : for in oldetime they were as foone condemned by Lawe, that fpent their wines vow;ie provigatty, as they that bindiced them wrongfully. Flie that vice that is peculiar, to al thole of thy Country, Jealouffe; for if thou lufpect without caufe, it is the next way to have caufe, women are to be ruled by their owne wits, for be they chaft, no golve can winne them, if poeff, no griefe can ameno them, lo that all miffruit is either mesvelelle or bootelefferigm O sads, auft is dausy

De not too imperious oder her, that will make her to hate thee, not too bemille, that wil caule her to bilbaine thee, let her neither he thy flavenor thy loueraigne, for if the lie under thy foot the wil never love thee, if clime above thy bead, never care for thee; the one will breede thy flame to love her to livele, the other thy greef to fuffer too much.

In governing thise bouthold, seethine own epe, and her hand: for Hulwiferie confliteth as much in feeing thinges as fettling things, and pet in that goe not about the latchet, for Cookes are not to be taught in the kitchen, nor Painters in their hoppes, nor butwines in their houles. Let al the keyes hang at her girole, but the purfe at thine la halt than knowe what then boeff frend, and bow the can space; at the last than knowe what then boeff frend, and Breake norting of the flocke, for as the flone Thirreneus being whole fwimmeth, but never to little viminished, finketh to the bottome to a man haning his flock full, is ever a-floate, but watting of his flore becommeth bank cupt.

Ontertain such men as that be trutte : for if thou keepe a wolfe within the boors to voe mischiefe, or a for to worke traft & sub-tiltie, thou that finde it as perilous, as if in the Barne thou shot-

ÍS

gı

PE

m

A

bell maintaine Dice, and in the ground Boales, some

Let thy Daivens be luch as thall feeme readier to take paines, then follow pleafure, willinger to dreffe up their boule then their heads, not to fine fingered to call for a Lute, when they hand ble a distaste, nor to daintie mouthed, that their liken throats hold smallow no packthreed. If or thy diet, he not sumptuous, nor per simpletfor thy active, not collie, nor yet clownish but cutting thy coate by thy cloath, goe no further then thall become thy estate, least thou be thought proude, a so enview nor behale not thy birth least thou be deemed poore, and so pictied.

Mow thou art come to that honourable estate, sometal the some mer sollies, and debate with the selse, that heretosore their dids but goe about the world, and that now thou art come into it, that love did once make thee to follow riot, that it must now ensore thee to pursue thrist, that then there was no pleasure to be compared to the courting of Ladies, that now there can bee no delight greater then to have a wife. Commend me humbly to that noble man Surius, andto bis good Labie Camilla.

Let my buty to the Lavie Flavia be remembred, and to thy Miolet: let nothing that may be appended be forgotten. Thou wouldelt have me come againe into England, I would, but I cannot: but if thou vellre to lee Suphues, when then art willing to vilte thine Unkle, I will meete the einchome ane leason, knowe that it is agfarre from Athens to England, as from England buto Athens.
Then laielt I am much wished for, that many fagre promises are made to me: Trulie Philaums, I know that a friend in the Court is better then a penny in the purse, but yet I have heard, that such a friend cannot be gotten michaut pence. Haire mordes fat sewe, great promises, without performance, velight for the time, but yearke ever after. I cannot but thanke Surius, who wisheth me well, and all those that at my being in England liked mee well
And so with my heartie commendation untill I heare from thee,
I bid thee farewell.

Thine to vie, if mariage change not manners, Euphues.

140000

Euphues andhis England.

Dis Letter offsetchev, Eaphues gave himlelfe to folitarinelle, vetermining is forourne in some vacouch place, until time might carne white falt into sine Sugar: so; surelie hee was both to mente in boote, and grieved in mind. And so 3 leave him neither in Athens, not elsewhere that I know: but this other he lest with his seienves, that if any newes came of Letters, that they mouth vices them to the Mount of Silixsedra, where I leave him, either to his multing of Pules.

Catlemen, Euphuesis musing in the bottome of the moun-Itaine Silissedra, Philautus is married in the Ile of England: ewo friends parted, the one lining in the delights of his new wife,

the other in contemplation of his olo griefes.

Canat Philaucus both, they can imagine that are newly mariet, boto Euphues liveth, they may quelle that are cruelly martyzed: I commit them both to fland to their own bargaines, for if I hold medble any further with the marriage of Philautus, it might hapville make him tealous, if with the melancholie of Euphues, it might caufe him to be cholericke, fo the one would take occasion torub his bead. At his bat never fo clote, and the other offence to gall bis beart, be bis cale neuer lo quiet. I Gentlewomen,am indifferent, for it may bee that Philaurus woulde not have his life knowne which he leaveth in marriage, noz Euphues his love bifcried which be beginneth in folitarines-leaft either the one being too kind, might be thought to boat, or the other too conflant, might be inprepen be mabbe. But were the trueth knowne, I am fure Genelewomen,it moule be a bard quettion among Labies, whether Philaunis were a better wover or a bulban, whether Euphues were a better louer oz a Scholler. But let the one marke the other. Tleane them both to conferre at their next meeting, and commit you to the Almightie.